

FEVER OF POLITICS BEGINS TO SPREAD

Voters in Oregon Primary to Have Wide Choice.

DEMOCRATS LITTLE SHY

Bourbon Leaders Give Assurance of Full Ticket Though Aspirants
Are Few; Republicans Active.

Every day now sees a few more candidates for republican nominations on the legislative ticket appear. The ticket will not be short of names, for the fever is beginning to spread and the voters are guaranteed a wide selection of applicants from which to make a choice. The democratic aspirants are still few and far between, but the leaders give assurances that Multnomah county will have a complete democratic legislative ticket.

There are five state senators to nominate. The entries up to yesterday were: Isaac Staples, W. D. Whitcomb, D. C. Lewis, Gus Erickson, W. P. Hume and J. C. Shillock. There will probably be as many more in the field before the final day for closing, one week from today. Gus C. Moser will probably file within a few days and there are rumors of James D. Abbott, Hamilton Corbett and I. N. Day as prospects.

Twelve representatives are to be nominated. This list, filed up to yesterday afternoon, showed the following: W. C. North, J. D. Lee, Oren R. Richards, Fred D. Weber, K. K. Kubil, Herbert Gordon, Bartlet Cole and E. F. Williams. For the house, there are many being discussed. Among them are W. L. Finley, A. K. Downey, Charles Hindeman, John B. Coffey, Captain Hosford, J. O. Elrod, F. R. Peterson, Frank H. McGuire, Frank J. Longergan, Harvey Wells and D. C. Harrin.

In addition to the foregoing, a few former service men may take a fling at the primaries.

Ernest T. Mass, deputy United States marshal, intends seeking the democratic nomination for sheriff of Clackamas county, a position which he held several years ago.

J. W. Bell, judge of district court No. 1, has filed his declaration for re-nomination in the republican primaries. He has held this position since the district was created and says that if nominated and elected again he will continue to endeavor to hew to the line.

Joseph Scott, a Los Angeles attorney, is scheduled to deliver an address for Senator Johnson at the Masonic temple Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. This will be the opening oratorical gun of the Johnson campaign in this state.

Dr. Esther Lovejoy has filed for the democratic nomination for representative in congress for the Third district. Her slogan is: "Oregon's resources are the heritage of her people—safeguard and develop them." Dr. Lovejoy is now in the east and will not be in Portland to make a campaign in the primaries. She is the only candidate in the field for the nomination at present.

Efforts have been made to have James Mahoney, a banker of Pendleton, run for the democratic nomination for representative in the Second congressional district.

PRESIDENT OF ALBANY COLLEGE ENTERTAINS CLASSES.

Reception Takes Place at "Geary Oaks," New Home of Head of Educational Institution.

ALBANY, Or., April 8.—(Special.)—A coincidence in the naming of the new country home of A. M. Williams, president of Albany college, "Geary Oaks," developed at a reception given in the new home last evening by President and Mrs. Williams to the junior and sophomore classes of the college.

Dr. Edwin R. Geary was one of the founders of Albany college and was its president for many years. He resided on a farm southeast of Albany, the street which marks the eastern boundary line of the city being named Geary street in his honor. Before he was elected president of Albany college Mr. Williams, who was inaugurated about two months ago, erected this new home, and as it is situated on an extension of Geary street and stands in a beautiful oak forest he named it "Geary Oaks." Dr. Wallace Howe Lee, dean of the faculty, remarked that soon after this place was so named Mr. Williams was elected president of the college as one of the successors of Dr. Geary.

Part of the time at the reception was spent in stories of college events of pioneer days and some of the facts for this recital were furnished by Dr. E. P. Geary of Portland, son of the former president of Albany college, who spent his boyhood days on the farm near Albany. President and Mrs. Williams entertained the junior and sophomore classes at dinner at the St. Francis hotel and then the guests were driven to the president's new country home for the enjoyable reception which followed.

FISH AGREEMENT PLEASES

INTERESTS INVOLVED EXPRESS FULL APPROVAL.

Commission Chairman Says Arrangement is Start Toward Permanent Solution.

MEDFORD, Or., April 8.—(Special.)—Unanimous approval of the action of the directors of the Rogue River Fish and Game Protective association and the Ashland association in the temporary arrangement entered into recently with the commercial fishing interests at the mouth of the Rogue river was voted at the largely attended monthly meeting of the two associations here Tuesday night.

While it was admitted by some of the principals in the negotiations that it might have been better to have invited the Grants Pass delegation to the meeting with Mr. Macleay, it was pointed out that it would be impossible to procure the united approval of Grants Pass to any arrangement except a completely closed river, which was deemed impossible at this time.

E. V. Carter of Ashland, chairman of the state fish and game commission, said that the compromise was the beginning of a solution to an old and tiresome controversy that the entire state would be glad to see ended. He complimented the directors who had worked out the compromise even if it was only temporary.

THE GASOLINE SITUATION

The Necessity of Conservation

There exists today on the Pacific Coast an acute shortage of gasoline. As this Company has pointed out on several occasions, the condition is due to insufficient production of crude oil and a greatly increased consumption of gasoline by industry and by owners of pleasure cars.

Gasoline is a vital factor in the life of the community, industrially and otherwise, and it is of the greatest importance, at this juncture, that it be used with the utmost discretion, that essential requirements may be supplied.

The present is by no means the season of maximum demand, which comes later in the year. The condition, therefore, is likely to be continuing, rather than transitory.

Responsibility for meeting the situation does not rest solely upon the oil industry. The public also has a serious duty in the matter.

On its part, the Standard Oil Company is straining its resources and organization to increase the supply of gasoline. In the field it is working for the maximum production of crude oil. In the refinery it is working for the maximum production of gasoline from the crude oil and it is spending large sums of money on equipment for new processes, of its own discovery and development, whereby a still greater yield of gasoline will be obtained.

The point already has been reached where gasoline must be conserved most carefully. That is a duty of the public. In consumption of this product, essential industries must necessarily come first—pleasure utilization thereafter.

Already the Company has taken steps toward protecting the supply for the vital needs of industry which, if lessened, would affect the business life of the community. There is now the danger of a curtailment of supply to non-essentials such as pleasure cars.

The assistance of the public, therefore, is imperative. Until lately, gasoline has been abundant, and its lavish and extravagant use has been possible. That time has passed.

Buy as little gasoline as possible.

Use what you must—Waste none.
