Perishables and Carload Shipments Not Yet Accepted-Strike in South Said to Be Breaking.

Improved outlook in the transpor tation situation of Portland with regard to the strike of outlaw switch gard to the strike of outlaw switchmen was reported by operating officials of the railroads yesterday. The number of men working on the day shift was unchanged at the Albina yards and union station.

Three full crews were on duty at the Southern Pacific Brooklyn yards and other new men were available for work when needed. The interruption of through traffic from the south had reduced the need of full crews in the terminal yards of the crews in the terminal yards of the Southern Pacific. Likewise, the fact that no through freight was arriving from the east over the Union lessended the need for full in the Oregon-Washington In the Spokane, Portland & Scattle yard the strike was still com-plete, but that a break was in immediate prospect was indicated by the announcement that beginning today dead freight would be received by the company, subject to delay. The embargo was still firm on all per-ishables or carload lot shipments.

51 Men Reported at Work. Check of the men reporting for duty showed that 51 men of the crews on duty at the beginning of the strike were working. The additional crews that were doing the switching were composed either of officials and men in other lines of railroad work or of new men.

There has been a surprising number of trained and well qualified mer applying for positions as switchmen," said A. T. Mercler, superintendent for the Southern Pacific in Oregon.
"There will be no trouble in getting as many men as are needed to fill the crews as soon as the movement calls for further additions. The sit-uation is very satisfactory and no great inconvenience has been occasioned by the brief tie-up in the local yards. Reports from the south were that the strike was breaking fast, and we anticipate that it will be over before the end of this week. It is merely a matter of a little time accustom the new men to the
