

ASTORIA IS PLACED ON RATION BASIS

Portland Plan to Be Tried to Remedy Shortage.

PROTEST TRIP IS MADE

Delegation Comes Up River and Is Shown Books to Prove Alotment of Gasoline Just.

The gasoline conservation committee of Astoria, which inaugurated an ironclad card permit system of distribution effective yesterday morning, has authorized that beginning today essential industries may purchase gasoline up to requirements stated to the committee and pleasure automobiles may be supplied with 10 per cent of tank capacity of gasoline.

The Standard Oil company has released 50,000 gallons of gasoline for Astoria and the Union Oil company 10,000 gallons.

Yesterday a delegation of officials and businessmen of Astoria, headed by H. E. Stone, chairman of the Astoria port commission, called on officials of the oil companies to protest against what was believed to be an under-allotment of gasoline.

Books Are Examined. Examination of the books of the oil companies proved, however, that Astoria was being served with a larger allotment of gasoline than was given to most of the cities in Oregon because of the fishing season.

Sufficient gasoline is being sent Astoria and Clatsop county, for industrial purposes and still allow the pleasure cars 20 per cent of tank capacity, oil representatives declared. The Astoria delegation will put the Portland plan into operation at once. It was announced.

Considerable agitation is being aroused in the upstate country because of the fact that gasoline is being saved for the coast.

Oil Supplies Arrive. Portland is saving gasoline. It is true, but such gasoline is being conserved out of stocks of gasoline allocated to Portland. Every city and town in Oregon is being allocated gasoline on a basis of population and former requirements.

In the interest of food production and commercial activity, members of the gasoline conservation committee hope to be able to send gasoline from Portland, stocks of gasoline in the upstate country as well as conserve sufficient to care for the convention visitors.

The Associated Tanker, W. F. Herrin, arrived in the river yesterday with 200,000 gallons of gasoline aboard. One of the Standard Oil company tankers is expected in the river with a large supply of gasoline. The tanker, W. F. Herrin, arrived in the river yesterday with approximately 50,000 barrels of fuel oil.

FARMERS TO GET DISTILLATE

Deal Completed for Big Purchase at The Dalles.

THE DALLES, Or., June 9.—(Special.)—Crops of Wasco county were insured against loss yesterday, when E. R. Jackson, county agent, acted in conjunction with the Farmers Union of Wasco county, completed a deal for the purchase of 100,000 gallons of distillate from the Shell Oil company for distribution in this section. The distillate will be on hand the last of this month, according to assurances.

At present it is not decided just how the liquid distillate is being conserved upon its arrival here. Plans are on foot to use the big storage tanks of the Stadelman ice company and the old brewery. It is necessary, the tank cars will be run upon sidings at Mauldin, Dufur, Boyd, Edmonds and this city and unloaded rapidly for the farmers.

Several days ago when the gasoline and distillate trucks became scarce it became evident to the farmers that if they were to harvest their crops they would have to resort to drastic action.

SEATTLE SITUATION BETTER

Big Shipment of Gasoline Reaches Sound Metropolis.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 9.—(Special.)—The pinch of gasoline shortage is over. Tomorrow morning Seattle drivers of pleasure cars may have their gasoline tanks filled to half their capacity and trucks may obtain full tanks so long as they continue to practice conservation.

This announcement, affecting the Standard Oil company only, was made today. There has been no change in the situation elsewhere. The Shell oil companies' standpoint, present rations being continued. The Standard Oil company's tanker El Segundo arrived at midnight with 550,000 gallons of gasoline and began at once pumping its cargo to the shore tanks.

IMPROPER STORAGE CHARGED

Bridge Company Manager Accused and Arrested Following.

A WARRANT was served on H. Cullers, general manager of the Northwest Bridge & Iron company, yesterday by Patrolman Rogers of the gasoline squad, charging him with improper storage of gasoline.

The arrest followed the discovery of 750 gallons of gasoline stored on the premises of the Columbia River Shipbuilding company without permit. The gasoline was discovered by police while they were conducting an investigation to prevent hoarding during the present shortage.

According to Fire Marshal Grenfell the gasoline was stored in a crude oil tank. Charges against Cullers allege that he kept on the premises at the foot of Porter street gasoline in excess of one quart without a permit from the fire marshal. The fire marshal said there would probably be no objection to its storage under proper conditions.

A hearing has been set for hearing in the municipal court next Wednesday morning.

SMALL BOY IN TROUBLE

LITTLE GIRL IS PROVOKED AT LOSS OF BOOKS.

Automobile Drives Away, Explains Francis Mulbey, While Children Playing in Park.

Courtship in the park proved disastrous for gallant 10-year-old Francis Mulbey, who lives at 147 1/2 Broadway. Francis, according to his own story as told to Mayor Baker late yesterday, was strolling down West Park street in company with a young lassie who occupies a seat in his schoolroom. Francis told the mayor bashfully that for weeks he has endeavored to gain the good will of this particular young lass.

Yesterday the young lady consented to accept an invitation for a stroll through the south park blocks. Francis relieved his companion of her books and like the little gentleman that he is, carried them.

Upon reaching Madison street Francis suggested that bit of play in the park blocks would be enjoyable. His companion agreed. The books, together with paint pans and a small paint brush were deposited on the windshield of an automobile.

When the children had concluded their play they returned to secure their books but the automobile was gone. And just to make matters worse, the little girl is thoroughly provoked with Francis, he says, and his only hope to win her back is the books and the paint. Indeed it was a sad day for Francis!

Captain Harry G. Keesey said yesterday that a number of good shots are being developed. The men go out to the range every Sunday and are given instructions by Captain Keesey.

SAIGIRT, N. J., June 9.—Governor Edward J. Hughes, Democratic presidential nominee, issued a statement here tonight demanding liberalization of the Volstead act and calling upon "the people of the United States lawfully and by the constitutional method prescribed to pass judgment on the act."

"No power exists which is paramount to the power of the people expressed at the polls. There alone is sovereignty. Every candidate for congress, every state and legislative official and the candidates for the presidency itself, will be called upon by the coming November to declare their position, unmistakably, on the sane and reasonable interpretation of the constitutional amendment in favor of the permissive use of light wines and beers, each state to determine its regulations under the liberal limitations of a general federal statute."

"I appeal to the great and final referendum of the American people."

INJUNCTION IS GRANTED

Supreme Court Holds Description of "Unjust Prices" Violates Constitutional Freedom Clause.

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—That section of the Lever law, which makes it an offense for a merchant to charge "unjust or unreasonable prices," was today held to be unconstitutional by United States District Judge Thompson.

The ground for invalidating section 4 of the act, Judge Thompson said, is because its description of "unjust and unreasonable prices" is vague, indefinite and uncertain and in violation of the sixth amendment to the constitution guaranteeing every defendant the right to full information of the nature of the charge against him.

In declaring the section unconstitutional, the court granted an injunction to Lambert & Co., sugar brokers of New York, restraining United States Attorney McAvoy and other federal officials from issuing warrants for arrest of 11 members of the firm on charges of profiteering.

At the first noon luncheon of the chamber groups in the state Chamber of Commerce campaign for raising the city's share of the expansion budget, the report showed combined subscriptions of $4,992.50, which included a grand total of $15,827.50, or a little more than one-fourth of the $40,000 target.
