

HOOPER AND M'ADOO PETITIONS HELD UP

Democratic Efforts at Support Are Declined.

MR. WEST STOPS WORK

Newton McCoy Says He Will Go On Despite Hoover's Request That Name Be Kept Off Ballot.

Both William G. McAdoo and Herbert Hoover have requested that their names be placed on the presidential preference primary ballot in Oregon.

Oswald West, who received a telegram from Mr. Hoover yesterday, says that Mr. Hoover's wish will be granted and the petition, which was to be filed this week, will not be filed.

George Lovejoy, who has virtually completed his McAdoo petition, received an extended message from Mr. McAdoo, published in The Oregonian of Monday, stating that he wants an unopposed nomination and does not want his name used in the primaries.

Mr. Lovejoy, like Mr. West, will defer to Mr. McAdoo's wishes with reservations.

The McAdoo club, at this time, does not intend filing the petition, explained Mr. Lovejoy, "but the club will be prepared for any eventualities."

But whatever Mr. West or Mr. Lovejoy do, and no matter what Mr. McAdoo and Mr. Hoover have said, Newton McCoy will go on with his McAdoo petition for the primaries, and Chester Murphy is calmly proceeding with his plan to place Mr. Hoover's name on the republican ballot.

Each night this week services will be held in the United Brethren church, St. Luke's Episcopal church will observe next Sunday morning and in addition there will be special services Wednesday at 7:30 o'clock and a three-hour service on Friday.

Mr. Hoover is notified. About the time that Mr. West had the bulk of the necessary 1900 names to place Mr. Hoover on the democratic primary ballot, he betrouth him of sending a message to Mr. Hoover, in the following message:

While, without consulting you, your Oregon friends have taken preliminary steps toward placing your name on the ballot as a democratic presidential candidate, they have had no intention of taking any action toward filing the petitions without first consulting you, and if it is your wish or you will cause you the least embarrassment we would be pleased to be so advised and the petition will not be filed. Please understand our activities have been prompted only by public interest and faith in you. We will be guided absolutely by your wishes.

In reply, Mr. Hoover sent the following telegram to Mr. West yesterday: "I am greatly obliged for your congratulatory telegram asking me to indicate my views on the proposed entry of my name in democratic primaries of Oregon. While I am very grateful for the interest proposed, I cannot give my approval."

And then, so far as Mr. West was concerned, the democratic Hoover petition dropped.

On the other hand, the Hoover Republican club of Oregon is proceeding to gather names. One man obtained 140 signatures Saturday. The Hoover club had its inception at the University club last week and was formally organized at the central library Friday evening with Mr. Murphy as president, Mrs. Elliott Corbett as first vice-president, H. H. Haynes, treasurer, and G. C. Leiter, secretary.

MR. SINNOTT GOES BACK

REPRESENTATIVE LEAVES FOR WASHINGTON AFTER FUNERAL.

Large Revenues Expected From Oil Leasing Bill, Put Through by Oregon Member After Fight.

N. J. Sinnott, representing the second Oregon district in congress, left on his return to Washington last night, having come to Portland to attend the funeral of his brother, Roger B. Sinnott. Representative Sinnott says that congress probably will keep in session until June.

Mr. Sinnott engineered and put through in the face of strong opposition the oil-leasing bill, which is bringing millions of dollars into the reclamation fund, thus providing money for reclamation development on an extensive program.

At the close of his entertainment he announced that to distinguish between the real seeker after truth and the skeptical ones, autographed photographs of himself would be given in the lobby, and each buyer of a picture could come upon the stage and ask a question. "I do not make any money from the sale of these pictures," said Khaym, "because I am turning over every cent from their sale to the Armenian relief fund."

Judging from the folk who bought pictures, the Armenians won't need another drive soon.

Khaym will be here all week. On Wednesday and Friday he will give matinees and telepathic seances for women only. On Saturday and Sunday the regular matinees are held, and a performance every night.

Attorneys Meet Tonight. The regular monthly meeting of the Multnomah Bar association will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in Judge McCourt's courtroom in the courthouse.

LANDS, A COMMITTEE OF SPECIAL IMPORTANCE TO OREGON, HE HELD OUT FOR MONTHS UNTIL THE OIL-LEASING BILL CONTAINED THE TERM HE WANTED.

Briefly, the reclamation fund will receive 70 per cent of a fund estimated from $7,500,000 to $10,000,000 on past production. The exact amount will not be known until it has been checked up. Royalty on future production of oil, coal and phosphate is estimated at about $10,000,000 a year, and whatever this royalty may amount to, the reclamation fund will receive 52 1/2 per cent.

Discussing the soldiers' preferential right on the Oregon & California land grant lands in Oregon, Mr. Sinnott, who put the bill through the house, said that these Oregon lands were not particularly in mind when the bill was passed; that what the bill does is to give the soldiers a preferential right on all lands which may be restored to entry in the future, including reclamation projects.

EASTER SERVICES BEGIN

VANCOUVER KNIGHTS TO COME TO PORTLAND ON SUNDAY.

All Denominations Have Special Services This Week, Ending With Easter Day Worship.

VANCOUVER, Wash., March 29.—(Special.)—Most of the churches in this city are holding special services this week and preparing to observe Easter next Sunday.

Vancouver commandery No. 10, Knights Templar, will attend the services in the public auditorium in Portland, the guests of Oregon commandery No. 1, of Portland, going over in the evening in full regalia.

St. James' Catholic church will hold special services at 8 A. M. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and on Thursday and Friday nights at 7:30 o'clock. Special Easter services will be held in the church during morning.

At the First Methodist church Holy week services will be held Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, and communion will be held when there will be special music.

Each night this week services will be held in the United Brethren church, St. Luke's Episcopal church will observe next Sunday morning and in addition there will be special services Wednesday at 7:30 o'clock and a three-hour service on Friday.

Mr. Bates was taken ill at Los Angeles, several days ago, while returning home from a western business trip. Though weakened and in pain, he boarded the train and made the trip home, arriving Saturday night. His condition was such that he was immediately confined to his bed, and has since been under constant medical care.

It is believed that Mr. Bates contracted ptomaine poisoning while in Los Angeles, though his illness has not been traced to any particular item of food.

COMMANDER DAY COMING

High Official of Knights Templar to Visit Vancouver Tomorrow.

VANCOUVER, Wash., March 29.—(Special.)—Henry Herbert Day, grand commander of the Knights Templar of Oregon, will be in Vancouver tomorrow on his annual inspection of Vancouver commandery No. 10 Wednesday evening, March 31. All members of the commandery are requested to attend, as well as other knights who may be in the city. The temple degree will be conferred and supper will be served at 6 o'clock.

Oregon commandery No. 1 of Portland has invited Vancouver commandery to attend Easter services in the auditorium in Portland Easter Sunday, in the evening, and a number will attend from here in full regalia.

POLL OF MINNESOTA SHOWS WOOD FIRST

Lowden Looms Strong in Republican Favor.

HOOPER OUTRUNS BRYAN

League and Business Administration Appear as Big Issues of Campaign.

(Copyright by the Sun and New York Herald. Published by arrangement.)

NEW YORK, March 29.—(Special.)—The poll of the sentiment in Minnesota for the republican candidate for president, taken through the organization chairmen in each county by the Sun and New York Herald, shows a majority of the counties favor Major-General Leonard Wood.

Governor Lowden was next, and in "second choice" by a large margin over any of the other candidates.

In view of the divided allegiance of 24 that has been chosen to go to the Chicago convention, and the fact that the state convention in St. Paul last Saturday refused to instruct the "four" for Wood by a vote of 596 to 498 and bearing in mind that the informal and attenuated primary of a few days before was carried by Wood, with Johnson second and Lowden third, an analysis of the poll returns may be of peculiar interest.

Wood got 71 per cent of the "first choice" in the poll, followed by Johnson with 24 per cent, and Lowden with 3 per cent. The remainder of the poll returns were divided among Senator Warren G. Harding, Taft and Hoover.

Fourteen Wood Delegates, Outlook. A study of the situation following the state convention would seem to show that General Wood is assured of 14 of the 24 delegates, or 60 per cent. Of the remaining ten, all uninstructed, four are said to be definitely against Wood, with six on the fence, although they are claimed by the Wood managers. There is a contest against the anti-Wood delegates selected in the tenth congressional district.

The difference between the 71 per cent of the poll and the 60 per cent, or 14 of the 24 delegates known to be for Wood may represent a drift away from the general after the poll returns were made, or it may indicate that some of the uninstructed delegates may go to Wood in the last analysis.

Herbert Hoover is far and away in the lead over other democratic presidential possibilities, according to the reports of the republican chairmen.

He got twice as many mentions as William J. Bryan, who finished second. This in the democratic preference was Attorney-General A. Mitchell Palmer. One chairman was careful to scratch Hoover's name off the list of republican possibilities and indicated him as a democratic choice.

League and Business Issues. As for paramount issues, the league of nations, the new navy, and economic reconstruction, the placing of business on a sound basis.

"Our voters never before have demanded so much more and neck and heels business administration," wrote one chairman. "Orators, professors and spellbinders are as such 'de trop.' They (the voters) want candidates to show them what their ability has been along business lines. They prefer candidates who have been successful in their own business; men who can do things, not talk. Lowden seems to come nearer than any of the rest to filling this requirement."

Another declared: "The foreign element is very much opposed to universal military training and suspicious of a military candidate."

LABOR HERE SEEKS RIVAL TO M'ARTHUR

Tom A. Sweeny Mentioned for Indorsement.

INCUMBENT HELD ENEMY

Delegates Affiliated With Portland Central Council Hold Pre-Convention Gathering.

To indorse one candidate to run against C. N. McArthur, present representative in congress from Multnomah county, was the plan decided upon last night by a so-called convention of delegates representing various unions affiliated with the Portland Central Labor council, such indorsement to be made by another and even more representative group of organized labor at a meeting to be held for the purpose soon.

The meeting was held at Machinists' hall. According to statements made on the floor, organized labor at the forthcoming convention will indorse Tom A. Sweeny, formerly a captain in the United States army, who served overseas with the expeditionary forces. His name was used in connection with the congressional race by several delegates in a laudatory way, and it was clear that the sentiment of this meeting was for him. Sweeny last Sunday declared his intention to run.

Eugene E. Smith, who is also an avowed candidate for the place now held by Mr. McArthur, may have been favored by some of the delegates present, but was not mentioned on the floor during the meeting.

One Hundred Delegates Attend. Last night's convention was attended by more than 100 delegates representing various unions affiliated with the central council, including both men and women. Inasmuch as Representative McArthur has declared himself as thoroughly independent in his attitude toward legislation sought by the American Federation of Labor, it was taken for granted by those present that he was an enemy of all union men and women, it was said, and therefore the one thing to do was to choose a man to run against him and center all labor votes on the one choice.

This action will mean that, in all probability, after one man is indorsed, pressure will be brought to bear on other candidates who might attract union votes or votes friendly to labor to withdraw from the race and leave the field clear for a final fight between the indorsed candidate and Mr. McArthur, who has filed for re-election.

National Orders Fulfilled. The meeting was called in compliance with orders from headquarters of the American Federation of Labor, which has declared for a final fight against "all enemies of organized labor seeking public office." This fight, it is held by labor, is non-partisan and will be brought to the end by the union men, namely, to elect their friends and oust their enemies.

The committee of five elected last night consists of D. E. Nickerson, F. H. Lewis, William Wolfe, F. H. Haines and C. M. Ryerson, editor of the Oregon Labor Press.

There were a good many women present at the meeting last night, some of whom took the floor and scored Representative McArthur and pledged their support in the fight he attempted to defeat him for the republican nomination in the forthcoming primaries.

All of the railroad brotherhoods were represented at the meeting, it was announced.

Enough Names in Sight to Insure Referendum, Says F. W. Mulkey.

More than 4500 names have been affixed to the petition of the Citizens' Anti-Zoning league, referring to a vote of the people the ordinance re-zoning the city, it was announced at a meeting of the organization in its headquarters, Oregon building, last night. A. Bonham of Montavilla presided.

Members of the mob disappeared after the hanging. The body was mutilated and was left floating over the middle of the Maysville-Lexington pike.

The automobile of Percy M. Varney, state parole officer, which was stolen by two convicts who escaped from the penitentiary March 27, was found last night at East Twelfth and Division streets by Patman Rigas. The car had been standing there for a considerable time.

All of the convicts who escaped in the machine, the police returned the car to Mr. Varney last night.

CAR AND DRIVER ARE ONE. Great is the responsiveness of the Dual Valve Six Pierce-Arrow. So much less effort is needed to tell it what to do—so much less time elapses before it does it—it seems as if car and driver were one. The car responds more quickly; it steers with a lighter touch; its gears are shifted with less effort. All the contacts between driver and car are made closer, easier and quicker. Here is a car to be driven without effort. No brute force is required to start, guide or stop it—boundless power is in leash, waiting the word—nod—touch—to be off, but checked—changed—stopped with equal ease. "If the citizens of Portland really knew the situation, they would be practically solid against the zoning measure," said F. W. Mulkey, president of the anti-zoning league. "As it is, there are enough names in sight now, with but a few days' work, to refer the ordinance to a vote of the people."

Wood Republicans Will Lunch. The weekly luncheon of the Leonard Wood Republican club will be held today at 12:15 P. M. at the Multnomah hotel. The speaker will be Eugene E. Smith and his topic, "The Qualifications of a President." The public is invited to attend the luncheon.

NEW BILLS AT THE THEATERS

Alcazar. KHAYM, billed as the "Peer of all mental marvels," who says he was born in Bombay, but who says "dear" for "idea," and "law" for "law," who says "pore" for "poor" and who claims his power to be supernatural, packed the auditorium and believers in spiritism at the Alcazar last night and located missing jewels, wives, relatives, misplaced affections and odds and ends.

All done up in a turban and kimono, Khaym, who suggests the Hebrew rather than the oriental, prances across the stage, gazing at intervals into the wings for inspiration. He answers all questions from the stage, save when a loud call for an imaginary questioner who does not answer brings him into comedy action. Then he prances along the aisle and just before the imaginary person overt proper.

He is a physician as well as a psychic, for he advised one man to change doctors for his wife's illness. He gave the same test (?) of telepathy employed by Alexander, of having 12 question writers concentrate on something they wanted one of the three girls on the stage to do. In view of the fact that 12 people, each sending a different thought to three girls, didn't get their telepathic wires crossed, the result was a great victory for high art in the psychic, for one of the trio came to the footlights and prettily nibbled at her big toe after she had removed the shoe.

Conan Doyle and Oliver Lodge would have rejoiced at that demonstration. Khaym also did the well-known state-writing test, and delivered a lengthy dissertation on his accomplishments. He did not attempt to explain spiritism or even psychic phenomena, but skimmed the surfaces glibly.

At the close of his entertainment he announced that to distinguish between the real seeker after truth and the skeptical ones, autographed photographs of himself would be given in the lobby, and each buyer of a picture could come upon the stage and ask a question. "I do not make any money from the sale of these pictures," said Khaym, "because I am turning over every cent from their sale to the Armenian relief fund."

Pantages. RAUL PEREIRA returns with his string quintet to delight his patrons of years' standing on Pantages' new bill. M. Pereira is a Portuguese violinist of excellence and he is apparently most happy when he plays. His solos are delightful and he plays for the melody and harmony rather than for a display of technique. He has arranged the program so that it takes in a number of classical selections and he has not forgotten to put in a number of popular and ragtime airs. These he and the orchestra play with as much distinction as they give to more pretentious numbers. The entire act is handsomely staged with the men players looking quite distinguished in velvet coats.

Because the train arrived from the boat late, it was necessary to be transferred early enough to the theater, the water was not heated sufficiently warm and so the pretty maid did not go through the act. However, at the night performance the water in the tank had been heated and so the act went on with great success.

The Borlo sisters offer the aquatic number. One of them sings, but this is not really necessary, since the diving is the big feature. Four unusually shapely girls, all expert divers and very graceful and peppery, go through a series of brilliant dives and sports in a huge tank.

A fascinating girl is Florence Rayfield, who lives up to her billing as a ray of sunshine. She is a beautiful young girl of culture and personal charm and she sings clever songs in a sweet, high soprano. One of her best-liked numbers is "The beautiful girls who get by." Miss Rayfield has visited here before, but this probably will be her last visit for several seasons, as she goes to New York to a Ziegfeld show next season.

Sherman, Van and Hyman are three comedians, one a fat boy who plays the piano and pokes fun at the other two, who sing and cut up. The harmony in their singing is good and they win lots of applause with their nonsense.

Renard is a clever comedian of quite methods who wins plenty of laughter as a hotel clerk. Miss Jordan, very slender and with a sense of comedy, is a guest at Renard's hotel. Together they argue and sing and exchange pleasantries which command a big spot on the bill for them.

Fred and Anna Felor are a pair of keen jugglers who set their act to happy comedy. Fred lets the audience throw apples at him and catches them on a fork in his mouth. They dance and cut up and provide lots of fun.

Daredevil Jack Dempsey is in episode four of his Pantagesque offering, "Taking a Chance," which is attracting attention because of the story and the fame of its hero.

Since using Resinol I have not worn a veil

"I know you will say a veil is smart-looking, anyway, but I wore one because my skin was so blotched and rough I was ashamed of it, till Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap took away all the soreness and gradually cleared my skin entirely. Now I can't bear to wear a veil. Resinol is fine, too, for chapped skins." At all druggists.
