

PORTLAND WOMAN MAY BE ASSAULTED

Clew Found in Letter Torn to Small Pieces.

STELLA MORRIS IS NAME

Attack on Elizabeth Haynes With Penknife Thought to Have Been Caused by Dementia.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 9.—(Special.)—That Vera Stewart, 23 years old, who was arrested Saturday night following her attack on Miss Marian Elizabeth Haynes with a knife in Pike street, may be Stella Morriss of Portland, is a possibility the police are investigating today. The woman is evidently demented. She insists she is a resident of Los Angeles but further than this she will vouchsafe no information concerning herself.

The belief of the police that she is Stella Morriss is based on the pleading together of letters torn into small bits that was found in a basket in the room where she was hiding following her attack on Miss Haynes. The envelope was addressed to Stella Morriss, Portland, and was sent from Los Angeles. Little success has been met with in putting the body of the letter together. The names "Goldylocks" and "Jack" are written in the missive.

Injury Is Slight.

The attack on Miss Haynes was made without provocation of any kind, the police say. Only a slight injury was inflicted down the side of the nose.

Miss Haynes was accompanied by Miss Katherine Crawford, 623 Broadway North, and other girl friends, who had been shopping. Miss Crawford first noticed the Stewart woman regarding Miss Haynes with a fixed look, she said.

"We had just left the coliseum," said Miss Haynes, "and were in front of the Seaboard building when a woman grabbed me from behind and across my face with a knife. I felt the cut, and remember screaming, 'You crazy woman,' and then I was taken to the doctor's office. It nearly went into my eye."

Woman Believed Identified.

"As we walked along the woman followed us," Miss Crawford said. "I nudged Elizabeth and she sort of turned around and yawned at the woman. The woman struck her on the face. We thought that the cut was made with a ring."

Both Miss Haynes and Miss Crawford said they had never seen the woman before and could assign no motive to her attack. They agreed with the opinion of Chief Warren that the woman was not rational. The cut on Miss Haynes' face was about one inch and a half in length.

Police have a life found near the place where the Stewart woman was stopped which they believe was used by her in the attack.

No Lodgings Found.

Relatives took Miss Haynes to her home from the doctor's office after her face had been bandaged.

"That the woman is insane is the belief of Captain Tennant of the detective bureau. He has been unable to locate her lodgings. It is believed that the woman has been in Seattle only a few days. She was well dressed and evidently a woman of some culture. Inquiry at Los Angeles by telegraph has failed to reveal any clew to the woman's identity. She will be taken before a commission for an examination into her sanity during the coming week if relatives or friends are not located in the meantime."

The first move of the president to put himself into the race for a third term as the only logical party leader to continue the fight for the unamended treaty.

Treaty Vote Is Excuse.

Of course, it must not be understood that Senator Chamberlain's vote on the peace treaty is the real animus of tonight's telegram to Mr. Hamaker. The peace treaty vote is only the convenient excuse for making the attack. The story of the breach between the president and the Oregon senator goes back to the early part of 1918 when Senator Chamberlain in New York, discussing the administration of this nation's war activities, said that the government had broken down and that executive departments had ceased to function.

The president, as is well remembered, gave out a public statement two days later in which he characterized Senator Chamberlain's remarks as a "verbal explosion." Senator Chamberlain replied in an impassioned speech in the senate in which he cited specific cases of maladministration with particular reference to brutal treatment and gross attention received by American soldiers in military hospitals at home and abroad.

President Is Irritated.

There were later many disagreements between Senator Chamberlain and Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, over numerous courtmartial cases, and the Oregon senator, irritated by the president, Secretary Baker and the general staff of the army by seeking to "humanize," as he termed it, the entire military courtmartial procedure.

There were intimations tonight that the president will be called upon tomorrow by some of the democratic senators who come within the condemnation of his telegram to say whether he was aiming specifically at them. If he admits frankly that such was his intention, there are mutterings of an explosion which may spread much wider the breach that already threatens to render the democratic party impotent in the approaching national campaign.

Anti-Chamberlain Democrats to Show Starkweather Is Choice.

Based on President Wilson's message, the anti-Chamberlain democrats are now prepared to show that H. G. Starkweather is the choice of Mr. Wilson for the democratic nomination for United States senator, and that Senator Chamberlain is not wanted by the administration.

In thus maneuvering to commit the president of the United States to the support of Mr. Starkweather the anti-Chamberlain faction has scored one of the most sensational local political leads in years. They intend capitalizing it at full value and every democratic in Oregon will be informed regarding the president's statement.

County Chairman Hamaker's telegram of inquiry, which brought the response from Mr. Wilson, was deliberately couched in such manner that Mr. Hamaker and his associates knew in advance what Mr. Wilson's answer would be, if the president deigned to reply. The inquiry was prepared for cluding the great powers themselves, had shown themselves ready to welcome.

"It is time that the party should proudly avow that it means to try, without flinching or turning at any time away from the path for reasons of expediency, to apply moral and Christian principles to the problems of the world. It is trying to accomplish social, political and international reforms and is not daunted by any of the difficulties it has to contend with."

"Let us prove to our late associates in the war that at any rate the great majority party of the nation, the party which expressed the true hopes and purposes of the people of the country, intends to keep faith with them in peace as well as in war. They gave their treasure, their best blood and everything that they valued in order not merely to beat Germany but to effect a settlement and bring about arrangements of peace which they have now tried to formulate in the treaty of Versailles. They are entitled to our support in this settlement and in the arrangements for which they have striven."

League Has World's Hope.

The league of nations is the hope of the world. As a basis for the armistice, I was authorized by all the great fighting nations to say to the enemy that it was our object in proposing peace to establish a general association of nations under specific covenants for the purpose of assuring mutual guarantees of political independence and territorial integrity to great and small states alike, and the covenant of the league of nations is the deliberate embodiment of that purpose in the treaty of peace.

Chief Motives Which Led Us to Enter the War Will Be Defeated Unless the Covenant is Ratified and Acted upon with Vigor. We cannot in honor whittle it down or weaken it, as the republican leaders of the senate have proposed to do. If we are to exercise the kind of leadership to which the founders of the republic looked forward, and which they demanded upon their successors to establish, we must do this thing with courage and unflinching determination.

Fulfill Promise to Peace.

"They expected the United States to be always the leader in the defense of liberty and ordered peace throughout the world, and we are unworthy to call ourselves their successors unless we fulfill the great purpose they entertained and proclaimed. The true Americanism, the only true Americanism, is that which puts America at the front of free nations and redeems the great promises which we made the world when we entered the war which was fought, not for the advantage of any single nation or group of nations but for the salvation of all."

"It is in this way we shall redeem the sacred blood that was shed, and make America the force she should be in the councils of mankind. She can not afford to sink into the place that nations have usually occupied and become merely one of those who scramble and look about for selfish advantage."

"The democratic party has now a great opportunity to which it must measure up. The honor of the nation is in its hands. (Signed), WOODROW WILSON."

Senator Lodge, republican leader in the senate, issued a brief statement after having read President Wilson's message to Mr. Hamaker.

"I cannot undertake to discuss it in detail," he said, "but politically speaking I am very glad he has taken the position he has. It fully justifies all the opposition of the republican party in the senate and those who joined with the republicans."

SALEM, Or., May 9.—(Special.)—Mrs. Albert Frank, 48 years of age and for a long time a resident of the Sublimity vicinity, committed suicide some time between Saturday morning at 8 o'clock and late last night in a thicket about a quarter of a mile from her home. Neither Mrs. Frank's husband nor other members of her family could give any reason for the suicide, as she had not appeared despondent and was in good health. Mrs. Frank is survived by her widower and four children, the youngest of whom is 14 years of age. The coroner will not hold an inquest.
