

WOMAN TREKS INTO
WILDS OF ALASKAGlories of Mount McKinley
Unfold to Mrs. Wilson.

5000-MILE TRIP TAKEN

Pretty Omaha Widow "Mushies"
Over Alaskan Trails to Regain Health—Caribou Killed.

With the record of being the first white woman to visit the Mount McKinley national park in Alaska, with miles and miles of "mushies" to her credit, with a caribou and other big game trophies to her credit, and with her health entirely restored after a year in the interior, Mrs. Ruth Y. Wilson, pretty young Omaha widow, arrived in Portland yesterday. She was a passenger on the steamer Alaska that reached Seattle last Friday. She left last night for California.

Mrs. Wilson is the wife of the late Frank H. Wilson, Omaha telephone company, who was killed at Fremont, Neb., in 1918. After being selected for overseas service in the war and having the armistice put an end to those activities, Mrs. Wilson suffered a nervous breakdown and set out on a 5000-mile journey to visit her brother, William Campbell, a mining man at Fairbanks for the last 22 years.

From the time she arrived at Fairbanks until she reached Portland yesterday Mrs. Wilson's experiences have kept her at the highest pitch of enthusiasm over the wonders of Alaska. From Fairbanks she made the trip to Cordova and Chitina over the Copper river railroad, took the long trail, 300 miles, by stage over the Alaska coast range. In April, 1919, she was on the move by train, automobile, sledge, dog sled, steamboat and foot, penetrating into the deserted wilds of the interior.

She was on the first steamer to make the trip up the Kantishna to the deserted mining camp, Rosebud City, since the gold strike was made there in 1908. The steamer carried two barges loaded with supplies for Joe Dalton and Mrs. A. Quigley, the only persons left at Rosebud City. It was the first supplies they had received, except by packing in more than 13 years. Tom Dalton was at Forty Mile before the war broke out and never came out since, and the Quigleys have not been outside in many years.

From Rosebud City Mrs. Wilson started on her first trip, 30 miles to the Quigley home, where she was taken in charge by Mrs. Quigley, or she is known throughout the interior, Fannie McKenzie Quigley.

A hunting trip to the Bear creek country which netted nine moose, five black bear and four glaucer bear was the first experience with the Quigleys, and then a trip was undertaken to the Mount McKinley national park and Wonder lake. That entailed a ten-day boat trip up the Tanana river into the Kantishna country and Big Moose creek canyon, believed by scientists to be the old bed of the McKinley river. Days of hiking followed with good hunting all the way. Mrs. Wilson had her first shot at big game and brought down a caribou with her first shot. Mountain goats and bear were later added to her trophies. On one hunt nine moose were killed and Mrs. Wilson got permission to bring a couple of heads out.

Gold Claims Staked.
The gold fever struck this intrepid little woman while she was in the deserted Rosebud City camp and she staked out several claims on which her brother is now doing extensive work. The one mine operating in that section is turning out rich ore according to Mrs. Wilson, so rich that it pays to pack and transport it several hundred miles in sacks to the nearest smelter. The steamer Kantishna, which made the first trip to Rosebud City in 12 years, brought back several tons of ore which had been packed in sacks for 30 miles.

Mrs. Wilson's enthusiasm for Alaska know no bounds. "It is the most wonderful country I have ever seen," she declared. "Mr. and Mrs. Quigley, who were so kind to me, live nearly 5000 feet up on the mountain side and Mrs. Quigley raises enough vegetables for their use right there."

RAILWAY AGENTS GUESTS

CANADIAN PACIFIC REPRESENTATIVES IN CITY.

Passenger Department Officials

Have Concluded Conferences.

Portland guests yesterday included a group of passenger department representatives of the Canadian Pacific railroad, who have just concluded one of the annual conferences by which that company keeps its men acquainted with traffic conditions of the system. The conference met at Toronto, and leaving there by special train March 14, sessions were held at various stops en route westward. The train arrived at Vancouver Tuesday of last week and Wednesday was devoted to a tour of Vancouver island. At Victoria the party boarded the Empress of Russia on her inbound trip to Vancouver. This was one of the experiences of the trip for the sound was a bit rough and the passenger men had not had time to get their "sea legs."

The party consisted of about 50 of

WOODYARD MAKES TROUBLE

RESIDENTS OF NEIGHBORHOOD
COMPLAIN OF NUISANCE.Attorney LaRoche Will Be Asked for Opinion as to Powers of City Council.

The right to re-open a woodyard without permission from the city council when such woodyard is in the center of a residential district is the question passed along to City Attorney LaRoche yesterday by the city council.

The matter arose through protests filed by property owners within 200 feet of a woodyard operated by Miller Brothers at East Third-first and Alberta streets.

According to information given the council, the woodyard was first opened in 1910 and after several years was closed. Last July Miller Brothers re-opened it. Between the time it was closed and re-opened the city council passed an ordinance making a permit necessary for the operation of woodyards.

W. W. Dugan, who headed a large delegation of protestants, claimed that the sidewalk in front of the place was constantly blocked and that it formed a nuisance in the district.

Members of the city council seemed willing to grant Miller Brothers a special permit for a limited time in the event that the city attorney holds it is within the city's rights to keep the woodyard closed.

The council refused application made by the same parties to open a woodyard at a proposed site not far distant from the present one.

ZONING REPEAL PASSED
MEASURE TO BE SUBMITTED AT NOVEMBER ELECTION.

Repeal Becomes Effective December 1 if Ordinance Is Not Approved by Voters.

An ordinance repealing the building zone ordinance passed by the city council March 17 was passed yesterday by the same body by unanimous vote.

The ordinance repeals the zoning measure, but the new ordinance, December 1, 1920, providing the voters fall to approve the measure at the special city election in November.

Opponents of the measure have not waited for the council to repeal the zoning measure, but are now circulating petitions to apply the referendum. If sufficient signatures can be obtained by the city to April 17, the petitioners are filed with the city clerk, the zoning ordinance will not be operative.

Members of the council who favor the ordinance have applied the repeal in order that the zoning ordinance might be tried a few months.

The ordinance was passed after months of argument. It was drafted by the city planning commission and its consultant, Charles Henry Cheney, and before the final drafts were prepared the city council had been in session in all parts of the city to determine the nature of the restrictions which were to be imposed.

TROUBLE FOR MARY
BREWING IN NEVADA

Pickford-Moore Divorce Decree May Be Set Aside.

FRAUD ON COURT SCENTED

Deputy Attorney-General Is Investigating Case and Declares Action May Be Taken.

RENO, Nev., March 31.—The entire record of the Mary Pickford divorce case is under a close investigation by Robert Richards, deputy attorney-general of Nevada, for the purpose of ascertaining whether it holds any irregularities or evidence of fraud or collusion that would justify an action being taken to set the decree aside.

The deputy attorney-general said this morning that when his investigations are concluded action undoubtedly will be taken by the state in case the facts justify it.

"Just at this time," said the deputy attorney-general, "I am unable to say what will develop in the Pickford case because the investigation I am making has not been completed. I am going over the entire record of the case and if there are irregularities or any evidence that a fraud was worked that the decision will be handed down before the law becomes effective."

The defendants in the action are Attorney-General George M. Brown, represented in court by J. O. Bailey and Walter Evans, district attorney for Multnomah county, represented by Samuel Pierce. In two instances other defendants are named—Max Gehlhar, district attorney for Marion county, and J. J. Barrett, district attorney for Clatsop county.

Corporations which are contesting the law, asserting that its enforcement is against the constitutional guarantees of free speech and free press, and confiscatory of property rights, are: St. Benedict's Abbey of the Holy Cross, and the Western Workmen's Publishing company of Astoria, also represented by Mr. Manning, the German Publishing company of Portland, represented by A. E. Kern, and the Swedish Publishing company of Portland, represented by Conrad Olson.

Attorneys argued the case during the entire forenoon session. During the afternoon Senator A. W. Norblad of Astoria, author of the bi-lingual measure, addressed the legislature, outlining the attitude of the legislature in enacting the law.

Sleepless Nights Caused by

Tormenting Skin Diseases

When the Skin Seems Ablaze

With Itching Pain.

When your skin disease reaches its worst stage and the fiery burning causes you to scratch and scratch in an effort to obtain relief, there is many a sleepless night in store for you.

It is nothing more than folly to expect to be cured by the use of local treatment, such as ointments, salves, lotions, etc. Such remedies may afford some temporary relief, but you want more relief; you want a cure that will rid you forever of the torturing disorder.

Eczeema, tetter, boils, pimples, ulcers, irritations and scalp eruptions, as well as all other skin diseases, come from a disordered condition of the blood. They must be cured through the blood, and this explains why local treatment fails so absolutely.

The radical and rational treatment is to take a thorough course of S. S. S., the purely vegetable blood remedy, which thoroughly cleanses the blood of every particle of impurity. A few bottles of S. S. S. will rout out the disease germs from your blood, your complexion will be clear and you will soon be rid of the disease, as thousands of others have.

Get a bottle at the drugstore today, write to our head physician, we will gladly give you full medical advice without charge. Address Medical Director, 150 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

MINISTERS COMMENT
ON MARY'S MARRIAGE

"Gauzy" Marriage Ties Decisively Condemned.

SOME APPROVE WEDDING

With One Exception, Clergymen Chary of Expressing Opinion of Preacher Who Tied Knot.

Dwellers in glass houses, or those who may by circumstance be somewhat ensconced therein, beware of mind—occasionally—the adage admonition not to cast stones. For example, there is the comment of Portland clergymen upon the ethical niceties of Dr. James Whitcomb Brougher's position as a minister of the gospel at the marriage of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, stars of the screen, solemnized at Los Angeles Sunday.

While Portland, as a typical American city, expressed all the phases of opinion, disapproval, nonchalance, commendation and caustic criticism, prominent ministers of the city were chary of comment—though in general they expressed decisive antipathies to the marriage ties and easy divorce of Dr. Brougher, a distinguished clergyman and lecturer, his fellow laborers had less than the title of saint.

One Minister Exception.
With but one exception the interviewed clergymen asserted that it would be unethical and unfair to criticize or condemn Dr. Brougher for aiding "Doug" and Mary to conjugal felicity, despite the fact that the film favorites have both passed through the portals of divorce courts.

"What do I think of this marriage?" repeated Rev. Thomas Jenkins, pastor of St. David's Episcopal church, who constituted the exception. "It would not do for me to express my opinion on the matter. Why should we censure Dr. Brougher merely because these people are notorious divorcees? The public is entitled to know around us every day. To Fairbanks and Miss Pickford has been accorded a measure of prominence in the motion-picture world, and by reason of that prominence they and their affairs become notorious."

Case Called Disgrace.
"There exists no reason for condemning Dr. Brougher," continued Mr. Jenkins, "when the same thing is countenanced everywhere, in less conspicuous cases. Before we criticize one particular case let us recognize the prevalence of the many."

"I think it an abomination," exclaimed Mr. Jenkins, coming suddenly to open opinion. "I think it is an outstanding disgrace that the case of Christ, should ever lend a hand to such proceedings."

Dr. W. T. McElven, pastor of the First Congregational church, who officiated at the wedding of Robert Treat Platt and Mrs. Ella H. Klippel of Portland, both of whom have been freed from prior nuptial bonds, said that he believed that divorces, while too freely given in some instances dictated by the circumstances.

"I am sorry that divorces receive such awful publicity," said Dr. McElven. "The publicity given to them cannot fail to have a bad effect on young people, who hear such stories as that of the Fairbanks-Pickford affair."

Boycott Threats Heard.
"Divorces are far too common—but we must have them in instances where future happiness depends upon the continuance of the marriage tie. But to procure a divorce merely to marry someone else looks rather bad, that's certain."

Dr. William A. Waldo, pastor of the White Temple, was reluctant to discuss the ethics of Dr. Brougher's role in the romance of filmdom. But he did not hesitate to express firm convictions upon divorce as an evil.

Publicity Is Decried.
"It is a deplorable fact that divorces are having such wide prevalence," said Dr. Waldo, "particularly in the case of the Fairbanks-Pickford teaching of Jesus Christ was opposed."

Presiding in the pulpit once occupied by Dr. Brougher, and acknowledging a close personal friendship, Dr. William A. Waldo, pastor of the White Temple, was reluctant to discuss the ethics of Dr. Brougher's role in the romance of filmdom. But he did not hesitate to express firm convictions upon divorce as an evil.

An interview of the two principals, asked Dr. Pence, "Why not an interview on Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks?" (Insert program.)
