Catlin Wolfard Beats Goss in Handicap Tourney.

KATZ TROPHY AT STAKE

Junior Star May Be Sent Here From East to Try and Show Locals Points of Game.

Playing the same steady and consistent game that has placed him in the foremost rank of local tennis players, Catlin Wolfard yesterday afternoon defeated Walter A. Goss in the finals of the annual spring handicap tournament of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club in straight sets, the scores being 7-5, 6-2, 6-4. By winning this event Wolfard obtains possession of the Alma D. Katz trophy for one year. Goss' handicap was 20 3-6 and Wolfard's own, 40. These were the heaviest handicaps of the tournament.

Goss, who holds two legs of the cup, made a valiant effort to win the match, as it would have given him the coveted trophy for good.

Lead Handled About. Goss started out well in the first set, taking two games. Wolfard won the next three, gaining the lead. Goss tied the count by winning the next game. The players split the next pair of games and the score stood 3-3. Wolfard then settled down and won the next two games, giving him the set, seven games to five.

Goss won the first game of the second set, but Wolfard took the set in short order, taking the next two games. Goss took the next game, making the score stand two apiece. Wolfard won the set by taking the next four games in a row. The set score was 6-4.

Wolfard piled up a lead of three games in the third set and then dropped the next two. Wolfard took two more and Goss took two more. Wolfard took the next game handily, and with it the set and match score 6-4.

Goss is outclassed by his younger opponent but kept fighting hard throughout the entire three sets. Wolfard played an smashing game, driving the ball to the back line on many occasions, his lobbing was nearly perfect, and when forced to use it he played them deep in the court.

Wolfard has developed a wonderful forehand drive, placing the ball well to the back and corners of the court. This stroke will be a source of much discomfort to the players who will meet him in the coming tournaments.

Throughout the match both players executed some very difficult shots, bringing loud applause from the large gallery that was on hand.

If plans of Walter A. Goss, northwest section delegate of the United States Lawn Tennis association, and Julian S. May, president of the club, through as expected, the followers of the racket game in this part of the state will see one of the best of the junior players of the east in competition in local tournaments.

Junior Star Wanted. They had planned on having Alfred H. Chapin Jr. come west, but at the last minute he decided to go abroad with his family. Chapin will be remembered as the star of the 1917 Phil Near, the local tennis star, in the junior championships at Forest Hills, N. Y. He is rated fourth in the national junior event.

The association is now endeavoring to get Harold Taylor, well known throughout the east for his playing in junior competition, to make the trip out here and impart a few bits of knowledge to the local players as to how the game is played on the Atlantic coast.

Mr. Goss is almost assured that Taylor will be the player selected, as he would make a wonderful opponent for the local star.

'ROSEBUDS' MAY GET TRIP. SCHOLASTIC ALL-STAR TEAM TOUR PLANNED. Nifty Suits Designed That Will Advertise Portland, School, and Various Firms.

Portland may have an opportunity to make a bid for fame through a baseball team other than the Portland Beavers if the plans of certain parties interested in the national pastime materialize. The plan which Bill Holloway, coach of the city's high school baseball team; Jack Ira Routledge, president of the Portland Baseball association; and Dallas M. Simonsen, secretary of the same organization, have in mind is to select an all-star baseball team of this season's play.

The team will have the support of the Portland Chamber of Commerce and other local civic organizations. The matter has been taken up with these organizations and the result of the project awaits their reply.

Letters have already been written to several large middle west cities asking the advisability of making such a trip and the replies in each case have been favorable. If the local organizations sanction the trip, the start will be made immediately after the school term ends the first of next month. The plan is to take 12 players, and they would be accompanied by Ellsworth as coach.

The players themselves would be walking advertisements, wearing a rosebud on the cap of their uniform, the name of the school which they represent lettered on the front of the uniform and on the back the name of a local product or industry. The jaunt would probably require about four weeks, the team going as far as Chicago.

Albany After Washington's Scarp. ALBANY, Or., May 26.—(Special.)—Albany high school baseball team is now seeking a game with Washington high school of Portland. Coach Ernie Baugh believes his players can hold their own with any high school team in Oregon and wants to meet the Portland champions. Albany already has defeated Columbia university.

McCredie After Dodger Fielder. Brooklyn has offered an outfielder named Hood to the Portland Coast league ball club and if Manager McCredie's investigations prove that he has sufficient claims to make good in the Pacific Coast League Mack will buy his release, he announced last night.

About Heads Oregon Squad. EUGENE, Or., May 26.—Leith Abbott, a junior from Ashland, Or., was elected captain of the Oregon team of the University of Oregon track team for 1921. Pasco 5; Toppenish 1. PASCO, Wash., May 26.—(Special.)—Pasco defeated Toppenish on the local grounds Sunday, 5 to 1.

Coast League Gossip. ROLLIE ZEIDER has been released unconditionally by Del Howard of the Oakland club. Rollie refused to carry his own bat and uniform to Stockton for the Sunday morning game with Sacramento, so Howard sent him home to Oakland and later gave him walking papers. Zeider was a managerial capacity, so his temperamental outburst will not weaken the transbay bunch to any extent.

Casey Smith has taken Colville's place as pitcher for the Wallisville club of the Cache Valley league in Idaho. The Salt Lake club got out an injunction restraining Collop from playing with Wallisville, so the recalcitrant hurler had to go back to the Bees or grab a shovel and work.

Dr. Charles H. Strub, one of the owners of the San Francisco Seals, has come east to arrange with some big league club for extracting a couple of first-class pitchers. "Doc's" business is extracting things and his figures he will be able to do a little extracting from either the Chicago or the Detroit club in fact, "Doc" makes no secret of his fact that he wants to get in with McCredie and perfect an alliance with Detroit that will be mutually beneficial. Strub is the coast manager whom Judge McCredie almost wallpapered at the annual meeting because he wanted the Beavers to open the season in Portland the middle of January or thereabouts.

Art Kores, former Portland infielder, is now with the Toledo club. Whenever Kores had a good week with the Beavers Mack had to get him a special cap made of India rubber or the Kores would have had to go bareheaded.

With the Semi-Pro. BIG BILL REID of the Multnomah Guards is rapidly outstripping himself and the Guards to fame.

Lefty Helman, Kid Brandt and Steiger, who started the season with Shesoc, are transferring their services to the newly organized Kendall Station team.

"Texas" Robbins twirled for Ferrysdale against Dallas last Sunday. His strikeout record for the game was 12.
