PORTLAND'S baseball b-osting colony donned its non-skid treads yesterday and started something by way of making the baseball opening day, April 21, a thing of beauty, 1916-1914 inclusive Consecutive seasons.

Billy Mascott will get his acid test tonight at Seattle when he meets Mike Ertle. Ertle is a good boxer and has met the best in the world from Jimmy Wilde down. The Mil-waukie boxing commission is reported to be planning on using Mascott here on the April 21 against Sammy Gordon. With Pal Moore westward bound, this would appear to be slightly premature. Mascott is immensely popular with local boxing fans and the aforesaid fans would like to see here against some boxer of interna-tional reputation.

Why doesn't the Milwaukie com-mission or the Portland boxing com-mission put on a Mascott-Pal Moore bout? There is pienty of time for the interpecine warfare after the fans have seen their favorite in action against one of the eastern cracks.

It is possible that Portland fans will get a glimpse of the famous New York mermaids, Charlotte Boyle and Ethelda Bliebtrey, who are now in Honolulu for the centennial swim-

I think Portland has the record. That crowd of 16,126 in 1913 is the largest single crowd that can be found in the official records. Somebody beld out some of the money at San Francisco if the Seals beat 16,123, because it doesn't show that large in the ledgers. However, I would like to see Portland set a mark that will be undisputed."

it was because of his hitting ability his habit of breaking up ball games with a home run. Many stories were printed as to what Ruth ought to do in the matter of home runs with a short fence in both right and left field at the Polo grounds, and 77 games in which to shoot at them. Then the question was raised that in all probability Ruth would receive more passes than ever this year, and the New York club and the New York fans would not receive a real run for their money, because in a pinch the pitcher would invariably slip Ruth an intentional advance reservation sales at all the invariably slip Ruth an intentional advance reservation sales at all the cities involved."

I wrote an article on the subject, and asked the fans of the country to send me their opinions on the evil. I received hundreds of replies, and some of the remedies offered for curbing the evil had much merit. Most of them, however, were rather drastic in their treatment of the subject, and called for a revision of the rules that meant a decided departure from precedent. Evidently the rulemakers feared to adopt a rule that was decidedly contrary to any former method of handling the play.
