

MILDRED CHAPLIN DENIES OTHER MAN

Reporter Fails to Locate Elusive Charley.

DEATH OF BABY BLAMED

Comedian, Not to Be Outdone, Steps Into Publicity Class With Mary and Doug.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 18.—(Special)—The "other woman" and possibly "the other man" loomed up today in the domestic difficulties of Charlie Chaplin, world famous film comedian, following the announcement of Mildred Harris Chaplin, also a screen star, that she may sue for a divorce on the grounds of desertion and neglect.

At the same time Chaplin's friends about the Los Angeles Athletic club declared he is preparing to file a suit against his wife and might name another man. His friends say that Mrs. Chaplin's announcement was made to forestall a suit by the comedian.

Film Matrimonial Sea Choppy. Thus the third and last member of the "Big Three" of filmdom is today following in the footsteps of the other two—"Doug" Fairbanks, who is a divorcee, and Mary Pickford, who was granted a decree in Nevada a few days back. The "Big Three" seem to find the matrimonial sea rather choppy.

Chaplin was not to be found anywhere up until a late hour tonight. He reached the athletic club shortly after midnight, but early this morning it was discovered that he had "flew the coop." It was reported that Chaplin had gone to William Wrigley's Catalina island, using one of his brother's (Sid Chaplin's) seaplanes to make the trip.

Attorney Arthur Wright, representing Chaplin, when asked if it were true that Chaplin intends bringing suit for divorce, said: "As far as I know, Mr. Chaplin contemplates no legal action whatsoever."

Despite this it was persistently reported that Chaplin's suit has been prepared and his friends seem confident that he will not be so easily deterred from any action his wife may take against him.

Mildred Chaplin Talks From Bed. Sitting very straight beneath the gray satin quilt which covered her ivory twin bed, Mrs. Chaplin gave an interview regarding her domestic unhappiness to The Oregonian correspondent today.

"There isn't now and never has been another man in my life," said she. "I have prayed that things might right themselves with us, because I know he loved me once."

"There is another woman back of all this, a woman he used to go with before he knew me. That is why since he has no grounds on which to get a divorce from me that he is trying to compel me to divorce him. If my baby had only lived it would have all been different."

Mrs. Chaplin, who is only 18 years old, lost a little son eight months ago.

Comedian Not to Be Outdone. Tongues of Angelenos are wagging tonight over the latest divorce talk from the Hollywood moving picture colony. It has been rumored for weeks that the marital situation in the Chaplin family was near the breaking point, and the film colony has daily been expecting a suit for divorce that would attract as much attention as the recent divorce of Mary Pickford, in which she rid herself of Owen Moore.

Mrs. Chaplin, in her announcement, declared that she had been married at her home, 674 South Oxford street, Hollywood. Charley moved to the Los Angeles Athletic club sometime back.

At the athletic club early this morning Chaplin was quoted as saying, when informed of his wife's statement, "Well, such is the life in the great west." He did not intimate anything about what action might result and said that he had seen his wife a few days previous and that she had said nothing about a suit for divorce.

BODIES FOUND IN WRECK

Mail and Freight Trains Collide at Texarkana.

TEXARKANA, Tex., March 18.—Three bodies had been taken tonight from the wreckage of a mail train and freight train that collided early this evening, just outside the local yards.

Neither train carried passengers and all of the dead are believed to be trainmen. The only body identified is that of the engineer of the mail train.

Honolulu Building Active.

HONOLULU, T. H., March 18.—(Special)—Four and one-half million dollars have been spent in building operations in Honolulu during the year 1919, according to figures compiled by the office of the county building inspector. This is the largest amount in ten years.

To Peel Off Freckled, Blotchy, Pimpled Skins

As March winds, flying dust and dirt are apt to injure any complexion, this information will be of special value right now. If you have any cutaneous blemishes, don't use paint, powder or anything else to cover it up. Too often this only emphasizes the blemishes. Instead, use Cuticura to remove the disfigurement with ordinary metrorized wax. Applied nightly, the wax will gradually remove freckles, pimples, mocha patches, saltiness, red or yellow blotches or any surface eruption. The affected cuticle is absorbed, a little each day, until the clear, soft, youthful and beautiful skin beneath is brought wholly to view. Ask the druggist for one ounce of metrorized wax and use this like you use cold cream. Remove in the morning with soap and water. Many who have tried this simple, harmless treatment report astonishing results.—Adv.

GRAND DUCHESS OLGA.

CZAR'S SISTER IN BOXCAR

RED CROSS WORKERS DISCOVER GRAND DUCHESS.

Olga, Clad in Rags and Grateful for Food and Clothing, Tolls Among Fellow Refugees.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Grand Duchess Olga, daughter of the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, has been found by American Red Cross workers living in a box car near Novorossiisk, South Russia. It was announced today at the headquarters of the Red Cross here.

The grand duchess, according to the announcement, is one of three surviving members of the house of Romanoff. She was found "tolling among fellow refugees from the territory recently conquered by the bolsheviks, wearing such assistance as she could, although herself clothed in rags and grateful for any food and clothing she could find."

tinuing the strike. They demand the disarmament of the troops and the inclusion in the government of more radical elements.

One outcome of Dr. Kapp's brief reign is a greater tendency toward the left among the workers, and it is generally believed that the coming elections will return independents in greater force. Kapp's coup was the greatest disservice he could have rendered to the conservatives, who now are discredited and distrusted.

The censorship has been lifted and the newspapers are allowed to publish. Lord Kilmarnock, the British charge, has taken the first opportunity to publish an emphatic denial that the allies gave any support or sympathy whatever to the new government.

Manifesto Is Issued. The independent committee has issued a manifesto, saying in effect: "The counter-revolution has been suppressed, but the Bauer-Sooker government is trying to re-establish the old regime by cowardly compromise. Another Junker, Von Seeckstritz, replaces the junker, Von Luettich."

A state of siege is maintained and the Prussian government has entrusted the protection of the security guard, which means that a military dictatorship persists. There has been no change in the system, but only a change of persons. The independents will not accept this situation.

There were fewer disturbances in Berlin last night than any other since the revolution, but several detachments of troops were sent away, but the majority were here this morning. Wilhelmstrasse was crowded with them, all carrying hand grenades; several squads trundled machine guns and flame throwers. When the Baltic troops gave all left, the work of guarding the city will be undertaken by regular government troops garrisoned in Berlin and the security police.

Papers Eagerly Sought. During the late hours of the night great excitement prevailed, though many persons remained indoors, searching with single-sheet editions of the Morgen Post and Voessisches Zeitung were literally mobbed, so eager was the desire to obtain news so long denied.

Agitators appeared early in the morning and quickly drew crowds. In Wilhelmstrasse a soldier harangued a group of excited and civilians with a tirade against foreigners. There was a fresh outbreak of agitation against Jews, many of the street speakers calling upon the people to keep them out of public office.

A strange airplane drew thousands of eyes as it dropped leaflets signed "League of Professional Soldiers of Germany," which stated that it was would recognize only the government to which it had sworn allegiance, and await the call of Noske to reorganize.

Food Prices Are Soaring. Food prices have continued to soar, and there has been a scramble of the people generally to lay in as much as they could place their hands on. The markets were besieged and the streets soon stripped. Attempts at profiteering evoked bitter opposition, several shops being wrecked. The inability of the people to pay the prices demanded for staple foods is bound to cause considerable distress and agitation.

Consequence of Dr. Kapp's abdication Berlin will be under a military dictatorship until the civil government is re-established. Yesterday, a military conference was held. The intention appeared to be to adopt a military rule of the most severe order to prevent the possibility of the radicals attempting an uprising.

The fact that the independents and communists so far have not resorted to the extreme violence characterizing the revolutionary strikes of 1918 and 1919 is regarded as a hopeful sign. It admits of two inferences, one that they are biding their time

REEF, MISTAKEN FOR HARBOR, SINKS DIVER

Loss of H-1 on Santa Margarita Is Explained.

STORM ADDS TO ILLUSION

Topography of Island Thought to Be Entrance to Magdalena Bay, Say Survivors.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 18.—The beaching of the submarine H-1 on Santa Margarita island, Lower California, with the loss of four lives, was the result of the topography of that island being mistaken for the entrance to Magdalena bay, according to members of the crew of the motorship Mazatlan, which brought to Los Angeles harbor today the survivors of the submarine.

The crew of the Mazatlan said they were quoting survivors of the submarine. The latter, who were taken to the Samarine base at San Pedro had previously told their rescuers of how the H-1 was presumably trying to enter Magdalena when it struck a reef on Santa Margarita island, ten miles south.

They described the island as consisting of two high points, about five miles apart and connected by a reef which lay only a few feet under water. Thus, in the dark with heavy surf running, it was mistaken for the entrance to Magdalena bay.

Master's Body Is Missing. The survivors expressed their belief that Lieutenant - Commander James H. Webb, who was commanding the H-1, had been struck on the head by the conning tower when the submarine struck the reef and that his body had been pinned beneath the vessel. It has not been recovered.

The body of Joseph Kaufman, seaman, also had not been recovered when the Mazatlan left the island, but the bodies of H. M. Gilles, machinist's mate, and M. S. Delamarine, seaman, drowned, and possibly burned by chlorine gas, were buried on the beach of Santa Margarita island.

Commander Webb was washed overboard from the conning tower, where he was directing the movements of the crew. The night was so dark that efforts to aid him were unavailing.

Men Manage to Reach Shore. When the 29 remaining men and two officers of the crew abandoned on Redondo Point they were in little better case than they had been aboard the submarine. They had neither food nor water, had no means of communication except by flag signals in daylight to the H-2 and were wet through and suffering from exposure. They were without food or water for 24 hours, as the absence of small boats made it impossible for the H-2 to do more than stand by. When the Mazatlan appeared she sent boats ashore and took the men aboard. Once aboard they received clothing, food and other necessities and by the time of their arrival here none of them seemed any the worse for their experience.

Lines Passed to Diver. The Mazatlan passed lines to the H-1, aided by the navy men, but before an attempt was made to pull the submarine off the shoals, destroyers sent to their relief arrived and the Mazatlan left the salvage proceedings to the navy vessels. The latter also passed lines to the H-1 and the crew of the H-1 was taken to the submarine base here on arrival where they will await further orders.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 18.—A radio dispatch received here this afternoon by Rear Admiral Welles said that the fuel oil pumps of the Eagle boat No. 11, first to come to the Pacific from the Atlantic, and convoy of the ill-fated submarine H-1, which went ashore on the Lower California coast, had broken down on the way to San Diego.

"ANGEL" SETS TOWN AGOG

at last they dropped into the custom of permitting him to check against the drafts he sent to Gerhing, but when Gerhing asked a month ago to refund the pay to the drafts and the checks that he sent to Gerhing to meet the now accumulating drafts were also unpaid.

Both Gerhing in Wausau and the Ontario National bank had previously honored his paper, called a halt and demanded settlement. To the Ontario National bank he gave a trust deed for all his real estate, buildings, etc., in Ontario. And then he transferred Bank Permits Transfer.

The bank permitted him to transfer the funds and then when its draft was dishonored demanded payment. On his failure to secure payment he gave the First National title to his half interest in the pressery and dry cleaning establishment, the money he received for his household goods and other property that could be converted in part taking up their account, then he left town.

Five days later an attorney from Wausau, Wis., appeared here and the local banks learned of the plight of the Wisconsin institutions.

A. L. Coakum, president of the First National bank here left for St. Louis to interview Heyman's relatives and Heyman, said to be manufacturer. All this time Ontario exchanged notes on what had happened and many were found to be creditors in various amounts. The total aggregate of the obligations, outside of the banks, however, is not great. Following the arrival of the Wisconsin attorney the operating of Crucible Steel stock, American Leather and other stocks and bonds, together with $40,000 worth of Los Angeles real property and cash in Wisconsin, was false.

Northern Route Taken. Instead of going to St. Louis as it was believed, he is said to have gone to Spokane and thence east by northern route to St. Mary's, Ohio, while his trunks were checked to Niagara Falls, where, when he appeared to claim them on Sunday he was arrested.

Marshall H. C. Farmer left Ontario Sunday to bring him back and extradition papers have been forwarded from Salem, Or., in case he declines to return voluntarily. President Coakum of the First National, who returned from St. Louis today, telling of what he learned of Heyman there, said:

"I found that in 1918 he pulled a bigger game than that he lost here, though the plan was similar. In the St. Louis deal he cleaned up $200,000 on a far deal and his stepfather repaid $100,000 through an attorney to the victims."

Efforts to have Heyman's St. Louis relatives pay the amount he lost here have so far failed, and it is understood that the Wausau creditors lost nearly $30,000 through the various manipulations. They, too, are endeavoring to secure settlement. Local officials expect Marshall Farmer to reach here Tuesday with Heyman, who is believed to be in Ontario unless settlement is made. The local banks through their recovery of real estate and personal property will suffer comparatively little.

Hawaii Protests Proposal.

HONOLULU, T. H., March 18.—(Special)—Protest against the reported proposal of the special commission from Hawaii now in Washington to secure congressional legislation releasing all government lands in the territory for highest lease bidders was made at a mass meeting of over 1500 citizens held Sunday night. A message was drafted and sent to the capitol. The citizens feel that the land should be homesteaded.

Maryland Defeats Prohibition.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 18.—The prohibition enforcement act was defeated in the house of delegates today by a vote of 29 to 62.
