Why you are interested in an American merchant marine

PATRIOTIC Americans agree that a merchant marine is necessary to the Nation's welfare in peace and vital to its safety in war.

aims to perpetuate our war-built merchant marine.

American labor is vitally interested—

Because busy shipyards employ tens of thousands of men (350,000 during the war); there are as many outside of but dependent on the shipyards; ships employ thousands more;

Because our shipyards and ships cannot exist—much less pay high wages—unless wise shipping laws are enacted;

Because more ships mean more foreign trade, which spells more work for American labor.

What department store would deliver its goods in its competitor's motor vans?

This legislation declares that the policy of the United States is "to do whatever may be necessary to develop and encourage" a merchant marine.

This policy merits the support of every American.

For decades before the war our flag was rarely met at sea.

America could not meet the competition of foreign ships, more cheaply operated and often fostered by government aid.

We have a great merchant fleet. We must keep it.

But we must maintain American standards both in the shipyard and on the sea.

The Seaman's Act of 1915 improved conditions on board American ships and awakened a new interest in seafaring.

Legislation now pending in Congress
