

GEORGIA CONFIRMS SEAT FOR NEGRO

Selection Upheld by Vote on Convention Floor.

ROLL CALL NOT GRANTED

Chairman Lodge Informs Crowd Action Is Decisive—Audience Tires of Long Waits.

COLISEUM, Chicago, June 10.—The selection of Henry Lincoln Johnson, Atlanta negro, as a member of the republican national committee from Georgia was confirmed today by a vote of the Georgia delegation taken on the floor of the convention.

Senator Lodge declared Johnson elected and put it up to the convention to signify its approval. There was a loud chorus of "yes" and a chorus of "noes. Senator Lodge broke the gavel striking for order.

Chairman Lodge told the convention the vote of the state delegation settled the question.

Then the convention settled down for another period of inactivity in which hand selections and conversation and wiping of fevered brows predominated.

Four o'clock, the hour for reconvening, passed and the convention was not in order and there was no attempt to call to order because the word had come that the resolutions committee was not ready to report on the platform.

The delegates were on hand anxiously waiting for things to start and make up for the disappointment of the short session of the morning.

Crowds Are Impatient. Delegates, alternates and visitors were fed up on the successive adjournments and showed their impatience at the late start by intermittent bursts of applause and cheers from the floor and galleries.

When California was called, the delegation passed. The first rumpus came with the call of Georgia. The name of Henry Lincoln Johnson, the Atlanta negro, who figured in the senate campaign as a candidate for election as having handled Lowden funds in Georgia, was presented and a protest was made from the delegation. Chairman Lodge ruled that any dispute could be taken up later.

Johnson's Name Cheered. Senator Sherman was loudly cheered when his name was announced as the successor of Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago as a member of the committee. Joe Keating, one of the old timers, also got a round of applause when he was announced to succeed ex-Senator Hiram.

The passing of many of the veterans of a resolution to limit the speeches to two succeeding speeches of five minutes each and two seconds were required and seconds were given.

The convention liked the idea and adopted it with a few scattering noes. Chairman Lodge announced that the resolutions committee was on its way to report and the crowd demanded to be entertained in the meantime.

There were more shouts for Uncle Cannon, and Senator Lodge after explaining that "Uncle Joe" had asked to be excused, suddenly produced an ex-speaker, looking fresh, hale and hearty, on the speaker's runway. The movie man turned on the lights and shot a few yards of film, while the crowd stood and cheered for "Uncle Joe."

Picking up a glass of water from the speaker's table, Uncle Joe held it aloft in the attitude of liberty enlightening the world. The crowd got the point and roared. Mr. Cannon referred to the supreme court's decision upholding prohibition and declared solemnly that whatever individual opinion about it might be, the laws of the republic must be maintained and proposed a toast to the convention, and drank down the water.

"I don't know who is going to be nominated," Uncle Joe confided to the crowd. "But I trust and believe that he will be a great success. I believe when the report comes from the committee on platform it will receive substantially the approval of every delegate, which means the approval of all the republicans, at least in the United States."

Crowd Calls for "Teddy." At that point Uncle Joe turned and asked the convention managers: "Say, isn't there something else ready?" Apparently nothing else was ready and Mr. Cannon went on for another moment and then gave his audience a "God bless you" and a "good afternoon."

There were calls for "Teddy." The crowd wanted to look at Lieutenant Colonel Roosevelt, who was on the platform. The band did it, however, and the cries died down.

When the band got through the crowd wanted "Teddy" again. The song leaders took the platform and asked the audience to sing. A chorus of shouts, yells and protests answered back. The crowd evidently did not want to sing. The band started up "The Long Trail," and the song leader tried to get the crowd singing without a great deal of success. The shouts of protest almost drowned out the voices of the singers. Chairman Lodge watched the performance with some appreciation. It turned into a contest between those who wanted to sing and those who wanted to shout.

The song leader took another tack and turned into "Smiles." The audience was in a better mood for that and he got a better measure of re-resolutions committee. The gang will soon be all here.

Crowd Chooses Its Own Songs. On its own account, the crowd starts "How Dry I Am," sung with great fervor, unanimity and success; "The Good Old Summer Time" and "Hot Time in the Old Town" have their turn. The crowd is not good at waiting, but it is worse at singing, except "How Dry I Am," which lends itself to harmonious expression, wet or dry.

A row in the Georgia delegation led to a poll of the members on national committee. The first name was Henry Lincoln Johnson, and that gentleman promptly arose and voted for himself. He knows what he wants, Johnson, a typical colored delegate, reading a copy of the program was seated by the national committee on the distinct understanding that he would retire as national committee-man. Being seated, he proceeded to show what he could do. The temper of the convention toward Johnson and the whole southern scheme of representation was shown by many cries of disapproval when the chairman announced that Johnson was seated. Senator Borah approaches the platform, and the galleries acclaim him, but some delegates counter with hisses. Borah is no hero here, at least with those who have the votes.

Nearly 6 o'clock, the hour for reconvening, passed and the convention was not in order and there was no attempt to call to order because the word had come that the resolutions committee was not ready to report on the platform.

The song leader took another tack and turned into "Smiles." The audience was in a better mood for that and he got a better measure of re-at Panama elicits a great cheer. Prolonged applause follows the demand that aliens register annually.

The delegates rose and shouted in approval of the declaration for free speech and denunciation of all government enemies who seek its overthrow. "Read it again," cried out a delegate, but Watson didn't. Again the delegates got up and waved their hats and raised their voices at the mention of Roosevelt's name in connection with conservation.

Somebody injected a split initiative in the postal plank but the outburst seemed to arouse no special indignation. Where are the grammarians? Watson gave to the Mexican plank the flavor of an obvious rhetorical contempt for the administration it attacked, which was delightfully received by the crowd. Another hard shot at the president in connection with Armenia met the customary shouting endorsement.

League Plank Cheered. Then came the league of nations. Watson paused and the long and anxious suspense of the convention over the critical question broke forth in the relief of laughter. The plank was read with rapt attention and his pauses after each sentence were punctuated by applause. He recited the final plank as if it were the peroration of a speech, ending in a flourish of the foot of the standing delegates and the galleries.

The long fight over the platform appeared to be over, but it wasn't. Wisconsin was to be heard from. Wisconsin is always to be heard from in republican convention, always with a discordant note in the general chorus of harmony.

Wisconsin Note Discarded. The absence of La Follette seems to make no difference. Wisconsin is still Wisconsin. The representative of Wisconsin in the committee submitted a minority report. All by himself. The convention was in no humor to hear him, and was even less tolerant as he proceeded with his anti-league, semi-socialistic and near-German proposals. Interrupted by jeers and groans, the Wisconsin man upbraided the convention for not being willing to hear him. When he proposed that the committee be dissolved, the Wisconsin man was called to order. He was followed by Senator Watson, chairman of the resolutions committee. The long war against the Wisconsin man was in an impressive voice began the reading of the long platform. The convention fell into immediate and receptive quiet.

Crowd Is Anti-Wilson. The first spontaneous response came with the pledge to end executive autocracy. Any thrust at Wilson sets the delegates in an uproar of approval. It is the best rallying cry for the orators.

The era of good feeling has passed if it was ever here. Another outburst came when the speaker's plank was attacked, and a great roar went up when the right to strike against the government was denied, nor was there any doubt that the republican party approves the plank against government ownership of railroads. The protective tariff gets a hand and the demand for free tolls and misadventures which nearly every one thought would wreck it. There had to be a huge momentum in the Wood movement to get where it is, today, and the danger today is that it will be overdone. Wood's nomination is the natural outcome.

PROPAGANDA PLAN REJECTED BY LABOR

American Federation Opposes Opening Bureau.

POLICE UNIONS FAVORED

Chartering of International Organization Authorized—Railroad Shares Wanted.

MONTREAL, June 10.—The American Federation of Labor in annual convention here today rejected a proposal to create a permanent educational department to distribute propaganda urging support of the federation's policy of non-partisanship in politics.

The delegates unanimously adopted a report of the committee on organization which recommended that this step not be taken at this time because it was unnecessary and would entail unjustified expense. The proposal includes provision for a large campaign fund.

Resolution Is Rejected. The organization committee refused to concur in a resolution presented by the Chicago Federation of Labor which urged the executive council to appoint a special committee to investigate the feasibility of combining all workers in the food and catering industry of America into a food-producing and distributing department.

The convention authorized the executive council of the federation to charter an international policemen's union as soon as the membership of local policemen's unions totals 6000. Government ownership of railroads is urged in a joint resolution presented by seven international unions to the convention today. The resolution declares government ownership is necessary to provide more adequate and cheaper transportation and to eliminate the sinister influence of railroad corporations from our national life.

Military Training Opposed. Military training in the schools and the establishment of compulsory military service or training are condemned in a resolution proposed by the American Federation of Teachers to eliminate the "color line" from its constitution and give the negro full membership.

CRANE AGAINST JOHNSON (Continued From First Page.) fashion that would hurt their feelings if they were not good politicians.

Then they will send out for the shepherds of men and fishers of men and herders of men, and try to get enough votes for somebody else to make that somebody else the nominee.

Who that somebody else is will be the news. If I knew, I'd tell you. But I can assure you of this, that not a soul in Chicago does know his name—not even your Uncle Murray.
