FOOD SITUATION MAY BE SERIOUS. Only a few years—maybe a decade—ago men at about the age of forty-five yearned for the land.

Urban industries appear to have been able to bid against the farms for labor because the farmer has added costs along to the consumer, with sundry additions of profits and liberal allowance for overhead.

is really grave. It looks otherwise as if it might take a year of famine to start the pendulum in the right direction.

HOLDING THE PALMOLIVE INDUSTRY. Successful formation of a company to extract vegetable oil from copra is a sign of Portland's determination not to abandon any industry which has been established here.

One of the reasons for this decision is eloquent of the close relation between industry and commerce, and also between two industries which seem to have no relation to each other.

COLUMBUS' NOSE FOR NEWS. The contention made by Henry Vignaud, former secretary of the United States in Paris, that Christopher Columbus was not in search of a passage to India when he discovered America but that he had definite information from unidentified sources of the existence of a large island in the western Atlantic, is not as whimsical as it may seem.

self. The inborn optimist sees the bright side; to the gloomy all things seem dark.

BY-PRODUCTS OF THE TIMES. "Jazz" of Ancient Origin but America Tamed Melody of Savages.

A British writer wants to rob America of the glory of originating jazz. He digs up a jazz poem written in England 180 years ago and describing a song-and-dance, the music for which was supplied by banging a seal box with a rolling pin.

HOW TO ANNHILATE THE DEVIL. Quit Believing in Him as We Did as Regards Witches.

YAKIMA, Wash., May 23.—(To the Editor.)—The way to kill the devil is to quit believing in him. Thousands of people have been executed in order to destroy witchcraft, but it died only when the people came to see that witches were not objective realities, but subjective concepts of the mind, like dreams, fantasies, imaginary goblins and ghosts.

Unsatified. By Grace E. Hall.

Unsatified. In orchards that were brown and bare. Unnumbered trees with foliage fair. Each tree yields up its fruit and leaves.
