

MINNEAPOLIS GOES FOR LEONARD WOOD

Only Four Delegates of State Not Certain.

NORTH DAKOTA IN DOUBT

Johnson Charges "Machine" and "Pretense" in Speech at Detroit. General in South Dakota.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 18.—With but two counties missing, reports at 1 A. M. today from the republican county conventions to elect delegates to state and district conventions, gave 50 delegates uncommitted, 27 instructed for Wood, 5 instructed for Lowden and 2 instructed for Johnson.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 17.—Two delegates uncommitted from Minneapolis and two others pledged to vote for Leonard Wood for the nomination as president at the national republican convention in Chicago were named today at two district conventions.

At the Minneapolis meeting an attempt to have the delegates instructed for Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California, failed.

Delegates pledged to the candidacy of Leonard Wood were in control of the Ramsey county republican convention and succeeded in defeating the Johnson and Lowden delegations on the first important vote of strength. Wood friends, with a majority of the total delegates, named the credentials committee and elected Herbert Kaller chairman of the convention.

Keller is chairman of the Ramsey county Wood organization. Wood forces produced a minimum of 270 votes out of a total of 502.

Two delegates to the national convention from Ramsey county, instructed for Wood, by that county's four delegates out of Minnesota's 24 are in doubt. It has been conceded that Wood has won the four delegates at large to be named by the state convention.

Of the first 24 Minnesota republican county conventions to report, 16 decided to send uncommitted delegations to the state convention in St. Paul, Saturday. Eight conventions endorsed Wood's candidacy and three endorsed Lowden.

WOOD'S STRENGTH SURPRISE

Advocacy of Military Training Has Not Eliminated General.

CHICAGO, March 17.—(Special.)—The opinion that sentiment for universal military training is growing are pointed out by political weather prophets here, many of whom profess to be enlightened by the results shown in the Minnesota primaries, where at least one candidacy, that of General Wood, had been re-narrowed by opposing factions with the tail of this issue.

Summarization of the Minnesota result is contained in today's Tribune, which is being followed under a Washington date line.

"Politicians who have doubted that Wood had any real strength with the voters were startled by early figures showing the general with a 50 per cent lead over his next highest competitor, Senator Johnson, and nearly four times as many votes as Lowden, although Minnesota is the native state of the Illinois governor and has been extensively canvassed by him. "It had been freely predicted that the soldier candidate would be snowed out in an agricultural state, which, though traditionally republican, President Wilson almost carried on the 'he-kept-us-out-of-war' issue."

In an editorial the Tribune says: "General Wood's strength in the Minnesota primaries is an interesting revelation. Wood's organization is evidently expansive and effective. His activity has been greater than that of any other candidate. He is working for a popular vote in as many states as possible and he does not seem to suffer either from fear of a military man or because he advocates universal military training. He is the only candidate who candidly and warmly advocates that national policy, and it does not seem that in doing so he has eliminated himself. "The suggestion is useful. It may be that politicians have cold feet and that the people really have cool heads."

"MACHINE," CHARGES JOHNSON

Senator Makes Flat Accusation in Statement at Detroit.

DETROIT, March 17.—The Minnesota republican primary was characterized as a "pretense" and the "strong-arm tactics of the 1920 campaign" by United States Senator Hiram Johnson in a signed statement issued here this forenoon.

He charged that "the republican state machine is in absolute control" and that "the republican primary is an interesting revelation. Wood's organization is evidently expansive and effective. His activity has been greater than that of any other candidate. He is working for a popular vote in as many states as possible and he does not seem to suffer either from fear of a military man or because he advocates universal military training. He is the only candidate who candidly and warmly advocates that national policy, and it does not seem that in doing so he has eliminated himself. "The suggestion is useful. It may be that politicians have cold feet and that the people really have cool heads."

COMMITTEE TO TAKE GRAIN PROBE WEST

HOOVER RAPS CRITICS

Farmer Who Becomes Caustic About Food Administration Gets Special Attention.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, March 17.—A subcommittee of the senate committee on manufactures will be named tomorrow to visit Portland, Spokane and other grain and milling centers of the northwest to investigate charges made by a Spokane federal grand jury against the United States grain corporation and Max H. Houser, grain administrator for the northwest.

This decision was reached at a meeting of the full committee today. Such testimony as is taken here in Washington will be heard by the entire committee, but it was decided that the only method of making an investigation in the northwest would be to send a subcommittee, as the inquiry involves the examination of some records which might be difficult to transfer here.

Herbert Hoover took the first serious notice today of the criticism leveled at the grain corporation in a letter to Senator Phelan, characterizing the attacks as "malicious propaganda."

Herbert Hoover took the first serious notice today of the criticism leveled at the grain corporation in a letter to Senator Phelan, characterizing the attacks as "malicious propaganda."

Barrett Also Rebutted. As C. H. Barrett, president of the National Farmer's union, had been widely attacked by critics of the food administration and grain corporation in connection with the government price on wheat and cottonseed, some personal reference is made of Mr. Barrett in his letter. He said: "So far as Mr. Barrett's views on the price of wheat and cottonseed are concerned, it was a member of a committee appointed by the president to recommend a fixed price for wheat, in which I did not participate. He unanimously agreed with others on the price and I attach a copy of the committee report. The officers of his association signed the cottonseed proposal also. He can therefore scarcely complain in that matter."

Chance to Object Passed. "Subsequently he was appointed on an agricultural advisory board to be held by the farmers at the food administration and apparently because he did not agree with the other 38 members he ceased to attend the meetings. Through this board he always had opportunity to make representations to the food administration, and there was no case I know of where his recommendations of this board were not supported by me and carried out to the full extent. This board finally wound up with a very handsome and specific resolution expressing gratitude to the food administration for the way farmer interests had been handled."

Turning to political attacks on him, he continued: "I do not assume that any amount of endeavor to keep out of politics is any of the farmer's business. Public service entitles one to immunity, and I have refused to take notice of these things."
