P. Hoff is bonded, today started an audit of the books and records of the state treasurer's department preparatory to the grand jury investigation which will begin here Monday.

The audit for the state is being conducted by Marwick, Mitchell Peat & Co., while Morris Bros. are represented by Whitfield, Whitcombe & Co. R. E. Pinney of Portland is in charge of the work for the surety companies.

Because of the demand for thoroughness in the probe, as ordered by Attorney-General Brown, the charac-ter of the investigation and the many

In addition to the audit the only new development in the investigation here today was the appearance in Salem of Alfred C. Reese, financial edilor for a Partiand payaganary and editor for a Portland newspaper, and alleged author of the articles accusing the state treasurer for paying exces-sive commissions in the purchase of bonds, and Henry Hanzen, political editor of the same paper. They spent practically the entire morning closeted with the attorney-general.

Although no information was available regarding their visit to the attorney-general's office, it was intimated by officials, other than the state's attorney, that their mission here was to place in the hands of the investigators such information as Mr. Reese gleaned from a recent examination of the treasurer's records. ation of the treasurer's records.
