McCredie Waxes Confident and Tells of Plans for Portland Glory During 1920 Season.

BY ROSCOE FAWCETT.

ASHLAND, Or., March 8 .- (Special.) -En route to spring training camp Walter McCredie opened up today and divulged a few confidences concerning his 1920 coast league ball team. The big Scotch sphinx should have been a poker player. He admitted across the Pullman plush that he has been sitting tight for several weeks with one or two aces up his sleeve that will change the Beavers from their present rather mediocre appearance at the ball park. They appe ance to a regular ripenorting aggre gation. But let Mack talk:

"I have two or three players coming from the majors who will make my ball club. One of them is a pitcher who will be a star in this league. I don't expect the reinforcements until 10 days before the season.

The whereabouts of Earl Sheely is still a matter of mystery. ments until 10 days before the season spens, but they will be in fine condi-tion and will be ready to go. One of the new men is a second baseman.

eventh Straight Win for Whitman Registered in Contest Bristling With Fouls.

WALLA WASH, Wash., March &-(Special.)-Whitman decisively beat Washington State college tonight by the score of 40-24 in the roughest game yet seen on the local floor. Thirty-eight fouls were called by Referee Moyer and two free throws were awarded in addition to each side for excessive personals. The feature of excessive personals. The feature of the game was the playing of Ben Peterson, guard, who in the last five games has allowed his man to make but one basket, and that to Silnson

Dement lived up to his reputation by corraling eight baskets, every one from a difficult angle, due to close guarding. Bockey, Bohler's all-star forward, was taken out in the second half when he had failed to deliver a single point and Ciena put in his place. The latter fared no better. however, under the watchful eye of

Peterson Rich and Garver played a great brand of aggressive basketball, and with Dement formed the combination that has not been beaten yet this year Rich was forced to quit with an inured shoulder.

The score shows that Captain Wil-son also defended his goal in good style, allowing Moss only one field basket. The fact that two men did the visitors' scoring speaks wall for the missionary defense The lineup:
