Youthful Fighter Has Canny Opponent in Farmer.

NORTHWEST TITLE STAKE

Joe Gorman to Get Chance to Try K. O. Wallops on Former Rival in Draw Battle.

BY RICHARD R. SHARP. Did Chet McIntyre overmatch his youthful protege, "Tiny" Herman? This question has been bothering fight fans ever since Bobby Evans, matchmaker of the Portland boxing ommission, announced that he had signed Herman to step ten rounds with Frank Farmer at the armory next Friday night.

McIntyre, who rates high as a w whereof he speaks when it comes to this Farmer person, is of the opinion that the youthful Herman will dispose of the Tacoma heavyweight as he did Joe Lawson at the Milwaukie arena last Wednesday night.

W. L. Cole ... W. M. L. Cole ... C. W. Myers C. W. Myers G. M. Schaefer Meintyre Should Know.

McIntyre knows Frank Farmer bet-ter than any other man on earth, as he has battled the logger on at least two different occasions besides train-ing him for several starts. On top that he has handled many a maagainst the Tacoma fighter in the last two years and it is a known fact that in some manner or other McIntyre has at all times been a Nemesis to McIntyre did not hesitate when the match was offered him in behalf of his young mauler, while it took some time in obtaining Farmer's consent. As the winner of Friday night's affair will be looked upon as the heavy-weight champion of the northwest and the logical man to meet Bob Mar-tin, A. E. F. heavyweight champion, when he appears here May 21, it will stand Farmer as well as Herman good stead to show to the same good advantage they have shown in their former starts here. A go with Martin for the winner is a certainty, and a match with the former doughboy at this time means considerable to any heavyweight now appearing before the American public, there is no denying that, with the possible excepmagnets in the boxing game.

It will be the second meeting be-tween Gorman and Langford. The first bout ended in a draw after six of the hottest rounds ever staged in the city. Since that time Langford has had to meet boys much heavier than himself. This, however, has not kept Sam from winning his bouts and has met with more than ordinary success when facing such tough hombres card hereabouts for a good many moons is the ten-round special that will send Stanley Wills and Frankie Murphy to the barrier. In tacking Murphy, Willis will without a doubt be facing the toughest proposition he has ever met here. As the boys that have been sent against the lad from Quakertown were envilled by the same of the defense will endeavor to show that this is nothing but a surmise and is being done merely in an effort to strengthen the government's demand for possession of the records of the two plants.

The one thing that has sent Murphy in oig with all who have met the visitor is his modest way of speech. Though a real contender for the welterweight championship he made no speech about wanting a headliner before affixing his name to a contract, and if he shows the same a contract, and if he shows the same class in the ring with Wills as he does in his workouts the matchmakers here will be making no mistake in featuring him with some well-known welter in the near future. Lieutenani-Colonel J. A. Woodruff, of the engineering corps of the United States army, announced that $115,000 will be available for the proving harbor at Nome. The money will be used to construct a jetty and dredge the inner harbor. This improvement will provide a safe landing for small craft during the open season. E. L. Carpenter, a junior engineer in the government service, will supervise the work, which will start immediately after the arrival of the first steamer at Nome. The wooden vessel, Phyllis Comyn, arrived yesterday from California in tow of the tug Hercules and will be converted into a five-masted barkentine. She is one of the five wooden hulls purchased by the Pacific Freighters company. It is the intention of the company to convert the four other buils into windjammers. The Phylis Comyn will load 1,700,000 feet of lumber at Port Blakeley for a port not yet announced.

The tug Hercules is scheduled to sail for San Erancisco tonight towing the first section of the marine lift, the Skinner & Eddy drydock. The other sections will be taken to San Francisco as soon as tugs are available.
