General Wood Runs Second in Returns Received.

Primary Fight Making Great Stir but No Party Organization

May 4, the votes of the chairmen indicate that he is the popular favorite of the organization in Indiana. Governor Frank C. Lowden of Illinois, Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio and Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California are the entrants for the presidential preference race in Indiana in addition to General Wood, if one of these gets a majority of all votes cast in the primary the 30 delegates of the state in the national convention at Chicago are obligated under the law to cast their votes for such candidates so long as his name may remain before the convention.

If no candidate gets a majority, it there is simply a plurality for one of the candidates, there is no binding obligation on any of the delegates. In other words, they then go to the convention uninstructed. However, the vention uninstructed. However, the Wood managers, who hope to get at Assailant in Bad Condition With least a plurality, are declaring that this would impose a moral obligation on the delegates:

The 30 delegates to go to Chicago Gibson. Tennas Pete was taken to will be elected at a state convention to be held on May 12, delegates to which are chosen in the primaries of the said that during the game a petition that had been prepared for William G. McAdoo could not be retrieved in time for filing because it was locked up in a safe. The Marshall and the McAdoo leaders have made a gentleman's agreement not for

While Lowden, the only other candidate, potential or otherwise, for whom a first choice vote was cast, got only about nine per cent of firsts, he received 57 per cent of all the second choices. It was "first or nothing" with Watson and he received no second choice votes. Harding polled 17 Rev. Owen F. Jones, rector of St. ond choices. It was "first or nothing" with Watson and he received no second choice votes, Harding polled 17 per cent of the second choice, with Wood and Governor Calvin Coolidge trailing with approximately nine per cent each. One man bracketed Harding and Lowden for second choice and one chairman voted for Governor James P. Goodrich of Indiana for second by unanimous vote. Local
