EX-SOLDIERS' VIEWS ON BONUS SOUGHT

Mass Meeting to Be Held in Armory Tonight.

LEGION ASKS SENTIMENT

Early Action by Congress on Bills Providing Compensation Aim of Posts' Acts.

Former soldiers, sallors and marines who believe, or do not believe, that the government of the United States owes them a bonus for war service, putting them on a more equitable financial basis with the man who stayed at home and prospered commercially are invited to a mass meeting to be held at the armory. Tenth and Couch streets, at 8 o'clock tonight, under the auspices of Portland post of the American Legion.

"We will get the sentiment of the average service man at this meeting," declared Cassius R. Feck, commander of Portland post, last night, "and be in a position to speak for the majority of ex-service men in Portland, whether members of the American Legion or not, in the representations which we shall make to congress.

"The American Legion has come out flat-footed for a bonus of some sort, preferably $50 a month per month of service, payment to be made in form of bonds. We do not wish to bankrupt the government and this is not the intention of the recommendations made to congress by the national executive committee of the legion. But we do want action on the mass of soldier legislation pending.

"If all that our representatives."

Quick Action Wanted.

"If all that our representatives have been waiting for is an expression of opinion from the American Legion as to the form of bonus preferred, that expression has been given. If it was hoped that needless delay would defeat all bills pending and make no provision for ex-service men, the national activity of legion posts on the question of a bonus will make dilatory taggies unhealthy for posts on the question of a bonus will make dilatory tactics unhealthy for senators and representatives." No man who honorably wore the uniform of the United States during the world war will be barred from tonight's meeting. Portland post already has telegraphed congressmen from Oregon of the sentiment in favor of a bonus as expressed at the meeting of the post last Monday meeting of the post last Monday night.
