Wealthy Nebraskan Comes West to Claim Bride.

Divorced From Draft Evader, Quits Post at University.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene Or., May 6.—(Special.)—In the past nine months, Julia Miskovsky, 26 years old, a Bohemian, has learned to read and write English, cook, tenta-tively accepted a wealthy Bohemian as her husband and is now on her way to his home in Exeter, Neb., with him and her own five children. She is divorced from her first husband. Last September she started out as one of the assistants in the kitchen of Friendly hall, men's dormitory on the campus. At that time she could speak but few English words and could write only in Bohemian.

Miss Camilla Leach, a member of the university faculty, became inter-ested in her and helped her with Eng-tish and the matron of the hall gave her lessons in cooking. All was well until Tuesday morning when a strange man came to the hall

The prospective bridegroom, it de-veloped, had become interested in Julia through an article on Oregon she had written for a Bohemian paper. He says it contained enough of Julia's life to interest him in her and cor-respondence ensued. When he asked her to marry him, she accepted, and he came to claim her, but Julia has distasteful memories of married life, however, since her former husband deserted her during the war in order to evad the draft by roing to South to evade the draft by going to South America, so she decided she wished to see Mr. Moravee's home before deciding definitely about her future, so the Bohemian widower has agreed to thke her back to Nebraska, let her look over the town of Exeter and his home end then to pay her railroad fare to wherever she chooses if she does not care enough for him.

Children Gathered Up. Today, the two are gathering up the five children to take with them to Nebraska. They got William, aged 11, from a farm near Eugene, where people were caring for him, and now have gone to get the younger children. Two, aged 9 and 7, are at the Catholic home in Oregon City, and two aged 5 and 2 at the baby home at Coswego.

"All Cards Go on Table" at Conference Today.

Slayer Believed Cause of Action by County Officials.

LOS ANGELES, May 6.-Walter cullty to a grand jury indictment charging murder, will be the subject of a conference tomorrow morning by District-Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine and other county officials, and J. Morgan Marmaduke, Watson's at-torney, it was announced tonight. The exact nature of the conference was not disclosed, although it was stated unofficially "all the cards would be laid on the table," but it was believed to be a result of the decision by Judge Frank R. Willis of the riminal department of the superior court, to whom Watson made his plea, to appoint alientsts to investi-gate the prisoners's claims to insan-ity. Sentence will be imposed next Monday.

Watson in Prison Ward. Watson tonight was again in the prison ward of the county hospital, where he received a large boquet of red roses left at the hospital by a woman who drove there in an ex-pensive limousine, but who did not leave her name. The flowers arrived by motor fuel is made from alcohol shortly after his return from pleading guilty to the murder of Nina Lee De-loney, one of five women he is said to have testified killing.

The grand jury acted with speed today in returning the indictment against Watson, who was taken soon afterward from the hospital to Judge Willis' court room in the hall of justice. He told the court his true name was James P. Watson, and it was with the use of that name the legal proseedings against him were conducted
