

IRISH BILL DUNGE, ASQUITH DECLARES

Home Rule Measure Is Held Wholly Inadequate.

COUNTY OPTION PROPOSED

Possibility of Sinn Fein County Suggested by Sir Edward Carson—Bonar Law Replies.

LONDON, March 30.—Herbert H. Asquith in the house of commons today described the Irish home rule bill as "a cumbersome duplication and multiplication of negotiations and efforts."

Mr. Asquith recalled that in 1914 he gave a pledge that Ireland should have one parliament and declared that he adhered to that view now. He disapproved, he said, of the view of those who believed there could be no constitutional changes until order had been restored and asserted that the root of the trouble could not be gotten at until there was a wide reform in the government system.

The substitute for this bill for the measure on the statute books, Mr. Asquith continued, took from the Irish what the majority of them wanted in one form or another and attempted to force on them something the great majority disliked and would always refuse to accept. He advocated amending the 1914 home rule act, enlarging the powers of the Irish parliament and executive so as to give them the status of a dominion.

County Option Favored. Mr. Asquith said he still favored the expediency of county option for Ulster, whereupon Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster unionist leader, asked the speaker if he favored county option for the south of Ireland. Mr. Asquith answered in the affirmative. "Then we can have a Sinn Fein county," retorted Sir Edward.

Premier Lloyd George changed his plans for engaging the debate, deciding not to reply until tomorrow to Mr. Asquith's attack upon the bill. Andrew Bonar Law, the government leader, followed Mr. Asquith's attack, declaring that if the liberal leader proposed to amend the existing law, as he had indicated, his proposal would be condemned unanimously by the representatives of southern Ireland as the present bill.

FOUR ALTERNATIVES NOTED.

Mr. Bonar Law asked what Mr. Asquith meant by "county option," whether he meant that any county would remain united to the government until it was ready to come in. The government leader said that he new bill was not the result of free choice on the part of the government. It recognizes that when the rest of the peace treaties was signed, the existing law for Irish home rule would become operative. This would have meant that Ulster would be added to the Dublin parliament against its will—something which the government would not attempt to carry through.

There were four alternatives, said Mr. Bonar Law. The first was to repeal the home rule act; the second, to establish dominion home rule; the third, to give self-determination to Irish people; and the fourth, to give Ireland the largest measure of home rule compatible with national security and the interests of the British empire. The last, declared Mr. Bonar Law, was what it was intended to give through the present bill.

TALE OF SABOTAGE TOLD CHIEF WITNESSES ARRIVE AT STOCKTON, CAL., TRIAL.

Activities of I. W. W. in California as Revenge in Ford and Surr Case Related.

STOCKTON, Cal., March 30.—Elbert Coffin and Jack Dymond, chief witnesses for the prosecution in the trial of E. W. Lewis for criminal syndicalism, arrived here today. Coffin was immediately placed on the stand by Deputy District Attorney Leroy Johnson.

Despite repeated objections to Coffin's testimony by Attorney J. G. Lawlor, counsel for the defendant, Judge J. A. Quinn admitted the evidence testimony given by Coffin. Lawlor maintained that none of the testimony as to I. W. W. meetings and sabotage was connected in any way with Lewis. The evidence was admitted, the judge ruled, as tending to show the character and activities of the I. W. W., an organization to which Lewis is said to belong.

Coffin, who was an I. W. W. for several years, told of meetings he attended in Kansas City, Great Falls, Spokane and other places. Relating the activities of the I. W. W. in Sacramento, Coffin told how the organization there had appointed a committee to try and interest the American Federation of Labor in the Ford and Surr case. Later, he said, they had advocated sabotage in revenge for the arrest of Ford and Surr.

L. Lambert, the Sacramento secretary, suggested, Coffin said, sowing Johnson grass as one means of sabotage and talks were held daily concerning the best means to employ. Another member had suggested "dropping matches" according to Coffin.

The witness told of plans to put out stickers suggesting sabotage. These mentioned placing copper tracks in trees and vines and warning people against eating California fruit.

STARS OF MOVING PICTURE WORLD WHO WERE MARRIED IN LOS ANGELES, AND FORMER PORTLAND MINISTER WHO READ THE WEDDING SERVICE.

"MARY" MRS. FAIRBANKS

MARRIAGE TAKES PLACE AT LOS ANGELES SUNDAY.

Rev. James Whitcomb Brougier Is Pastor at Simple Wedding After Church.

(Continued From First Page) for something in the license line when I was invited out to the dinner, so I took along the necessary documents. When they brought the subject up, I said, 'I know I'd get you two some time,' and Fairbanks laughed. After I had made out the papers, I said, 'Well, that's my masterpiece in marriage licenses. You can shoot me again, but would I have anything better than this?'

The bride obtained a divorce from Moore on the ground of desertion. The bridegroom has a son, Douglas Fairbanks Jr. His first wife is the daughter of a wealthy resident of Rhode Island, named Ulysses.

Statement Not Borne Out. The night of her return here from Minden, Nev., after two or three days devoted to the trip home, was largely in dodging newspaper interviews, the bride gave out a statement to the effect that she "would never marry again, but would devote the remainder of her life to motion pictures."

Miss Pickford and Fairbanks are said to have been married through their motion picture work. In obtaining the license, the bride gave her name as Gladys Mary Smith Moore, and her age as 29, the bridegroom gave his name and age as Douglas Elton Fairbanks, 36.

The biblical passage read at the marriage ceremony from the Bible of the groom's mother were from Ephesians V, beginning: "Wives, be in subjection unto your own husbands, as the church is to herself, which she saves, and cleanses with the word of water by the word of water."

The wedding might have taken place Friday night, except for the bride's belief Friday was "not a good day to be married" and her conviction that "Sunday was." Also she wanted to be married in white and that Friday night she happened to be wearing black dress.

Four of Mrs. Fairbanks said tonight they had attempted to keep their marriage a secret until they had finished the picture work. They said they had planned as a honeymoon a three-months tour of Europe by automobile. They will sail for Europe on May 19, and will visit France, Spain, Belgium, Holland, Sweden, the Austrian Tyrol, Switzerland and Italy.

They expect to return about September 1 and make their home here. Both will remain in motion pictures. "Cupid" Sparks, commenting on the wedding, said: "They were as nervous a couple when they were married as any I ever saw."

Yet tonight at the Fairbanks' home interviewers said they seemed quite at ease. "I thought they were happy," asked Fairbanks. "I'll say we are."

Decree of divorce from Owen Moore was given Mary Pickford at Minden, Nev., March 2, on grounds of desertion. Following the granting of the decree the Little film star announced that she planned to devote herself to her career.

Gossip, it is said, had linked the names of Miss Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks for some time previous to the divorce, and at the time Mrs. Fairbanks, first wife of the actor, said she "thought the time had come to end it" and that she could not defend "any woman with whom my husband's name has been linked," but she said that she would not "malign her."

According to reports at the time, Miss Pickford appeared at the hearing of the case, which was not contested, in old clothes, and the judge and court officials did not know they were actors in the case of the most famous of feminine screen stars.

At the time it was said that the public had had no inkling that the domestic life of the Moore family was not tranquil or that their marriage was other than a "love match."

Previous to the divorce suit Miss Pickford, with her mother, had been living quietly at the Campbell ranch near Genoa, Nev., since February 15. Miss Pickford was born in Canada and was a British subject until by her marriage to Fairbanks she automatically became an American citizen.

Another radical change for Mary was the entrance into some religious denomination other than that with which she has been associated since childhood. Miss Pickford's people and herself have always been members of the Catholic church, which institution fails to acknowledge marriage of divorced people. There has been no indication as to which church, if any, Miss Pickford will affiliate with.

HOPES OF SUFFRAGE CRUSADERS REVIVED

Action in Mississippi Spurs Delaware Leaders.

VOTE TODAY IS EXPECTED

Belief Is That House in Southern State Will Ratify in Line With Senate.

DOVER, Del., March 30.—News of the ratification of the proposed constitutional suffrage amendment by the upper branch of the Mississippi legislature aroused intense interest here today and spurred the suffrage workers to greater efforts to obtain ratification by the Delaware assembly. The legislators were urged not to let the southern state beat them out in the race that has suddenly developed.

The opponents of ratification were no less active and when the legislature adjourned for the day the situation was described by leaders of both sides as virtually unchanged. The revised statutes committee, to which the joint resolution had been referred, voted today, 2, to report the measure out "on its merits."

The negative votes were cast by Democrats. It is generally expected that the vote will be taken in the house tomorrow. T. Coleman Du Pont, republican national committeeman, and United States senator, will be in conference today with republican members of the senate and house. Both urged the legislature to vote for ratification.

Later Senator Gormley and Representative McNabb, Democrats, and Representative Lloyd, however, Republicans, sent a telegram to the speaker of the Mississippi house of representatives urging a firm stand against ratification by that body.

"Stand firm against ratification of the Anthony amendment," the telegram said. "Delaware will not ratify. We refuse to be stamped and whipped in line by any party lash."

JACKSON, Miss., March 30.—After ratification of the federal suffrage amendment by the Mississippi senate today supporters of the measure began celebrating in a telegraphic and absentee members of the house to return immediately in preparation for the fight there.

Letting the senate come as a complete surprise, in view of the adverse vote previously taken, the vote today was close and was made effective by the action of the veteran anti-Governor Casteel after the senators present had tied.

Predictions that the house would ratify on the ratification of the amendment were made freely. A bill already has been enacted permitting women to vote in primary and general elections, and the amendment becomes effective.
