

WITNESS TESTIFIES IN TONGUES OF FIRE

Member of Apostolic Faith
Surprises Court.

JUDGE THROWS SUIT OUT

Opinions Expressed From Bench
That Both Parties to Divorce
Application Are Unworthy.

Graphic demonstration of the religious fervor aroused in the minds of the disciples of the Apostolic Faith mission was given in Circuit Judge Gatens' court yesterday morning when A. E. Davidson, in testifying for Mrs. Hattie Michael in her divorce suit against E. F. Michael, suddenly broke away from his line of even-voiced testimony and began talking rapidly and excitedly in an unknown tongue.

The witness spoke loudly and wildly in what he described as the tongues of fire, a language which comes "unbidden" to the lips of the true believers in that particular sect. Court Stenographer Van Horn gasped when the witness began suddenly to shout a jumble of words that none could understand. The court advised the stenographer not to attempt to take down the fervid but unintelligible sermon.

Case Is Thrown Out of Court.
Despite the impromptu tongues of fire Judge Gatens threw the case out of court because of what he characterized as the gross immorality of both the man and the woman.

"This court has consistently refused to wash the dirty linen of any family, and I will not hear any other witnesses in this case," he said. The husband sought the divorce decree on charges of infidelity and on the further grounds that the Apostolic Faith mission had alienated the affections of Mrs. Michael from him. Mrs. Michael in her complaint alleged cruelty.

"If this woman has reformed and is now leading a new life, I am glad of it," said Judge Gatens, "but her own testimony in this courtroom this morning shows she is so weak mentally or is so immoral that she is not entitled to any relief. And the husband likewise has shown that he is no better, if not worse, than his wife."

Husband Denies Compulsion.
The husband denied that he had compelled any improper conduct on the part of his wife. He admitted he had never taken any decisive action to protect his home, but said he had refrained for the sake of his children. "Any real man would have taken the other fellow by the neck and broken it," said Judge Gatens.

ANTI-NON-PARTISAN TALKS

ORCHARDISTS OF CLYDE ARE WARNED BY ARTHUR FOSTER.

Rancher of South Dakota Declares
Alertness Necessary to Detect
Machinations of Workers.

HOOD RIVER, Or., March 31.—(Special.)—Arthur Foster, rancher of Clyde, N. D., in a lecture to the orchardists in Pine Grove Grange hall yesterday, warned them to be on the alert for representatives of the Non-Partisan league. Mr. Foster gave data on results of the Non-Partisan regime in North Dakota, based on personal observation, declared that solicitors for the organization progressed through districts semi-secretly.

"They never begin their campaigns of publicity," said Mr. Foster, "until they have mastered the canvases and have secured the $15 dues of members. When they get the money they soon begin to boast of their success. Just keep your money in your pocket and the Non-Partisan league will cease its solicitude."

Mr. Foster delivered his address under auspices of the Hood River County Taxpayers' league, an affiliation of the State Taxpayers' league, organized to combat the Non-Partisan league and its Oregon alliance, the United Land and Labor party. Mr. Foster declared that the country at large had heard much of the state bank of North Dakota. He cited, however, regulations that prohibited any examination of it, so that all the general public may know of the bank's condition must be accepted from statements of the director-general.
