

E. J. ADAMS PROBABLY IS ELECTED DELEGATE

Practically Complete Count Gives 245 Lead.

SECOND DISTRICT CLOSE

McCamant, Carey, Rand and Olson Appear Winners From State at Large.

E. J. Adams of Lane county probably has been elected delegate to the republican national convention from the first congressional district. Practically complete and official returns...

The vote on the five candidates for delegate from this district, according to the Oregonian's tabulation, was: Toose, 24,373; Adams, 18,304; Kendall, 15,959; Wrightman, 17,923; Booth, 15,753.

Second District Uncertain. It is possible the official count may be necessary to determine whether E. J. Cooper or M. Z. Cooper...

With figures lacking from Gilliam, Harney and Malheur and only incomplete figures for Grant county, Wallace McCamant, Charles H. Carey, John L. Rand and Conrad P. Olson...

Change Not Anticipated. The relative standing of these two candidates will not be materially affected by the returns from the missing counties since each is about equally known in that section of the state.

The only other candidate likely to gain by the official returns from the east of the mountains is Daniel Boyd, who is 1529 votes behind Olson. It is generally conceded that neither McCamant nor Boyd is likely to be elected.

The county clerk's office yesterday completed the official count for Multnomah county on delegates at large and for delegates from the third congressional district. In this county the four high candidates for delegates at large were McCamant, Olson, Carey and George J. Cameron. The Multnomah county vote on delegates at large as officially announced follows: Boyd 9284, Butler 8329, Cannon 12,867, and McCamant 15,009, Miller 10,461, Mrs. Northrup 10,244.

After apparently having been elected one of the five presidential electors on the face of the incomplete returns, Charles E. Lockwood has been voted out apparently by Walter L. Robb, also of this county. Based on returns practically complete from 28 counties, figures not having been reported by Harney, Columbia, Curry, Gilliam, Harney, Jackson, Malheur and Washington counties, Lockwood is 278 votes behind Robb. Lockwood led Robb in Multnomah county by 282, but in nearly every other county in the state Robb led Lockwood.

Joseph Humy is high man with 58,995. The vote for the other candidates as far as counted follows: Richardson 16,000; Hotchkiss 14,804; George 12,213; Robb 52,947; Lockwood 50,289; Ivanhoe 46,620; Hendee 39,218.

LINCOLN BRIDGE BONDS LOSE Official Count Necessary to Determine Result.

TOLEDO, Or., May 28.—(Special).—An extremely large primary vote was cast in Lincoln county at the primary election. Almost a majority of the county had its special candidate of special measure. The official count was necessary in order to determine the nominee for county commissioner and district attorney. In the case of the latter, G. E. McCreary, present incumbent, was opposed by W. H. Waterbury, the official count giving 406 for McCreary and 551 for Waterbury. C. M. Warren of Rose Lodge was elected county commissioner with a vote of 375 to 383, his nearest competitor being Ralph Hamar of Siletz.

On the republican ballot, R. R. Miller, present county judge, was defeated by R. H. Howell by a vote of 690 to 428. Other republican nominations were as follows: Sheriff, R. H. Gwynn; county clerk, Carl Gilder; county treasurer, Ira Wade; county assessor, A. G. Schwartz; county school superintendent, R. Goin; county surveyor, Ord Castle; county coroner, F. C. Carter; port commissioner, L. D. Nash; Nashville, W. Beck; Toledo, F. A. Thompson; Salado.

On the democratic ticket, John Fogarty of Newport was nominated county judge; W. E. Simpson, present incumbent, was nominated for sheriff; Ed Stoker of Newport for county assessor; E. S. Oakland, Bayview, county commissioner.

Only one county issue, a bridge bond in the amount of $100,000, was on the ballot. The issue was highly contested by opposing factions, and lost by a close vote, 339 for and 914 against.

NAVY INVESTIGATION BY SENATE CLOSES

"Prussianism" Charge Denied by Admiral Fullam.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The senate investigation of the navy's conduct of the war was completed today and chairman Hale said he hoped to have ready within a week a report embodying the committee's findings.

Rear-Admiral Sims was the only witness today, but the chairman read into the record supplementary statements from Rear-Admiral Fullam and Fluke replying to portions of the testimony of Secretary Daniels. Admiral Fluke reviewed his efforts to obtain reorganization of the department when he was aide for operations, and declared that but for his efforts the navy would have entered the war without the two principal agencies the secretary and his advisers declared to be vital—the office of chief of naval operations and the administrative plan.

"Instead of abusing me," Admiral Fluke said, "I submit that the secretary ought to thank me for saving not only the navy, but himself."

Prussianism Charge Denied. Admiral Fullam denied statements by Mr. Daniels to the effect that he was a "disciple of Von Tirpitz," and "wished to Prussianize the navy." He declared that he had devoted his life to the problem of organization and preparedness, and that he was "proud to have my name linked with the names of Sims and Fluke."

The criticism of the department's conduct of the war and reiterated his charge that Mr. Daniels had attempted to direct the action required, both before and during the war, to meet the urgency of the situation.

Reorganization Is Outlined. In conclusion, the admiral submitted an outline of legislation for reorganization of the department, under which the civilian secretary would have two assistants, one civilian and one military, the first to be charged with handling of all civil questions, including contracts, industrial matters and appropriations, and the other to be responsible for all matters of a strictly military nature.

The bureau chiefs would be directly under a military secretary who would be responsible for the efficiency of the navy.

VANCOUVER, Wash., May 28.—(Special).—No public exercises will be held at the Washington state schools for the deaf and blind this year. The health of the pupils at the school is now fine and the long siege has been overcome without losing a patient, but there is considerable sickness in Vancouver and a big gathering would be a risk, it was thought.

Corbin, 22, and John Wemberg were arrested last night by Sergeant Clement and Patrolmen Drennen, Davis and Rex, who have been investigating the theft of an automobile owned by R. L.
