

HART NOT TO LIMIT SPECIAL SESSION

Washington Assembly Likely to Consider Many Bills.

TAX AMENDMENT LISTED

Bonus for Service Men and State Constabulary Stated for Action by Houses.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 3.—(Special.)—Though Governor Hart, who announced in Seattle yesterday afternoon that he would call an extra session of the state legislature to meet March 22 to ratify the equal suffrage amendment and provide funds for the schools of higher education, will not attempt to place any limit on the work of the session, members of the law-making body today began talking of seeking an agreement to confine the session to the work for which it is called.

Time was when the sessions were tied up by agreement not to consider any but emergency legislation, but inasmuch as the legislature was not reconvened when many of the members thought it would be the law-makers are inclined to believe they are free to do as they please, and a great many of them please to introduce new legislation.

The story came from Wenatchee today that Representative John A. Gellatly of Chelan county is prepared to introduce a constitutional amendment giving the legislature authority to change the tax laws to include a large amount of state and city-owned property that now evades taxation. Gellatly proposed statute, some of the members of the legislature believe, would be likely to stir up a great deal of trouble if presented.

Tax Amendment Expected.
It is expected Senator T. D. Rockwell will make an effort to put through his constitutional amendment on taxation. Rockwell was one of the members of the legislature who refused last year to give his support to an agreement to adjourn as soon as the work for which the session was convened had been done. He is wrapped up in his proposal to permit the legislature to provide varying methods of taxation and threatened to reintroduce his old bill at the next regular session if he could not present it at a special meeting of the legislature.

There has been talk of offering a bill that would create a state constabulary, but whether this talk is serious enough to lead to legislative proposal is not known.

That a bill will be introduced providing for a referendum vote on paying a service men's bonus, is well known. A draft of such a bill has not been prepared, but it already has been said that if the legislature does not submit such a measure one will be introduced.

Members of the legislature can hardly be expected to sit idly by and permit a soldiers' bonus bill to be initiated when they would have a chance to submit such a measure themselves. Most of those who purpose to take legislative action are not looking forward to any particular political candidate for submitting the bill, but they are anxious to avoid censure.

Hart Sets No Limit.
It was Governor Hart's idea that the legislature might agree to limit its work to action on the vitally necessary legislation to provide funds to keep open the university, state colleges and the three normal schools and to ratify the equal suffrage amendment. It even has been stated that a majority of the members of the two houses once were agreed that that was all that should be done, but now nobody has a decided opinion that all efforts at extra legislation can be headed off.

Lakeport Becomes McCall.

BOISE, Idaho, March 3.—(Special.)—The station Lakeport, the terminus of the Idaho Northern railroad at Payette lakes, is no more. Official notice was received in Boise today by the city ticket agent, that the name Lakeport had been dropped and the station would hereafter be known as McCall.

When the line was built, the name Lakeport was given as an advertising feature, the plan being to have McCall, which is a mile further on, use the name also. The citizens, however, declined to agree to this, so the railroad company changed the name of their station to McCall and the town of McCall is to be called Chrisman.

UPRISING FEARED IN SEATTLE BY POLICE.

Gunmen Reported on Way North From Portland—Vigilance Maintained by Detectives.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 3.—(Special.)—Word that two Chinese gunmen are on the way to Seattle has been received from Portland, which bears out the theory of the police that a period of unrest is due in the Chinese colony here.

That the trouble may be due to some extent to the settlement of Chinese New Year affairs is a new theory advanced by the police. The bill Tuesday was again filled with Chinese seeking to give aid and comfort to Wong Poy On, arrested Sunday night by Patrolman Fred Nicolay.

No less than four parties of Chinese appeared to ask news of the prisoner. They all seemed plentifully supplied with money and wanted to give bond, but bail was denied until Patrolman Nicolay had gone to the prosecuting attorney's office and placed a charge of carrying concealed weapons against him.
