

WALLOWA SLAYER IS BELIEVED CAUGHT

Angus McBain, Arrested in Canada, May Be 'James G.'

MAN HELD FOR SHERIFF

Extradition to Be Sought—Slaying Committed Fifteen Years Ago.

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 19.—(Special.)—James H. McBain, 45 years old, charged with the murder of two brothers named Trost in Wallowa county, Oregon, in 1905, and for several years a rancher in the Grande Prairie district, was arrested by Constable Powers of the Alberta police yesterday, just as he was about to leave Spirit river to join his family in this city.

McBain's arrest was effected as a result of the work of Constable Powers, who has been in the north country for the last nine months.

Accused Man Shadowed. Information received by Powers was to the effect that McBain was believed to be the man wanted in Wallowa county for the murder of the two brothers no less than 15 years ago. A careful watch of the man was carried on, a full description as to his general makeup being later forwarded to the police in Wallowa county.

Immediately following the man's arrest, information concerning the action was sent to the United States authorities, the police asking that a sheriff be sent to Edmonton by the first outgoing train.

Description Is Fitted. Although McBain denies he is the man wanted, the Alberta police here declare that the description furnished by the Wallowa county police authorities confirms their opinion that they have the wanted man.

The only action that the local police will take from now on will be to place McBain in the cells of the Edmonton jail to await the arrival of the Wallowa county sheriff, who will institute proceedings for extradition. The police here state that McBain had been in the Peace river country for some time and that while dealing in cattle he had also been an employe on Northern Railway construction work.

Evidently the alleged murderer is known in Oregon as James G. McBain.

TROST BROTHERS MURDERED

Two Indictments for Slaying Returned Against McBain.

ENTERPRISE, Or., Feb. 19.—(Special.)—James H. McBain is wanted for the murder of the Trost brothers in Grossman, northern part of Wallowa county April 10, 1905. McBain came to this county from Grand Junction, Colo., in March of that year and selected a piece of government land in a district not yet open to entry. He then went back to Colorado, and in his absence Charles Trost came from the same place and selected a piece of land on the same tract. McBain had wanted a brother, Theodore Trost, had previously settled in the neighborhood. When advised that the others had settled on the land, McBain came back from Colorado and hastened to Grossman. He found the two brothers on the disputed and shot and killed both of them. When arrested he claimed he had killed them in self-defense after they had refused to leave the land but at the trial the circumstantial evidence was produced to support the state's contention that he had hidden behind a log and shot them from across the river.

Two indictments were returned against McBain, one for the murder of each of the brothers. He was tried on one indictment at a special term of the circuit court, and on May 20, 1905, was found guilty of murder in the second degree on a compromise verdict, and sentenced to life imprisonment. After a few years, however, he was pardoned and immediately disappeared. The second indictment has recently been returned and a search for the man had been conducted quietly ever since.

LOVE COULDN'T BE BOUGHT

Schuebel's office and confronted with the complainant. They had had some words two days before the suit was filed and he complained, he said, when she would not get up and have breakfast with him and told her she had two girls in the house and little to do.

Girls Then Are Dismissed. "I don't care whether the girls stay here or not," the witness testified his wife had said, so he dismissed them. She asked, he said, what he would personally receive from the sale of his stock, in the event the suit should be sold, and when he told her the amount would be $110,000 she appeared to be disappointed because it would not be more. His wife had told him, he said, that her father had threatened to "blow his head off" because he had heard that Willard had struck his wife at Love and that he went to Portland to see his father-in-law, C. E. Praker, and brought him home to Sunday dinner, with Mr. and Mrs. Miles, the latter being his wife's sister. They had a fine dinner and everything was pleasant, said Mr. Hawley.

"Have you seen your baby since the suit was filed?" asked Mr. Allen.

"Yes, every day. About a month ago I went to the house and the baby was ill, I thought, so I called two physicians and found the child had a fever with a temperature of 102.3, and installed a trained nurse, who was with her nine days."

"How was your wife dressed since this trial started?" asked the attorney.

"She is wearing the poorest clothes she has," declared Mr. Hawley, glancing at the plaintiff, a few feet away. Shortly before the trial started this afternoon C. D. Latourrette commenced to cross-examine the defendant, who described his first meeting with Mrs. Hawley. He said he fell in love with her at eight and induced Oscar Woodfin to introduce them at her home. After he had known her three weeks he told her he loved her, he saw her every day and in four months they were engaged and were married two months later.

"Did you ever have any spots before you were engaged?" asked Mr. Latourrette.

"No, I had one just before Christmas and I debated whether I would send her a box of candy or not and I finally did."

"It didn't cost much?" suggested the attorney.

"Oh, no, about $18 or $20," replied Willard.

"Did you do your best before this suit was filed to patch things up with Marjorie?" said Latourrette.

"No, I did my best," Willard replied.

"Some of our kisses lasted longer to the police than I can remember," he replied to the defendant.

"When they were the real thing like Mr. Latourrette experienced in the case of you," observed Allen, referring to one of the plaintiff's attorneys.

Ending Terms Recalled. "Before we were married she called me Dear Heart and Lover Doll, and she called me Loveman after marriage. I called her Baby Doll quite a bit on account of her round baby face."

"Then you found her to be the real kissing bug of all the girls you have ever had?"

AMERICAN FOREIGN TRADE ENDANGERED

Secretary of Commerce Is Against Cut in Funds.

FOREIGN ATTACHES TO GOVERNMENT

United States Would Be Badly Handicapped in Commercial War, Declares Alexander.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 19.—American trade with the world is endangered by the action of the appropriations committee in cutting the foreign trade estimates of the department of commerce from $1,558,000 to $400,000, Secretary Alexander declared today.

"This is the most serious blow ever aimed from within at our foreign trade," the secretary said. "The amount allowed is only one-half of the appropriation now used."

"At the very time when European and Japanese governments are striving strenuously to perfect their trade-promoting machinery through enormous increases of appropriations, this bill proposes to scrap the American machine, the most effective and smoothest running that any government has ever been able to assemble."

"America will be handicapped," Alexander said. "It has won the world advantage in exchange rates, this bill proposes to handicap American manufacturers by practically withdrawing the helping hand of the government. Almost on the day when our merchant marine becomes a fact, it is virtually annihilated by this trade bill."

"The great markets of the east will return a thousand-fold every dollar this government spends there," he said. "The effect of the bill is the abolition of the department's commercial attaches and the reduction in the number of foreign trade commissioners despite the rapidly changing conditions in Europe and the critical construction departments with which they have kept American manufacturers in touch."

"As a result of the cut in appropriations," he said, "District offices must be abolished in New York, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans, San Francisco, Seattle, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Dayton, Los Angeles and Portland, Or."

Commercial Attaches to Go. "The bill aims to abolish the commercial attaches entirely," Secretary Alexander said. "This service was established in 1914 at the request of American business. It has won the approval and respect of American business. As now conducted, it costs $155,000, a trifling and inadequate sum. There is not an office in the service that does not turn in more than that every year in actual business and the contracts by American interests at this critical period will be withdrawn preemptively within three months and dismissed."

"If this bill is passed as it stands I shall have to close up almost all the district and co-operative offices in this country. The cutting off of help dollars and cents, twelve commercial attaches—men trained and experienced in commercial and economic matters—who are at present attached to embassies and legations in a dozen foreign capitals where they are charged specifically and solely with the promotion of American business interests at this critical period will be withdrawn preemptively within three months and dismissed."

Brother and Sister Reunited. MARTINEZ, Cal., Feb. 19.—(Special.)—After 45 years J. F. Harrow, a resident of this place, and a sister, Mrs. E. E. Sailor, of Junction City, Or., were reunited when Mrs. Sailor came here to visit her relatives. Another sister, Mrs. M. Sunnafrank, also came to be present at the reunion.

U. S. Liquor Warehouses Proposed. WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Government warehouses for storage of distilled spirits, as adjuncts to enforcing prohibition, would be authorized under a bill introduced today by Senator Warren, republican, Wyoming.

SURVEYORS-GENERAL HIT

COMMITTEE WOULD ABOLISH OFFICE IN OREGON.

Nine Subtreasuries Also Would Be Eliminated in Effort to Reduce National Expenses.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Abolition of the nine sub-treasuries, the offices of 15 state surveyors-general and two assay offices is proposed in the legislative appropriation bill, reported yesterday by the house appropriations committee. Reduction of $1,000,000 from department estimates for clerk hire and miscellaneous expenses was made, but the bill's total of $104,129,000 is one of the largest peace-time legislative appropriations on record.

Several new items, including $42,824,000 for the internal revenue bureau for collecting taxes and enforcing the national prohibition; $11,324,000 for the war-risk insurance bureau and $5,900,000 for the decennial census, largely account for the high total.

The sub-treasuries which would be abolished at the end of this year are at Baltimore, New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco. The surveyors-general to be discarded on June 30 next would include those in Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, Wyoming and Alaska. The assay offices at Deadwood, S. D., and Salt Lake City, Utah, also would be discarded.

No new government services are established by the bill, and the request of the department to complete the enlargement of the foreign and domestic commerce bureau by appointment of additional field agents in the Pacific states to complete the American and new European countries was denied.

HOOVER PLEA EFFECTIVE

$52,000 Raised in Few Minutes for Suffering Hungarians.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Members of the New York Fur Auction corporation contributed $52,000 today within a few minutes after Herbert Hoover had made an appeal for relief for the starving population of Hungary. The contribution will become part of the food fund being obtained by the American committee on relief of Hungarian sufferers.

Silver foxes started in the selling. The best pelts brought up to $720 each and showed advances of 20 to 25 per cent over the corresponding prices paid at the fall sale. The best red foxes brought $71 each, eastern and central skins showing advances of 15 per cent. About $800,000 was realized from the sale of the grand total to date up to $4,500,000.

Improperly Is Alleged. Senator Stanley, democrat, Kentucky, replying to Senator Sherman, declared the Illinois senator had violated every propriety by some of his references. "The breach of a protest from Senator Townsend, republican, Michigan, who said the facts in the Newberry case would be disclosed during the trial," Senator Sherman should refrain from any discussion of it.

Sherman Is Rebuked. The Illinois senator was taken sharply to task by Senators Stanley and Walcott, of Delaware, both democrats, who declared he had violated senate decorum, the latter charging that Senator Sherman had been "addressing a jury in Michigan," for which he would have been in contempt of court if done in that setting. "I may say," said the senator, "that I regard the Ford automobile as an international post. It destroys more useful material than any other sinkhole in the world. It is a waste of time and substance."

"The government at best," he continued, "has become a philanthropic institution for the benefit of Mr. Ford. It continually is engaged in promoting his interests financially and politically."

The senator declared Ford had found the federal government machinery inadequate, however, in securing the Michigan senatorial case and that "literally hundreds of Ford's private agents" were swarming about the Grand Rapids trial, "scrutinizing every nook and corner within a hundred miles of the courtroom."

In some ways, Senator Sherman said, he regretted that Mr. Ford did not become a senator, "for a greater refrigerator for his effervescent brain than the land for private purposes and adding that nothing would "burn him better than talking to empty benches."
