

PORTLAND ASSURED OF BAND CONCERTS

Opposition Is Withdrawn and $10,000 Appropriated.

LONGER LEASES WANTED

Members of Council Not Inclined to Expend City Funds on Property Held for Short Term.

Portland is to have its usual season of band concerts. C. A. Bigelow, commissioner of public affairs, who objected to the passage of an ordinance carrying an emergency appropriation of $10,000 when it was up before, consented to the plan yesterday morning, and the council put the measure through.

St. C. Pier, commissioner of finance, under whose supervision the concerts will be given in the parks, will advertise for bids as soon as possible. He said yesterday that he proposes to have an unusually good programme for the season and that a large number of visitors who will be here for the Shrine and other conventions, as well as for the Rose Festival.

No street shows permitted. The council voted unanimously to permit no shows or circuses of any kind within the city limits during the Shrine and other conventions. Joseph Hutchinson, license inspector, was instructed to issue no license for any such and also to ask the city attorney to prepare an ordinance that will make absolutely necessary the granting of a license before any street affair of this nature may proceed.

"We must make certain that there are no exhibitions of any kind here during the weeks of the big gatherings this year that will make us look like a 'jay' town," said Mayor Baker, in bringing the subject to the attention of the commissioners. They agreed with him.

The council discussed a proposed amendment to the charter that will enable the members to enter into leases for more than two years for properties of other than public buildings, such as the county commissioners or school board. The subject was brought up because it had been learned by Commissioner Pier that property recently supposedly given to the council by the county commissioners at the poor farm for park purposes really was not given outright, but is only to be leased.

Longer Leases Wanted. Inasmuch as the members of the council are not inclined to expend city funds upon property not owned by the municipality or leased for a term longer than two years, it was thought advisable to effect if possible an arrangement whereby a longer lease may be had. Commissioner Pier was instructed to take up with the city attorney's office the subject of a proper amendment to be submitted to the people at the primary election next month.
