

TRAVELERS OPEN CONVENTION HERE

"Pep" and Parade Liven Day Despite Rain.

TEXAS MARCHERS TAKE PRIZE

Milwaukee Float Captures First in Industrial Unit.

GOVERNOR BIDS WELCOME

Girls' Band Serenades Visitors; Committees Appointed and Session Gets Down to Business.

Added expense accounts may have to pay a few tailors bills and for new straw hats and other things, which traveling men wear just as ordinary mortals do, but when that bunch of delegates to the Travelers' Protective Association of America got started at their national convention here yesterday there wasn't any stopping them.

"Honest, this kind of rain for Oregon is unusual in June," was the trite excuse that some of the local "boys" started to offer when they looked for a time during the fore part of the afternoon that the rain couldn't be classed as showers—would prevent the big parade.

"Rain, huh? Where do you get that stuff?" queried a Maryland delegate in white flannels. "Don't you boys know that it's always fair weather when a real bunch get together? Let's go!"

Enthusiasm Not Dampened.

And go they did. There wasn't any stopping them. The raindrops may have dampened straw hats and added a few wrinkles to newly pressed suits, but it didn't dampen the enthusiasm of Portland's guests, for many wrinkles of care on happy brows.

As the big opening feature of the convention the parade yesterday afternoon through the downtown streets lived up fully to all advance notices and expectations. Marching clubs from various parts in uniform, decorated automobiles, the industrial floats, and of course, the bathing girls, attracted wide attention throughout the long line of march.

Texas made good all its pre-convention boasts when it annexed first prize for having the largest number and best appearing marchers in the parade. Each man from Texas wore a uniform of blue coat, white shirt, hat and trousers and blue tie. The girl marchers from Texas also wore a feature of the Texas division of the parade.

The judges were unanimous in awarding first honors to the men and women from the Lone Star state.

Milwaukee Float Wins Prize.

The Milwaukee float, which depicted the various commercial and industrial activities of the city entered for its share, received first honors in the industrial section, while second prize was won by the Portland Flouring Mills exhibit.

Other local, or northwest manufacturers, had interesting exhibits, and gave the parade the needed touch of color to hold the interest of the thousands of people who lined the sidewalks all along the line of march.

C. F. Beebe, grand marshal, with his official staff, led the parade, with county and city officials following in automobiles. Campbell's American band led the several musical organizations.

Under the leadership of E. J. Kraenick, the first division led marchers from the states of Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota and Mississippi.

W. A. Ross Leads Division.

The second division had W. A. Ross for its leader, and these states were represented in the line of march: Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

The third division was composed of marchers from the Oregon and Washington divisions, with girls' band from Sheridan, Or.; the women's auxiliary of the northwest division and visiting women in decorated automobiles.

The division marched under the leadership of Earl Bunting. The industrial floats came at the rear of the third division.

The list of delegates reached a total of more than 1500 yesterday when biated trains brought the quotas from South Carolina, Nebraska and Iowa. Hotel accommodations were found for all, and the newly arrived "gang" quickly became acclimated and joined in the general festivities.

Band Serenades Visitors.

During the early afternoon while waiting for the parade to start the visitors were serenaded by the girls' band from Sheridan, Or. The young women have assembled a real band, which won enthusiastic applause.

Impromptu dances were staged in the lobby of the Multnomah hotel, where the band held forth.

Preceded by cheers and songs and good-natured fun that kept the delegates in high humor, the opening

BEND, Or., June 14.—(Special.)—The gain of 910.3 per cent from 536 to 5414 in the last decade by Bend's population, so far as is known is the most phenomenal growth shown for any town or city in the state of Oregon by the 1920 census.

Ten years ago Bend was a village. Logging camps in the immediate vicinity of Bend, it is estimated, would bring the population of 1920 up to more than 6000.

The pine milling industry was firmly established here in 1916, when plants were constructed by the Brooks-Scanlon Lumber company and the Shevlin-Hixon company, with a payroll amounting to more than $2,500,000 annually.

More than 1800 persons are employed in the mills, woods and factories throughout the year.

Bend's prosperity rests on a foundation of white pine.

HARDING IS BUSY AS PARTY NOMINEE

Candidate Silent Until Notified of Choice.

VACATION WILL BE TAKEN

Campaign Smile Is Caught by Movies; Messages Answered.

OFFICE IS FLOWER-LADEN

Senate Employes Welcome Member and Day Is Spent in Effort to Finish Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Senator Harding today found the life of the republican presidential nominee strenuous, although he held no important political conferences. He went to his office at the capitol shortly before noon, posed for motion picture men, greeted senate employes, received personal friends who called to congratulate him, went over piles of congratulatory telegrams, played golf and then worked far into the night at his home in an effort to catch up with correspondence.

He declined to make any statement regarding his position on party policies, indicating he would have nothing to say until in his speech of acceptance. He also said that pending his official notification, he would withhold making public his campaign plans. He also declined to say whether he would resign his senate seat.

Hays to Confer Sunday.

Senator Harding's plans are indefinite. He intends to remain here until late this week, when he will leave for a brief vacation. He does not contemplate reaching his home in Marion, O., before about July 1. The notification ceremonies are expected to take place soon after, as the vacation will give him an opportunity to prepare his speech of acceptance sounding the campaign keynote.

Chairman Hays of the republican national committee and several party leaders are expected to confer with the senator, probably Sunday, although the date has not been definitely fixed.

Harding's return to his office was the signal for an informal reception by senate employes. Shortly before his arrival his office was decorated by a large American flag and flowers, while today many bouquets were received from friends.

Smile Taken by Movies.

Despite his strenuous week at the capitol, the senator seemed in fine fettle and kept up a running fire

OREGON CHEERED AT BAY STATE CAPITOL

COOLIDGE HOLDS RECEPTION AND MAKES BRIEF SPEECH.

Congratulations of State Delegates and Officers Declared More Lasting Than Honors.

BOSTON, June 14.—Governor Coolidge, vice-presidential republican nominee, received congratulations from Massachusetts party leaders at a reception at the statehouse today. He was greeted by Lieutenant-Governor Cox, Frank B. Hall, chairman of the republican state committee, and Massachusetts delegates.

Cheers were given for the "next vice-president" and the "republican national ticket." Then someone suggested "three cheers for Oregon." The response was hearty. It was an Oregon delegate who placed Governor Coolidge in nomination.

Replying to the congratulations, Governor Coolidge said: "The great office to which the national republican convention has nominated me is one for which I hold the greatest respect. I am mindful of the great honor conferred upon me, but besides that and apart from it, I appreciate very much more deeply the mark of friendship that has caused you men and women, tired as you are, to come here the moment you arrive and to assure me of your friendship and of your good wishes."

"After all, offices are ended and they fade away. Friendship and the esteem in which men hold each other may remain forever. And, great as I regard the honor that the convention has conferred upon me, I regard with much more satisfaction and much more honor this tribute of you who know me, who have lived with me and worked and wrought with me, and the confidence that your presence here shows that you have in me."

LUMBER PRICES AGAIN CUT

Car Shortage Material Benefit to Hood River Consumers.

HOOD RIVER, Or., June 14.—(Special.)—The Bridal Veil Lumber company, operating a large retail yard here, today announced a second cut in the price of lumber. A 5 per cent reduction was made last week. The new scale of prices shows an average reduction of 12 1/2 per cent, which is said to be due to car shortage.

The fall in prices will result in a material saving, it is said, on the construction of a new grade school, work on which will begin here at once.

TITLE AND RICHES GO TO SPOKANE ICEMAN

TONGS TO BE LAID ASIDE FOR EARL'S CORONET.

Veteran of Cambrai Notified He Is to Receive Grandfather's Rank and $60,000.

SPOKANE, Wash., June 14.—(Special.)—Earl Miller, Spokane ice man, is now an earl of England. Incidentally he is also worth $60,000, which is the best part of his inheritance, according to his statements.

Mr. Miller is now employed by the Diamond Ice & Fuel company and peddled the frozen blocks on fashionable Cannon Hill route of the company. Saturday he received the glad news which will cause him to lay aside his ice tongs for the coronet of an earl and the bank account of an near-capitalist. The news was brought by J. McCoy of Burke & Burke, attorneys, of Chicago.

"I've been expecting this so long that it doesn't surprise me—but it sure is great."

"I don't care anything for that earl stuff, although it would stand me good in England. But I'm not going there for a year and then only on a visit. The United States for mine."

The new earl was with the 42d engineers of the A. E. F. in France. It was this regiment which received a pluck of fame when its men, with picks and shovels, defeated the Germans at the time when they broke through the British lines at Cambrai in 1917.

"That sure was hot," is Miller's characterization of the melees. He spent 1 1/2 months in France.

Mr. Miller inherits the title of earl and an estate near Liverpool, England, through the death of his grandfather, Earl Edward Miller. His inheritance is from his mother, now deceased. He was born in Denver, and has never been in England. Besides the title and the $60,000, he also becomes the owner of certain valuables in safety deposit boxes in a Chicago bank, where his mother's pearls and valuable relics and papers are stored.

Result Held Satisfactory. "The New Yorkers who care for the republican party and for the success of its principles and who are jealous of the honor should rejoice and take satisfaction that their representatives in the national convention, although by no means unified in sentiment or in organization, were yet able to exert so commanding an influence in a great emergency.

"Harding and Coolidge are first of all patriotic Americans and next republicans. We are to have the satisfaction of supporting and electing a real republican ticket. We may now look forward with complete confidence to the restoration of the national government to its old foundations, which are love and reverence for the constitution."

WOOD SACRIFICED TO SAVE PARTY

Butler Says New York's Votes Turned Tide.

DEFEAT BLAMED ON MONEY

General Doomed to Prevent Buying of Presidency.

WOOD DECLARED "GOAT"

Gamblers and Other Money Interests Back General, Much to Regret of His Friends.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Charges that "a motley group of stock gamblers, oil and mining promoters, million makers and other like persons seized on so good a man as General Wood and with reckless audacity started out to buy for him the presidential nomination" were made in a statement given out tonight by Nicholas Murray Butler, an unsuccessful republican candidate.

"It was the cause of genuine sorrow to me as to many others of General Wood's personal friends," he said, "to see him put in this unhappy position. There was nothing to do to save the republican party but to defeat the band of men behind him with their bank accounts. This meant we had to defeat General Wood."

"The forces defeated in their inselent attempt to buy the nomination represent all that is worst in American business and American political life. It is really too bad they hit upon General Wood as their choice. They should have found someone to support for whom the country has less respect and less regard."

Defeat Credited New York.

"The chief task of the convention was to prevent the sale of presidential nominations at auction to the highest bidder. Had this not been done the party faced not only certain defeat but crushing loss of honor. New York delegates who voted for me on the first ballot were the chief force in stopping the Hindenburg drive to overwhelm the convention by the power of unlimited money and by strong-arm methods in preferential primaries."

"The story of New York's 68 votes for Butler, shows, the statement said, how General Wood was defeated. It points out that the first ballot gave General Wood a substantial lead and that "the first task therefore was to bring the vote of his nearest rival, Governor Lowden, at least up to Wood's vote."

"Owing to local and state complications, the statement explains, there were few sources from which new Lowden strength could be drawn so early. Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Michigan and Ohio could not help, it added, because the release of delegates in those states probably would give Wood more votes than Lowden."

CANADIAN VETERAN LEAVES SUICIDE NOTE

JOE F. THOMPSON THOUGHT TO HAVE ENDED LIFE.

Albany Man Disappears and Is Believed to Have Been Unbalanced by War Suffering.

ALBANY, Or., June 14.—(Special.)—Joe F. Thompson, former Canadian soldier, suffering from being wounded and gassed in France, disappeared from his room here Saturday night leaving letters indicating that he intended to take his life. Members of the local lodge of Knights of Pythias to which he belonged and of the American Legion, of which he was a honorary member, searched all day without finding his body or any definite trace of him.

Thompson was one of the few survivors of the 72d Seaforth Highlanders and went through many months of the hardest kind of fighting when the Canadians suffered terrible losses. He was one of only 15 left in a large unit in one engagement.

Because he was of a cheerful disposition despite the wounds from which he yet suffered, friends believed that he was unable to blot from his memory terrible war scenes, which preyed on his mind and caused him to have nightmares, he became mentally unbalanced.

Thompson was gassed twice and suffered several shrapnel wounds. He often said he belonged with his buddies in France, and in one of the letters left he referred to the fact that his body might be found but that his name would be in France where it belonged.

He was about 30 years old. He was born in Scotland and had worked in the diamond mines of South Africa.

MYSTIC SHRINE INVITED

San Francisco Seeks to Be Scene of Next Annual Conclave.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—The San Francisco board of supervisors today adopted a resolution inviting the Mystic Shrine to hold its next annual conclave here.

The leaders think he will. They think they acted last evening as they gave him what he demanded about the league of nations.

For that matter, the convention did another thing that Johnson and Borah demanded. They put down the candidates who had figured in the campaign fund investigation. The leaders think that if Johnson is not satisfied with all this, they had better go on the theory that it is not worth while to try to satisfy him. Johnson is rather acutely on trial just now.

Convention Little Suspicious.

The net of the feeling the convention had about him was obviously a little unfriendly, a little suspicious. That impression was heightened by the unfortunate affair of the speech of the man who put him in nomination. But Johnson has never wavered quite so far outside the party as to be permanently and definitely an outsider. He can yet figure as a leader of his party. But it is not as to other in now and come in wholeheartedly and support the ticket, he will pretty certainly be allowed to go his way.

It is a perfectly proper thing for a man to stay out if he so desires, more or less conforming to the greatest of virtues. But Johnson can't have his cake and eat it too. He must conform, or, if he fails, forfeit the privilege that go with conformity, including presidential nominations from the republican party. The price of non-conformity is martyrdom and when fate comes around with the bill you mustn't whine. Johnson's right now under the necessity of deciding whether he is going to be a party man or the alternative to be a La Follette, every mention of whose name the convention jeered. La Follette may be a lost cause, but his standards of individual conscience, than those party leaders who make nominations and accept nominations, but you can't be both a La Follette and also a republican. That is the choice that Johnson must make and the party is watching to see how swiftly he makes it.

Wood is Most Gallant.

Of all the candidates, Wood was the most gallant figure in defeat. He sold defeat standing squarely in his solid military boots in the middle of the entrance to his headquarters, giving to every comer smiles of almost jovial composure in return for condolences. "That is what duty and taste call for at such a time, and that is what Wood would always do. He is one of the most completely self-disciplined of living men."

Disappointment could readily have been excused in Wood in any other kind of gathering he should have been the winner. He had the only considerable body of delegates in the convention who really believed in their candidate. Wood had substantially the same number of delegates on the last ballot that he had on the first. Among his delegates was example
