

SHERIFF'S RECORD CITED

SERVICES DURING WAR HELD PROOF OF PATRIOTISM.

Mr. Hurlburt's Achievements in Quelling Radicals and Running Office Noted by Friends.

The war record of Thomas M. Hurlburt as sheriff of Multnomah county is being cited by his numerous friends as direct refutation of charges of patriotic conduct made by political enemies. That his Americanism was thoroughly shown throughout the war by his unstinting service in quelling the disloyal at home, as commander-in-chief of the Multnomah guard and in draft registration work is the contention of ex-service men who are rallying to his support.

Sheriff Hurlburt was far above military age and could not have passed army tests and if his services had not been too valuable to spare at home, where there was need of a strong, loyal force of Americans to cope with enemy sympathizers, slackers and draft obstructionists. Though he could not go himself, Sheriff Hurlburt's son, Ralph J. Hurlburt, attorney, better known in Multnomah county and Oregon as "Speck" Hurlburt, football star and all-around athlete, volunteered for the first officers' training camp at the Presidio of San Francisco and went to France with the 91st division. His death on the firing line was among the first casualties of Oregonians.

Deputies in Sheriff Hurlburt's office were given every opportunity throughout the world war to assist in the various patriotic campaigns for Liberty bonds, Salvation Army and Red Cross and sheriff's personal donations to war relief funds and Liberty bonds totaled thousands of dollars.

In the activities of the Multnomah guard, Sheriff Hurlburt was particularly interesting and a considerable personal sacrifice gave unsparringly of his time and energies to build up that organization. It was a time when there were many threats at civil government, when the youth of the country was in training camps in France and the need for an organization such as the Multnomah guard was keenly felt. So thoroughly organized was the guard in Multnomah county that this city and county knew none of the disorders prevalent in other parts of the country.

Through the activities of Sheriff Hurlburt's deputies during the war a close watch was kept on all radicals within the county, many known reds were driven from the city with the timely words of warning and Portland never became the nest of unrest found in some communities on the Pacific coast.

Though his office was crippled by the absence in military service of one of his best deputies, Sheriff Hurlburt filled the vacancies with competent men during the emergency, giving considerable time to their training in new duties, but held the positions open for the men on their return from army duty.

LOGGER HEADS CONVENE LOYAL LEGION MILLS URGED TO HIRE MEMBERS ONLY.

Resolutions Call Upon Congress to Increase Duty on Canadian Lumber.

Resolutions to the effect that all Log Legion operators shall give preference to members of the Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen in the matter of employment, both as touching original appointment and promotion, was one of the features of the session of the board of directors of the organization yesterday.

Other resolutions called on congress, and especially the northwest representatives, to take steps looking toward an increase of the duties on Canadian lumber, it being felt that the Canadian product is produced at a lower wage scale and under a longer work day.

Yesterday sessions were largely taken up with the discussion of internal matters of the organization, and some necessary changes in the constitution and by-laws, the principal change becoming effective being that to eliminate foremen and straw bosses from eligibility on the local conference committees.

The board moved to the next regular meeting in November, in the meantime district conventions in the 12 Loyal Legion districts will be held, the dates to be fixed later but presumably all falling in August. The board has been in session at the Portland hotel since Monday morning.

Lottery Stamp Exhibited

A stamp used by the Chinese in printing lottery drawings was exhibited in the municipal court yesterday as evidence against Ho Sing and Hin Get, arrested by Patrolman McMahon and Kagan at 60 Second street and charged with having lottery paraphernalia. This is said to have been the first time in several years that the police have been able to capture one of these stamps, as the Chinese guard them jealously. Judge Roseman fined the two Chinese $25 each. They are said to have been printing the drawings when the police entered the place and one of the two was caught with the stamp in his hand. According to the police, the place was the headquarters of the Portland Chinese Lottery company.
