

BLOOD FLOWS FREE IN MEXICAN REVOLT

Late Tales Dispel Early Aspect of Calmness.

CARRANZA FATE UNKNOWN

American Warships Go South to Wait Developments—Communication Disrupted.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—Mexico's latest revolution, after getting under way with a remarkable absence of fighting, apparently has not been without the usual tropical season of blood-letting.

From behind the veil which obscures events of the last few days are beginning to trickle stories of wholesale political executions, counter-executions and other accompaniment which have marked struggles for supremacy in the Latin-American countries.

Carranza, variously reported captured, in flight or in hiding; Candido Aguilar, his son-in-law and minister of foreign affairs, executed with General Francisco Murguía, commander of the garrison in Mexico City, after a wholesale slaughter of political prisoners, including 15 generals; forces of the revolution in control of the capital and most of the metropolitan cities, while American warships and marines continued to move into strategic positions, were the foremost features of today's news.

Carranza Capture Indicated.

Communication between the United States and Mexico City continued intermittently and uncertainly. Reports continued of the cutting of telegraph lines which carry cable dispatches from Vera Cruz to Mexico City, and these are supported by border reports that the line from Carranza's escape is held by the revolutionists.

From all reports, Tampico, Vera Cruz, Monterey and Puebla, as well as Mexico City, are held by rebels. Search of Vera Cruz city failed to find Carranza. One report had him under arrest in Esperanza.

The Last Message Received from the American Embassy in Mexico City.

The last message received from the American embassy in Mexico City, which prevailed Saturday morning after departure of Carranza with "no unusual disorder."

"The only noteworthy incident reported," the statement continued, "was the capture of one of President Carranza's retainers May 7. Guadalupe Hidalgo, about 275 miles north of Mexico City, an incident in which there were several casualties."

Embassy Silent on Fate.

No mention of the fate of Carranza was made by the embassy.

General Obregon, Carranza's former right hand military man, and his opponent, has ordered that the president, if captured, be treated with consideration and taken to Mexico City.

Reports published in Mexico City newspapers today announced Carranza's capture, together with Ambassador Bonilla, Carranza's representative in Washington until recently and later a presidential candidate.

Meanwhile the American government, while continuing a policy of watchful waiting, took measures to afford refuge to Americans.

There are estimated to be 6000 or 7000 in Mexico, some draft-dodgers and radicals who fled to escape the law.

U. S. Ships Go South.

The navy department has ordered the super-dreadnought Okinawa from New York to Key West for possible duty in Mexican waters. She will take a full company of marines before steaming south. Meanwhile the naval transport Henderson will load 1200 marines from the navy yard and proceed to Key West to await developments. American destroyers have arrived at Tampico, joining the United States fleet in the cruiser Dolphin also has reached that port. Other destroyers have reached Tampico from the Gulf, three more will go with the Okinawa.

None of today's fragmentary dispatches made any mention of armed resistance by the Carranza forces, but told an almost uniform story of federal garrisons going over to the rebels without a struggle.

SPEAKER FOR McARTHUR

MR. GILLET EXPRESSSES HOPE REPRESENTATIVE WILL WIN.

Value of Seniority to District and Ability of Incumbent Are Pointed Out in Statement.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, May 10.—Speaker Frederick H. Gillett today expressed the hope that Representative McArthur will be renominated by the Republicans of the third Oregon district on May 21. He made the following statement relative to Mr. McArthur's services in the house:

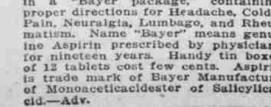

"I am very sorry to hear that Mr. McArthur has opposition for his renomination to Congress. I know nothing about his opponent, but if he is to make good for his district in the place which Mr. McArthur has won for himself here, he must be a man of very extraordinary abilities. There is no place in the world where seniority or length of service counts for more than in the house of representatives."

"Mr. McArthur has been here three terms and his associates have had opportunity to know him, and in addition to the weight of his seniority, he has won a wide influence by his popularity and ability. The ordinary weakness of men holding elective offices is timidity, but Mr. McArthur has always exhibited that same courage and self-reliance which led him to vote against the Adams bill just before the 1916 election because he thought it was wrong, although his position was pretty sure to be misunderstood and cost him many votes. But such conduct won respect and influence here, even from those who disagreed with him."

"I recently asked Mr. McArthur to preside over the house during the consideration of an important bill and I was pleased to notice that he bore himself so ably and successfully that when he retired from the chair and made his report he was greeted with loud applause from both sides of the house. He is an experienced, able, influential member and I sincerely hope he will be returned."

U. S. NOTES GERMAN TREATY VIOLATIONS

Disarmament Is Evaded, Is Unofficial View.

MUNITIONS TRADE EYED

State Constabulary and Home Guard Are Also Regarded as Violating Versailles Pact.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—Despite absence of American representatives on the inter-allied control commissions to supervise fulfillment by Germany of the disarmament clauses of the treaty, the United States is watching the situation unofficially.

The American point of view of the extent of German compliance with disarmament clauses, which are to be discussed at the Spa conference, May 23, is summarized as follows:

"The most noteworthy instance of non-compliance with the disarmament provisions attracting attention here is failure to reduce German military effectiveness. Although pledged to reduce her regular army to 200,000 by April 10, 1920, and to 100,000 by July 10, the regular army remains approximately 250,000 according to what is regarded as a conservative estimate. This is in contrast, however, with an 800,000 pre-war peace establishment and an army of 5,000,000 at the armistice.

Constabulary Held Violation.

"The state constabulary of 75,000 to 100,000 and approximately 600,000 home guards, are regarded as a violation of the treaty provision forbidding any reserve or secret armed forces. The German claim that these forces are necessary to maintain order is considered here as refuted by the failure of those forces to cope with recent red uprisings.

Although in compliance with the treaty, the German constabulary staff ostensibly has been abolished, reports say the nucleus of a general staff continues to be maintained.

"Of the guns and ammunition Germany agreed to destroy by March 10, 1920, it is estimated up to January 1, 1920, about one-third had been disposed of. In a report to the inter-allied military commission of control in Berlin January 3, the German government announced these stocks of munitions remaining in Germany:

Munition Clause Held Violated.

"Twelve thousand field pieces, 2500 heavy pieces, 2300 flame throwers, 30,000 machine guns and 454,000 small arms.

"Their location was verified. Notice also was given by the Germans of their intention eventually to destroy them.

Prohibition against exportation of munitions by Germany, it is reported, has been violated in contraband shipments.

"So far as is known here, secrets in the manufacture of gas and other munitions which Germany agreed to disclose to the allies before April 18, have not been divulged.

Military clauses reported as complied with include:

"Adoption of new tables of organization; non-manufacture of munitions; non-importation of munitions; abolition of universal military service; destruction of Rhine fortifications."

CLASH IS LAID TO I. W. W. Use of Force at Butte on April 21 Is Held Justified.

BUTTE, Mont., May 10.—Shots fired from the crowd of I. W. W. mine pickets and the unruly disposition of the pickets justified the use of whatever force was necessary to disperse the crowd in front of the gates of the Nevada mine April 21, in the opinion of D. Gay Stivers, chief of the Anaconda Copper Mining company's mine guards, and John Berkin, foreman of the Orphan Child mine, who testified today at the coroner's inquest investigating the death of Thomas Manning, who was killed in a clash between mine guards and strikers.

Both witnesses told of acts of violence which they alleged had been done by the strikers and of the refusal of the pickets to obey the orders of the sheriff.

Beau Brummel Shirt "A Winner"

No matter what the occasion, it adds zest to the fun to know that your clothes are "all right," noticeable only for their correctness. The man who likes to pick "winners" will find that there is real winning quality, as well as the most attractive of patterns in Fine, yet substantial, Beau Brummel Shirts satisfy the taste of the most particular man. They are made from all materials, from lustrous silks to the more conservative patterns,—and every one as comfortable of fit as it is stylish and good-looking.

That's because wearing comfort is built into these shirts. There is ample room in the armholes, across the shoulders and chest and at the elbows—places where room is needed. The neck is cut so that the collar sets comfortably (1), and five buttons (5) keep the front neat and dressy. And then, the correctly cut yoke (2) gives that tailored effect you like.

Next time, try a Beau Brummel. You'll like its appearance—and you'll enjoy wearing it.
