

GRADUATES LISTEN TO BISHOP'S SUMMER SERMON

St. Helen's Baccalaureate Sermon Is Given.

LARGER LIFE DESCRIBED

Speaker Declares Education Based on Religion Greatest Asset of Students' Alma Mater.

Bishop Walter Taylor Sumner delivered the baccalaureate sermon before the graduating class of St. Helen's hall yesterday morning at St. Stephen's cathedral.

"I am Alpha and Omega," Rev. 21: 6 and 8, was taken by the bishop as the text for his address.

"You have finished the different courses of study at St. Helen's hall and are now being sent forth to take up a larger life and assume some of the more important responsibilities that society will thrust upon you.

The process of your education has been based upon religion. This religious education is the greatest asset of your alma mater.

Always apply to religion the same process you apply to other branches of learning.

In speaking of the system of education, he said: "We learn reasoning from the known to the unknown, a process which we will call argument.

This consists, first, of knowledge; second, ability; that is, the mind; and the specialty, third, and thirdly, time. To do this requires special gifts in order that we may build up a logical argument based on fact.

Time, also, is required and because of lack of time we have to accept the conclusion of others who have worked the thing out for us.

"There must be integrity of character back of the argument reasoning if we are to accept conclusions." The bishop then spoke of the different sources of authority, namely, the Bible, the church and the authority that comes through the life of Christ.

NEW CHURCH IS DEDICATED Three Services Held in First Congregational at Forest Grove.

Three dedicatory services were held yesterday at the new First Congregational church at Forest Grove, which has just been completed at a cost of $50,000.

Rev. W. Walter Blair, pastor of the church, presided at the first service, which was held at 11 o'clock in the morning. The dedicatory prayer was given by Dr. Arthur J. Sullens, district superintendent of Congregational missions.

In the afternoon Dr. W. T. McEivren, pastor of the First Congregational church of Portland, delivered an address on "Why We Have Church."

Dr. Robert Murray Trant, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church of Portland, had charge of the devotional services at this meeting, which was in the form of a religious conference attended by men and women of all denominations.

George H. Himes of the Oregon Historical society, in his address to the church, said in his address that the world had staid and music to satisfy the aesthetic sense, truth to satisfy the rational needs and the church to fulfill the spiritual demands of human nature.

He declared the church today had a mission not only for the individual but for collective society, for business, politics and the nation.

Dr. Sullens again assisted with the evening dedicatory services. He and Dr. Kater of the First Congregational church of Portland read prayers.

Between 700 and 800 persons attended these meetings and filled the auditorium of the new church. The church is of brick construction. Its membership is over 200.

"MUSHY IDEALISTS" SCORED Minister Speaks on "Christ and the Fighting Instinct."

"Christ and the Fighting Instinct" was Dr. W. T. McEivren's topic at the First Congregational church Sunday evening. He said in part:

"Some make a beautiful and beautiful sentiment. To them Christianity is a matter of kindly feeling toward everybody. These mushy and impractical idealists are fond of two of the beatitudes of Jesus. They like to quote 'Blessed are the meek' and 'Blessed are the peacemakers.' They forget that meekness is not weakness and that peacemakers oftentimes make peace by engaging in war.

"Meekness is not lack of spirit. It is self-respect without self-conceit. It is self-defense without over-assertion. Meekness is quiet reserve power that does things without advertising itself. Christianity is a gospel of peace, but not a peaceful gospel. It is not passive acceptance of the world as it is. Christianity discriminates between good men and bad men. It creates divisions among them. It puts some men on the left hand and some men on the right hand. It is not a peace at any price scheme. It is a declaration of war against all manner of sin."

MOVING PICTURE NEWS

Moment from "Romance," starring Doris Keane, which is showing at the Majestic theater this week.

TODAY'S FILM FEATURES. Peoples—Wanda Hawley, "Miss Hobbs." Liberty—Wallace Reid, "The Dancin' Fool." Columbia—Violet Heming, "Everywoman." Everywoman—Norma Talmadge, "Captivating Mary Carstairs." Majestic—Doris Keane, "Romance." Star—Special attraction, "Rio Grande." Clatsop—Kimbali Young, "Eyes of Youth." Globe—Nasimova, "The Heart of a Child."

The title of "Romance," starring Doris Keane, who created the original role and who has played in it now for six consecutive seasons, is a wonderfully expressive of the essence and the heart of this artistic production. It is showing on the Majestic screen until Friday midnight.

"Romance" is virile for its characters are clean-cut, strong and magnetic. It is also sweet and dainty. As one watches it, unconsciously one associates it with old-fashioned lavender, with quaint dapper types, with fine lines and with the gracious courtesy of a more picturesque and gentler age than that of the modern hurry and bustle. Despite its tense, gripping plot it is restful, refreshing and utterly delightful.

No one has ever played the leading role of "Romance" but Doris Keane. She has played in it five seasons in London and one on Broadway and the production is still having a run of unusual drawing power. It is said that Miss Keane carries about with her a little framed typewritten statement bearing the signature of the late Charles Frohman saying: "This play is no good." The Schubert play, however, saw the worth of the script and so it has been produced as one of the modern dramatic achievements.

The romance and love tangle which entered the soul of the actor of St. Giles many years ago forms the story of "Romance." It told by the bishop, who opens the inner recesses of his heart and memory to his neighbors when he believes the led in similar circumstances to those he experienced when he was rector and he, too, loved an actress.

Screen Gossip. Wanda Hawley is appearing on two Portland motion picture screens this week.

MIMIC FIGHT IS STAGED ARTILLERY STARTS PRACTICE ON PUGET SOUND.

Under Direction of Balloon Observation Officers Barrage Laid Down on Trenches.

TACOMA, Wash., June 13.—(Special.)—Puguet sound will take on a warlike aspect this summer when the coast artillery target practice begins at objects on the open sea with the assistance of observation balloons.

Two balloon companies of the army arrived at Camp Lewis yesterday and were ready for business today, when battery B, 8th artillery, attacked specially-prepared trenches with barrage fire.

Under the direction of the balloon observation officers, firing began at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon and after severe barrage and salvo on salvo of curtain fire, the trenches were demolished. During the battle, P. F. Barnes' big Martin bombing plane attacked the balloon and fired several shots, each scoring a hit. Captain Henry Lancaster, camp signal officer, rode with Barnes and W. Jamieson Field as observer and direction finder. Barnes controlled the big plane while Mr. E. E. Lewis, camp signal camera man, succeeded in scoring direct hits.

On being attacked, one of the occupants of the dirigible, a dummy filled with sand, thought it safer to make a quick get-away and was camera shot, just as his parachute opened out for a long descent. The two balloon companies are a new feature of training at Camp Lewis. Captain J. S. Harmschmidt is in charge. Each company consists of about 70 men and two officers.

1000 KIWANIS ARE EXPECTED TODAY

Delegates to Arrive for International Convention.

OFFICERS ALREADY HERE

Conferences Being Held, Going Through Work Preparatory to Opening of Meet.

Members of the Kiwanis club from far and near, to the number of 1,000 or more, are expected to arrive in Portland today, in anticipation of the international convention of the Kiwanis club, which opens here tomorrow. The convention this year, which is the fifth in the history of the organization, is expected to be the largest ever held, and 2,000 members of the organization are expected to be here by Wednesday morning, when the regular sessions open.

Portland members of the organization and their wives have been formed in the number of a registration committee by Commissioner Pier, who is in charge of this feature of convention activity, and a group of half a dozen or more of the members has been delegated to meet every train today and tomorrow, to greet the visitors and to aid in their becoming located and getting acquainted with the plans of the convention.

Registration Is Tuesday. On Tuesday, officers and committees will hold sessions and registration will take place at the Oregon building, and on Wednesday the opening session of the organization will take place at the Elks temple at 10:30 A. M. The complete programme of the week includes convention business about as much of the time on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, while Saturday will be given over to a trip over the Columbia river highway.

Leading officers of the club are already in the city and are conferring with the convention committee of the Portland club and going through the mass of detailed work necessary to the opening of the convention. Henry J. Elliott of Montreal, president of the club, arrived on Saturday, and International Secretary Cummings of Chicago, preceded him by a day. Mr. Elliott is a prominent attorney in his home city and is identified with the leading newspapers there. Roe Fulkerson of Washington, editor of the Kiwanis magazine, arrived yesterday, and J. Mercer Barnett of Birmingham, Alabama, first vice-president, is expected early today. Mr. Elliott is a prominent attorney in his home city and is identified with the leading newspapers there. Jack Ford is supervising the production of a western story, "Under Sentence," with Bob Anderson, Ethel Ritchie, Jennie Lee, J. Farrell McDonald, Captain Anderson and Jack Woods in the cast.

Harry Carey has pleased an author by his interpretation of a character the author created, something in moving pictures that happens about as often as an eclipse of the sun or a republican victory in Texas.

Londoners Was Noon. An important luncheon in connection with the forthcoming convention will be held this noon at the Benson hotel, when President Elliott and the other officers will be the guests of the Portland club. Convention plans will be discussed, the letter from Henry Herbert Knibbs, first vice-president, will be read, and every member of the Portland club will be assigned a share of the convention work to do "make the event here a great success. George A. Lovejoy, general chairman of the convention committee, will preside.

On Tuesday, three important conferences will be held. President Elliott will meet the presidents of the various local clubs in the room of the Benson hotel. International Secretary Cummings will direct a meeting of the club secretaries at the bureau of New York and it is so large it has 16 branch offices. Its work is principally with civic associations, schools, factories, the government and the general public. It is so large it has 16 branch offices. Kiwanis was organized in January, 1915, largely as an outgrowth of the war spirit, which brought men together in the common end of operations. The club is composed of not over two men from any one profession and the general aims of the organization are admirably summed up in the translation of the Chip-pawan Indian word from which "Kiwanis" is derived, "to build." To build a better and a stronger state, to further constructive movements, and to battle against the forces which seek to tear down and destroy are the purposes of the Kiwanis organization.

JOHN STEIGER PASSES WHILE ON FISHING TRIP.

With Companions From Baker, Jaunt Had Been Made to Stream Near Huntingdon.

BAKER, Or., June 13.—(Special.)—John Steiger, prominent sheep man and rancher of Baker county and known throughout eastern Oregon, died Friday afternoon while on a fishing trip with Herman and Walter Steiger and Bernhard Baer, all of Baker.

The four men left early Friday morning by automobile for Lime and spent several hours in the stream about six miles from Huntingdon, when John Steiger saw a ten-pound salmon, which he and his brothers finally landed. The men were excited and exhausted after the catch had been made and John Steiger suggested trying their luck at a point near a bridge a half mile distant.

He left his companions to drive the automobile to the bridge while the others started to fish downstream to that point. The men heard a cry from him and hastened in his direction. He was panting heavily but when the men reached him his breathing had ceased.

Mr. Steiger was 52 years old. He is survived by his widow and step-son, William Paxton; his brother, Emil Steiger; half-brothers, Walter and Herman Steiger, all of Baker, and P. Albertine of Rutherford, N. J.; a half-sister, Mrs. Hans Ott of Rainier, and two half-brothers now in Switzerland.

The funeral will be held tomorrow at Mt. Hope cemetery.
