

DEMPESEY ON TRIAL FOR DRAFT EVASION Degree of Aid for Family to Be Big Point.

PRINCIPALS NOT CALLED

Few Women but Many American Legion Men and Army Officers Attend.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—(Special.)—Testimony from government witnesses tending to show that other members of the Dempsey family besides Jack Dempsey were contributing to the family support during 1917 and 1918, before Federal judge Douglas on charges of draft evasion, Maxine Wayne Dempsey, divorced wife of the pugilist, did not take the stand today. She was questioned by the government.

None of the principal figures in the case appeared as witnesses so far. Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Dempsey, the aged father and mother of the pugilist and his widowed sister, Mrs. Effie Clark, have been in court but have not yet testified. Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, who also faces trial on a charge of conspiracy to evade the draft, based on relations with Dempsey, was present and will testify later.

Dempsey's questionnaire, registration and classification cards were introduced by the government. Miss Margaret Kiefer, registrar of voters; Rudolph Goodman, a Chicago voter, who witnessed Dempsey's signature to the questionnaire; Mrs. S. Hogan, chairman of local board No. 13, under jurisdiction of which Dempsey came, testified in this connection.

Classification Deemed Correct. Hogan testified that to the best of his belief Dempsey was correctly classified when he was placed in class 4-A.

Goodman testified that he went over the questions and answers of the questionnaire with Dempsey and that Dempsey approved certain additions he made in filling out incomplete portions.

"Who gave you the information for those additions?" asked Colonel C. L. Thomas, who is prosecuting the case. Jack Kearns answered the questions and Dempsey said his answers were correct," said Goodman.

According to the questionnaire, which was read to the jury, Dempsey described himself as a boxer, employed by Kearns. He stated that he had been called to service, he preferred aviation.

Further answers in the questionnaire were to the effect that he had worked at the trade of carpenter and was an expert miter as well as boxer, that he had an annual income of $2,000 preceding year that his wife was "sickly" and had never been employed and that he had dependent upon him, wife, parents, widowed sister and her two children, contributing to the support of each about $200 a month.

Payroll Shows Father's Wage. Seeking to refute the declaration in the questionnaire that Hiram Dempsey, father of the pugilist, had only $300 a month during the year previous, H. S. McCann, auditor of Salt Lake City, was called to produce the Salt Lake payroll. His testimony showed that the elder Dempsey had been paid $472.78 for services as a laborer during the year.

Mrs. Freda Gibson, owner of the house in Salt Lake City in which the Dempseys lived, was questioned as to the rent.

"Hiram Dempsey earned the money, he it to me," she said.

Very few women attended the opening session of the trial. American Legion butlers and veterans in the audience and several army officers were watching proceedings. The trial was held in the courtroom of the federal building, named several days ago to represent the local posts of the legion, was keeping close watch as the trial progressed.

Dempsey was apparently unconcerned, but watchful.

The charge covering the charge against Dempsey carries a maximum sentence of three years and a $2,000 fine in the event of a conviction. There are two charges resting against him—one against draft evasion and the other conspiracy with Jack Kearns, his manager, to effect such evasion. On the direct evasion charge, Dempsey can be given one and one-half years and a $200 fine.

Wife Retracts Charges. The indictments were returned February 27, following statements made to the federal jury by Maxine Wayne Dempsey, divorced wife of the pugilist, that she sought her sworn testimony as to her dependence on him in order to avoid military service, and had given such testimony against her will. Subsequently she retracted her charges in a signed affidavit submitted to the United States district attorney's office here, but despite such retraction the grand jury returned the indictments.

The Dempseys were married in Salt Lake City, Utah. Following the divorce Mrs. Dempsey was employed in a dance hall in Wells, Nev., and made her charges from that place. Dempsey is charged with having falsely sworn that his father, mother, widowed sister and her two children were dependent upon him, that she had contributed $30 a month each to their support during 1917, and that he had lived with his wife for 18 months before being called before the draft board.

Kearns' part was alleged to have been the convincing of Dempsey in his supposed act of draft evasion. Both denied emphatically that they sought such evasion and introduced statements from draft board officials to substantiate their claims.

TWO PLUCKY GIRLS REACH PORTLAND ON LONG HIKE

Way From Los Angeles Made by Young Women Seeking Health. Haystacks and Bridal Suites Among Adventures.

MISS HESSIE L. HAYS AND MRS. BOBBIE STEINHOLT.

ONCE—oh, happy day, it was a bridal suite in which they slept. Sometimes—if they were lucky—it was a common or garden hotel room, but more often a haystack was their mattress and breezes lulled them to sleep.

They came from Los Angeles—no, they are not motion-picture actresses seeking a little free advertising simply two little straitlaced clerks whose health broke down and who decided that a hike to Portland and Seattle would do wonders for them. It has.

They have paid their expenses en route by selling newspapers in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento and now in Portland, and last night they made their bow to Portland with copies of The Oregonian which they sold.

Portland buyers of The Oregonian, meet Miss Hays and Mrs. Steinholt, meet Portland.

Husband Is in Army. Mrs. Steinholt's husband, Private C. J. Steinholt, is in the army at Anchorage, Alaska, and will be discharged at the end of the month. Then the two girls hope to meet him and return with him to Los Angeles.

Hiking clothes and a blanket roll was their only equipment, so when they reached Portland they called on theater, but before he could get away he was badly burned about the face and hands. With the first flash of fire the audience hastened to the exits.

PRINTERS GET INCREASE. RISE OF 10 CENTS AN HOUR AGREED UPON.

Accord With Employers Reached After Negotiations for More Than Two Months.

A flat wage rise of 10 cents an hour was granted to linotype operators in commercial printing shops yesterday as a result of negotiations which have been carried on between a committee from the typographical union and the employing printers for several months.

The adjustment of the wage scale was reached through conciliation after the employers and operators had been deadlocked for more than two months. The 10-cent an hour rise was agreed upon by the committee at a final conference late Monday night, and the union yesterday approved the action of the committee.

The new scale becomes effective at once and continues until May 1, 1921. The scale of commercial linotype operators under the agreement reached yesterday follows: For 7 1/2 hours, day work, $19.00 per week; for 8 hours, day work, $22.50 per week; for 7 1/2 hours, night work, $17.00 per week.

SPECIAL TAXES FALL DUE. Citizens Asked to Co-operate by Making Payments Early.

On or before June 15 the second installment of income tax will be due and payable, and notices for this tax were sent out some weeks ago. Persons who fail to pay the quarterly installment within ten days after notice and demand to pay the entire outstanding balance on their income tax, as failure to pay one installment when due makes due and payable all the remaining installments, which would ordinarily be due on September 15 and December 15.

TWO MEN STILL AT LARGE FEDERAL PRISONERS NOT SEEN AFTER DARING ESCAPE.

Police Believed E. A. Gardener Boarded Freight Train and That Chinese is in City.

Police efforts yesterday to locate E. A. Gardener and Tom Wing, federal prisoners being taken to prison by the sheriff's posse, were futile. The only possible clue was furnished by C. O'Neil, a taxicab driver, who said he drove a man answering the description of Gardener to the north end of the St. Johns tunnel early yesterday morning. The description which he gave tallies in all particulars to the description of Gardener.

Police were rushed to the tunnel as soon as the taxi driver gave them this information, but they could find no trace of his recent fare. A freight train passes through the tunnel at a slow rate of speed and the police believed that Gardener boarded the freight at this point. They notified Vancouver, Wash., officials to be on the alert for a man answering his description.

Gardener and Wing, who is a Chinese, made their escape from the Southern Pacific train late Monday night as it was coming into the east side of the city. Gardener was being taken to the federal prison to serve 25 years for train robbery in California. He has been guarded since his escape from the Chinese is believed to be in hiding in the oriental districts of Portland.
