Lowden Gets Balance of First Choice Ballots.

GOVERNOR FOR GENERAL

Poll Indicates Army Candidate Will Go to Convention With Big Supporting Force.

(Copyright by the New York Sun and Herald, Published by arrangement.) NEW YORK,—Major-General Leonard Wood received 43.4 per cent of the first-choice votes for the repub-lican nomination for president in the lican nomination for president in the poll of the county chairmen in Kansas by the Sun and New York Herald. In spite of the fact that he is generally considered not to be a candidate, Governor Henry J. Allen ran a close second, with 39 per cent.

Governor Frank O. Lowden received the first choice bal-

League of Nations Issue

As a paramount issue for 1920 the ague of nations had a commanding league of nations had a commanding lead in all the replies received. The opposition to militarism, or universal training, cropped out for the first time in any state up to the present time in this series. It was mentioned repeatedly as an issue, and one chairman went so far as to say:

"A great many republicans here would rather vote for Wilson than any man who favors compulsory military training."

vation" also was mentioned for the first time as an issue. The high cost of living seems to be troubling Kansus more than republicans in other states so far discussed. There was no doubt about the fact that William Jennings Bryan was considered most favorably for the democratic nomination for president, as he received practically twice as any mentions as any other demo-atic possibility. or which our honorable president is so proud, but which the American people do not want. The next important subject will be the readjustment of the industrial world.

"Delegates to the national conven-tion will probably be divided. The four delegates at large will be uninstructed. There will be some district delegates instructed for Allen, possibly some for Wood; majority will be uninstructed. The delegation probably will be for Wood on the first bal-lot. Fight is being made to secure delegates who will go to Lowden after the first few ballots. This plan has strong chance to succeed."

The former has some prominent Kansans in his organization, while there are many Lowden missionaries in the state. In addition to the issues already mentioned as being uppermost in the Kansas mind, there is apparent strong feeling for Americanism as opposed o internationalism, a desire for econ-my in the conduct of the government in contrast with the extravagance of the democrats, and a return to a "sane, constitutional handling of affairs in Washington."

One of the chairmen said the big issue would be getting rid of the "socialistic democratic management which we now have."
