

11 JURORS PASSED IN COMMUNIST CASE

U'Ren Rebuked by Judge for Scoring "Pacifist."

CHALLENGES TO BE USED

Russian History Figures in Trial of Three Indicted on Charge of Criminal Syndicalism.

Eleven jurors have been passed for use in the venire selection in the case of three members of the alleged communist labor party under indictment for violation of the state criminal syndicalism act.

Selections are in the case of Karl W. Oster, Fred W. Fry and Claude H. East, before Circuit Judge Morrow.

The 12th juror called yesterday has been challenged by the defense on the ground that he is not physically fit to serve and will be examined by County Physician Hoes this morning.

He is Frank Mitchell, aged 30, who lives on Forty-eighth avenue Southeast.

Adolph B. Steinbach, native of Bohemia, citizen of America since 1874, whose home is at 721 Main street, will be dropped from the jury by one of the first peremptory challenges to be used by the defense.

The juror merely has stated that he does not believe in war, interrupted District Attorney Evans. "The whole idea of the league of nations is to prevent war."

"I have a boy, 32, in the army," responded the juror. "I am opposed to war."

"I can only speak for myself, not him."

"Do you support the war by buying Liberty bonds and war savings stamps?"

"I certainly did."

"You are acquainted through the newspapers with recent Russian history?"

"Somewhat."

"You know what happened to the czar?"

"Yes."

"U'Ren Objects to 'Pacifist.'"

"Do you believe that the establishment of the soviet government and killing of the czar is the proper action by a majority of the governed?"

"No, I think the change in government could have been made more peacefully and without bloodshed."

"There is no use in my going any further with this examination. I have no use for a pacifist," exploded U'Ren.

"The court will insist that counsel refrain from any criticism of the veniremen. It will not be permitted," rebuked Judge Morrow.

"I beg the court's pardon," said U'Ren, and the incident was closed.

Evans' examination of Steinbach was brief as it was evident that U'Ren intended to use a peremptory challenge to get him off the jury.

The peremptories will not be exercised until a panel of 12 men has been selected without challenge for cause.

The defense has six peremptory challenges, the state three.

Responsibility Question Put.

In examination of J. F. Guthrie, traveling salesman living at 325 East Thirty-eighth street, U'Ren asked if he would hold responsible under the law a man who joined an organization believing it to be lawful, but who resigned upon learning that it was unlawful. The juror replied that he would not. Under questioning by Evans, he admitted that he knew ignorance of the law was no excuse.

thing they had been blaming the czar for was the answer flashed back.

Other veniremen chosen tentatively were: John Joes, 600 East Twentieth street, who, though born in Baden, Germany, had lived in Oregon 47 years; Adolph W. K., 817 Savier street, who was born in Sweden, but has lived in Portland 22 years, and Joseph C. Douglas, employe of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company.

Efforts will be made in federal court this morning to learn the nature of the evidence submitted to the federal grand jury which resulted in the indictment of L. F. Eckert, now on trial as an alleged sugar profiteer.

The government concluded the presentation of its evidence against the Woodstock grocer late yesterday and the defense had just gotten under way when court adjourned for the day.

sentenced to four and a half years in Sing Sing by Judge Mulqueen in general sessions Tuesday, the evidence showing that, although he was working as a clerk in a lunch room, the "count" succeeded in convincing many people that he was of the Polish nobility and had come into an estate of $10,000,000.

Konorski, it was testified, obtained $1000 from A. Parker Nevin, an attorney; $5000 from Stephen Casnak, a member of the American Export Industries company, 20 Church street, and various sums from other attorneys telling a story that "Princess" had inherited a fortune of $10,000,000, which he must return to Poland to obtain.

In court he insisted his story of his inheritance from the princess was true, but that he found it consisted of only $1000. It was shown that he was a well-educated man, a civil engineer by profession, but that he had been employed here in lowly positions.

Charge Not Expected, She Says. In her examination, Mrs. Fike testified she had been a customer of the Eckert store for years and had never before had occasion to find fault with his treatment of her. She said her son had informed her that she should have bought the sugar for 13 cents a pound, and when she learned she had paid 15 cents, she decided to go to the United States attorney to make a complaint, but that he had been told that her complaint would result in a criminal charge being placed against the grocer.

United States Attorney Humphreys, who has personal charge of the prosecution, assisted by Chief Assistant Clerk produced three grocers who testified they were selling sugar at 12 1/2 cents at the time Eckert was charging 15 cents. One of the grocers, Ross McIntire, has a string of eight stores in Portland, and under cross-examination admitted that when he had his sale on sugar at 12 1/2 cents the customers were required to purchase coffee, tea or spices, or other similar articles of at least $1 in value.

The other two grocers were John A. Henry and L. Van Schoonhoven, both of whom have stores in the heart of the west side business district. They said they were able to sell sugar at 12 1/2 cents.

Mr. Newell Is Witness. W. K. Newell, former federal food administrator for Oregon, testified he had placed the price of sugar at 13 cents in Oregon some time in November.

Two character witnesses, P. Van Fleet, a street car motorman, and T. Blachley, a physician, offered testimony on behalf of Eckert. Both testified they had traded with Eckert for months and had always found him reasonable, fair and honest in all his dealings. Dr. Blachley said he had been a patron of the Eckert store for nearly ten years. The motorman testified he had found groceries as cheap in the Eckert store as in the downtown district.

Mrs. May Green, who has traded with Eckert for nearly ten years and who worked as a clerk in the store for nearly a year, testified she had found him honest and reasonable at all times. She further testified that the defendant extended liberal credit to many of his patrons and that he always carried large accounts on his books. Many of these, she said, were never paid, while others were slow in paying up.

Defense Case Begins Today. The defense will take the witness stand this morning and several more character witnesses also will be called. The defendant will attempt to show that his business in Woodstock is such that he cannot sell sugar at 13 cents at a profit, according to the opening statement of his attorney. Evidence already introduced shows that he paid $12.27 a sack for sugar and was compelled to pay for the delivery from the wholesaler to Woodstock. The defendant will admit he sold sugar at 15 cents a pound on January 6, but will endeavor to show that the price was not unreasonable in view of the condition of his store as regards his credit accounts, deliveries and other expenses.

The defense is expected to close its case by noon and arguments probably will get under way early in the afternoon. The case should be in the hands of the jury by late afternoon or early evening.

MENTAL SURVEY STARTS DR. CHESTER L. CARLISLE AT UNIVERSITY FOR RESEARCH.

Cause and Extent of Dependency and Delinquency in Oregon Will Be Ascertained.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, March 3.—(Special.)—Dr. Chester L. Carlisle, representative of the United States public health service, has arrived from Washington to begin the work of making a survey of the cause and extent of dependency, delinquency and mental defect in the state of Oregon. The survey will be made under the auspices of the extension division of the university, at the request and under the authority of the state legislature. Together with the report, there will be submitted, at the request of the legislature, suggestions for laws to deal with the situation disclosed.

Dr. Carlisle plans he says to ask for the co-operation of the various state, county and municipal authorities. Blank forms will be sent upon which to record the requested data. After the request and under the authority of the state will be divided into districts and intensive study will be made of representative sections.

Recent surveys show that the problem of delinquency and anti-social conduct of all sorts is based to a large extent upon mental deviation of some type, often unrecognized, and the number of persons thus afflicted is greater than the general public has usually realized," says Dr. Carlisle.
