

FIGHTERS IN SHAPE FOR REAL CONTEST

McCarthy and Murphy Ease Up on Training.

CRACK BANTAMS TO MEET

Fiske Shaping Well in Workouts in Gymnasium and Good Bout With Gorman Promised.

BY DICK SHARP.

Johnny McCarthy's greatest ambition is to get a ten-round bout with Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world. Leonard and McCarthy met in a four-round battle in San Francisco last year. The contest was a slated no-decision affair, but Johnny made a very creditable showing. He stung the champion in one round, but, of course, was outboxed in the short distance. McCarthy, who arrived here yesterday morning, accompanied by Sol Levinson, for his match with Frankie Murphy at the Milwaukee arena tomorrow night, admits that he does not figure on a fight with Leonard, but is confident that he can make the lightweight titleholder extend himself in a ten-round bout.

McCarthy has fought many of the best welterweights in the world, including Ted 'Kid' Lewis, when the latter was champion of the world, and others high in fisticle circles. Right now Johnny says that he weighs about 142 pounds, but thinks that he could get down to even as low as 135 pounds if necessary. Levinson adds that Johnny only tipped the beam at 140 pounds for his match with Alex Trambitas in San Francisco last year.

Frankie Murphy would also like to land a match with Benny Leonard. Although Murphy has never fought Leonard, he has the championship several times in the gymnasium in the east and knows the ins and outs of Benny. A great showing by either of these men in their ten-round fracas will put them in line for a crack at Leonard when he steps into the ring June 21 here.

McCarthy limbered up yesterday at the London club, boxing several rounds with Joe Gorman and a couple of other "pugs" who happened along during the afternoon. Murphy put in a strenuous session at the Olympic gymnasium working with Sammy Gordon, Johnny Fiske and Muff Bronson, besides slugging the punching bag and skipping rope. Both men will slacken up in their training routine today and take things easy until tomorrow night.

The latest bulletin states that the Billy Moscott-Sammy Gordon fight is on. So many angles have developed in the scheduled eight-round tilt between these two crack bantams that the fans are going and coming. The only angle, however, that has ever really existed is that Moscott practically threw Bobby Evans over after the latter had brought him along for six or seven years and around Charles Yost tried to garner $200 more for his end on the Milwaukee boxing commission he engaged Yost to train him. Besides, Yost appointed matchmaker of the Portland boxing commission, he engaged Yost to train him. Besides, Yost appointed matchmaker of the Portland boxing commission, he engaged Yost to train him.

Regardless of what Moscott has or has not done, the agreement between the two bouts in Milwaukee at a set sum and accepted transportation from Oakland from that commission. He went through with his first fight and then tried to hedge on the second. According to the latest available news, the matter between all parties has been patched up, and Moscott is ready to go through against Gordon, which has been a question that he was afraid of Sammy. All he wanted was to raise the ante.

Muff Bronson and Joe Mandot should be one of the best lightweight tangles witnessed here this year when they clash over the eight-round route. Mandot will arrive here today from Seattle with his manager, Charley Swinehart. The former contender for the lightweight crown is said to be in excellent shape, while Bronson is all of that. Their last meeting, which ended in a six-round draw, was a hurricane affair.

Joe Gorman will be meeting the unknown quantity in Johnny Fiske, the Rock Island, Ill. featherweight. Fiske has been shaping up well in his workouts in the gymnasium and has fought a number of good boys. However, it is his first start here and the fans are always skeptical about a boxer's chances until he has shown his wares.

Gorman is the toughest proposition he could tackle for a starter, and he makes a good showing with Joe he will be able to find plenty of work on the coast.

Earl Zimmerman and Chick Rocca, Ad Garlock's likely logging 122-pounder, will box six rounds in their first bout of the evening. Zimmerman always pleases with his work, while Rocca is a willing mixer.
