Anderson Holds Own in Hot 10-Round Draw.

MANY BETS ARE CASHED

Four Draws and but One Decision Feature Fast Card of Portland Boxing Commission.

Boxing Results.

MAINE EVENT. Joe Benjamin vs. Freddie Anderson, ten rounds, draw.

SEMI-WINDUP. Puggy Morton vs. Frankie Rogers, ten rounds, draw.

OTHER BOUTS. Stanley Willis decision over Fred Gilbert, ten rounds.

W. Gleason vs. Jimmy Duffy, six rounds, draw.

Ed. Hilde decision over Earl Conners, four rounds.

Joe Benjamin made his reappearance in a Portland ring last night at the Heilig theater after a successful invasion of the east and boxed a six-fight, 10-round draw decision bout with Freddie Anderson of Vancouver, Wash.

Joe may have learned two or three kinds of English and how to chin himself on a lognette while on the other side of the Mississippi, but the Spokane lightweight didn't learn much, judging from his showing last night. In fact, about three-quarters of the crowd will agree that Joe didn't box as well as he did before he left the coast.

He seemed to forget he had a left hand after the fourth or fifth round, relying altogether on his right, which seemed to be the only Mexican ammunition. Anderson began coming strong after the fifth round, and at the finish he had the 1000 boxing fans in a frenzy. Three-quarters of them will swear that he should have been awarded the decision. If there was an edge he had it, perhaps, but it wasn't sufficient to give him the bout.

Anderson Stands "Gaff." The Vancouver lightweight showed to very good advantage.

He is shifty on his feet, keeps his head well out of the way, widens his shoulders and brings his hands in close to his face and nose, and stands "gaff" like a bit of pig iron.

He weighed 133 pounds. Benjamin tipped the beam nearly two pounds overweight.

A great deal of money had been bet on the outcome of this main event of the card put on by the Portland city boxing commission and the Anderson backers almost all predicted a failure at the finish when Benjamin held Freddie's arm in such a way that Referee Perle Casey scarcely could raise it to give him the bout.

If these boys ever meet again they will draw a packed house anywhere.

Every bout on the card was a hummer. In the semi-windup Puggy Morton, Los Angeles lightweight, got a draw decision over the ten-rounder Frankie Rogers of Seattle.

Morton might easily have been awarded the bout. The boys battled fairly evenly until the eighth round, which went to Morton by a slight edge. In the ninth, he exhibited a good left hand that kept peppering away at a bad cut opened over Rogers' right eye. It was an excellent bout.

Head Boxer Loses. Stanley Willis of Portland won a ten-round decision over Fred Gilbert of Bend in the American Legion club. He was lazy and his style not all convincing, but he packs a lusty wallop, and until the closing rounds held his own with the younger fighter.

W. Gleason of Tacoma and Jimmy Duffy of Aberdeen, at 130 pounds, boxed a six-round draw. Gleason did most of the leading, but had a slight edge. In the curtain-raiser Ted Hoke of Portland won a four-round decision over Earl Conners of Tacoma.

Market scalpers had a good time at the entrance before the show as thick as hairs in a toupee and a great many who would qualify this morning for membership in the Mattie club. Nobody wanted their wares at proffered prices and $2 cents were selling at $1 before the curtain-raiser ended.

The Meehan versus Walker bout at the Milwaukee stadium will be staged March 17 and not April 17 as shown on the programme.

CHAMPION "JACK" ABUSES NAME OF "NONPARIEL"

Real "Jack" Lies in Portland Cemetery, While One Who Would Emulate Him Is Indicted in South as Slacker.

BY ROSCOE FAWCETT.

SEVERAL days ago we had occasion to refer to the nicknames that are hung onto the various athletic stars by their admiring henchmen. One's typewriter fairly tinkled with such euphonious monikers as "Big Six," "The Georgia Peach," "The Comet," "The Terrible Turk," who isn't terrible; "Lil' Artha," who weighs 225 pounds; "The Glants," "The Braves" and the whatnots.

There are always some who think the Sport Record book is the Third Testament and the successful athlete a guardian of the sacred gate. These members of the fish tribe would drive three ouzel boards tandem to get close enough to hail their favorite hero by his hand-perfumed title.

We feel sorry for them, but not annoyed, for they do nobody harm. But there is a rash that has broken out in pugilism and elsewhere that ought to be cured, to-wit: The adoption by aspiring and not always scrupulous athletes of the names of famous predecessors.

The champion's real name is scratched on the family Gideon as "William Harrison Dempsey." Yet early in his fist career he adopted the title "Jack Dempsey," with a view, perhaps, of "borrowing" from some of the reflected glory of an old-time boxer who always fought on the square and who never would be dodged behind an affidavit or a ship's davit to squeeze out of military service when his country needed him.

Jack Dempsey, the only and original Jack, whose body lies in a Portland cemetery. And how the crowning curse of Commerce building, Tuesday night, at which time some 300 friends of the club members were entertained right royally. Leader of the Young Men's Christian association gave an exhibition of the different wrestling holds used by past and present champions.

Hansen will represent the club in the national championship tournaments. Ray Lawrence and Hickman of the army, both 200-pounders, put on a close fight in the Lewis county. Carpenter's marriage will mark the culmination of a romance of many years. The bride-to-be originally resided in the Lewis county. Carpenter's boyhood home. They have known each other since childhood.

Lately there have been many rumors of Carpenter's engagement to a wealthy young widow, a foreigner, with whom Carpenter danced often at one of the leading hotels of Paris. A close friend of Carpenter said the pugilist might have been a successful suitor for the widow's hand had he chosen, but he decided to remain true to his boyhood love. The widow, who is 24 years old, has a fortune, estimated at more than 20,000,000 francs.

Carpenter's bride will accompany him to America when he sails March 15.

APACHES DEFEAT INVINCIBLES

Basketball Clash, Featured by Shooting, Won 15 to 13.

The Apache Bible club of the Y. M. C. A. defeated the Invincibles 15 to 13, in their basketball clash on the "Y" floor.

The shooting of West and Fall was the feature of the game. This shooting was the big factor in the victory of the Apaches. Benson, Hanson and Wilkins showed that they belonged in the all-star class for guarding.

Mick and Gartner co-starred for the losers, the former being the high-point man of the game.

WOLTER'S RELEASE WEAKENS RODGERS

Loss of Outfielder Said to Be Felt by Sacramento.

Noted Tennis Coach Resigns.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—Sidney K. Marvin, noted for his work in coaching and developing state tennis stars, has resigned as coach of the California Lawn Tennis association.

Wolter is now weaker than he was when the sultry outfielder wore a Yip uniform. Wolter was traded to Seattle for "Compt" Cowhit, last season, but is neither the hitter nor the fielder that Wolter is, and that is not saying much for Wolter in the fielding department. Wolter's batting average, however, was .329.

Rodgers couldn't get along with Wolter, else he never would have consented to the trade. Now Wolter is sulking and holding out on the Seattle club.

The Sacramento lineup shows: Catchers—Cody, Schanz, Cook. Pitchers—Prough, Mills, Mitchell, Penner, Larkin, O'Donnell, Watson, Brandon, McNally, Molwitz.

First base—Molwitz. Second base—McGuffigan. Shortstop—Molwitz. Third base—Stuff.

Outfield—Middletown, Eldred, Compton. In Eldred Sacramento has one of the most valuable outfielders in the Coast league. He hit .311 last year and stole 41 bases.

Molwitz is a tall, rangy fellow, standing 6 feet 2 inches tall. He is the ideal build for a first-sacker. He has been in the major leagues for several seasons. He did not hit much with the Indians last year, due to eye trouble, but in 1918 he whacked the leather at a .270 clip, besides fielding .990.

Molwitz should prove a valuable member of the Yippers.

Years ago when Seattle first tried out coast league baserunner Wilson and Jay Hughes were battery mates. These same old familiar names will appear in box scores around San Francisco this year, with the "r" tacked behind them. Young Parke Wilson will try out with the Seals, while Jay Hughes Jr. is playing ball at "Frisco" Edwards has been signed by Bill Leard for the Pacific International league.

Good southpaws are hard to get. The coast league southpaws who may stand the batters on their ears are: Los Angeles—Curly Brown, Thomas and Paul Fittery; Vernon, Willie Mitchell; Salt Lake, Levern and Cullip; Sacramento, Walter Mills; San Francisco, Bob Steele and Bert Cole; Seattle, Ernie Schorr; Portland, Dunning and Schroeder; Oakland, Krause.

Sam Stuart, the big outfield recruit who goes south for a whack at Coast league ball with the Portland club, spent six years in the army. He says he played in the Spokane city league in 1914. Judge McCredie thought Stuart was a youngster until he looked him over. Now he is wondering if Stuart is too old to begin playing league baseball. He is a big fellow, and has the actions denoting speed, and if he can hit as like and others testify, he may surprise the Mucks.

Missing: One Pacific Coast league schedule. Finder please notify President W. H. McCarthy, San Francisco. Schedules for games in both the National and American leagues have been out for some time, but the Pacific Coast league fans are still awaiting promulgation of the 1930 Coast schedule of games.

This year the Coast schedule is later than ever before, and some of the fans are wondering if the president has not mislaid the precious document.

LINCOLN TROUNCES JEFFERSON, 20-1

HIH Cadets to Meet Columbia Five Today if Hospital List Gives Up Victims.

Interscholastic League Standings.

Coach Kenneth Irie's Lincoln high school basketball team removed another obstacle in their path to the interscholastic basketball championship yesterday afternoon, when they downed the Jefferson high five on the Young Men's Christian Association floor by a score of 20 to 1. With the victory over the blue and gold yesterday the Railsplitters jumped into third place in the league standing, with six games won and one defeat.

Taking the lead at the start of the game the Lincoln five held it throughout the rest of the contest, with the exception of once during the latter part of the first half when Jefferson jumped to the front by the narrow margin of one point. The first period, which ended 11 to 8 in favor of the Railsplitters, was close and hard-fought, and was featured by long, sensational shots from the center.

Bill Beck, Lincoln forward, who played a great all-around game, was responsible for six of the Railsplitters' points in the first session. The other five were made by Leggett and Wright, the former scoring a long consolation basket from the center of the floor and the latter going a field basket and converting one foul.

Democrats Hook Five Baskets. For Jefferson, Coulter, Goodell, Watson and Steele each connected for one field basket in the first half, while Coulter added another two points to the Democrats' score in the second period. By closing the game, one free throw, which was the extent of the blue and gold five's scoring in the second session.

By closing the game, the part of Ted Steffen, who watched Louis Coulter, the speedy Jefferson forward, like a hawk and held him down to two field baskets during the entire game, the Railsplitters were able to pile up a substantial lead in the second period.

Rough playing featured the game and fouls were called freely by Referee Smith.

For the losers, Louis Coulter was high point man with two field baskets, while Steele and "Push" Watson showed up well on the defense.

It would be hard to pick an individual star among the Lincoln players, as they all worked well together, but the choice had to be made the great all-around player of the game, who put up his greatest game of the season, could not be overlooked.

Wright Lincoln High Man. Dave Wright was high-point man for the Lincoln five, with three field baskets and two converted free throws, while Captain Irve Cole dropped two shots through the hoop.

Coach Esten of the Hill Military academy team has enough players for the hospital list to make up a team today, the Cadets will clash with the Columbia University five. The Hill quietest has been Billy Beck, who luck all season, losing first one player and then another. Homer Hayden and Tom Pollard at the latest playing center to be put on the running.

Washington has an easy game tomorrow afternoon with the local high school of Commerce five. Both the Hill-Columbia and Washington-Commerce games will be played on the Y. M. C. A. floor.
