

DR. BENNET IS ACCUSED

DENTIST'S WIFE SAYS HUSBAND FOND OF WOMEN.

Complaint for Divorce Declares Spouse Has Thirst for Patent Medicines.

Silk shirts, a thirst for patent medicines and fondness for other women are cited by Mrs. Bennet as some of the vices of her husband, Dr. N. P. Bennet, a local dentist, from whom she is seeking a divorce.

The document alleges Bennet was fond of calling his wife a "good-for-nothing" where others might hear. He wore expensive clothing, such as silk shirts, yet growled if his wife mentioned needing new garments.

He also cites his fondness for tonics and patent medicines, and that in drinking these, the dentist would become morose and cross, she says.

Mrs. Bennet claims her husband was unduly familiar with his office girl and that sometimes when women patients telephoned and the wife was present, the dentist would tell them he could not talk because she would overhear.

Mrs. Bennet asks custody of her son, Paul. The couple were married in June, 1918.

Stabbing with a penknife, Julie E. Burrows mentions in her divorce complaint filed against William H. Burrows as one of her husband's modes of abuse. That he is constantly mistreating her 13-year-old daughter by a previous marriage, and that he had threatened the plaintiff's life are some of the allegations.

Mrs. Burrows says she has worked to aid in the family's support, and now her husband threatens to take all their money and leave the state. Since Burrows has been making threats to her safety she has been forced to leave home.

Gertrude Roach asks a divorce from David Roach, whom she married in 1914. The defendant is a blacksmith, who his wife says was interested in the manufacture of liquor and wanted her to assist. He has been abusive and bruised her up occasionally. She wishes custody of their three children.

The only husband in the list of divorce plaintiffs yesterday was Herbert S. Brown, who says Ruby Alice Brown, whom he married last year, refuses to get his bread and is indolent. He charges she went to Seattle and filed a "slandorous" divorce complaint, accusing him of riotous living.

Mary L. Palmer charges William Palmer with cursing and otherwise abusing her, also with wanting to provide for his wife. They were married last January.

Divorce suits were also filed by Verna S. Leonard against Stanley W. Leonard and Belle Peck against Edward Peck. The latter says she was abandoned in 1917 and wants custody of her four youngest children.

GROWERS BUY RAILWAY

Fruit Men Will Use Output of Sawmills and Box Factories.

GOLD HILL, Or., June 23.—(Special).—The initiatory papers have been executed for the conveyance of the Medford-Jacksonville railway under lease to J. T. Gagnon of Medford, to the leading fruit growers at Los Angeles. The deal will include the Gagnon saw mills and box factories at both Medford and Jacksonville, and several pine timber tracts on the Applegate and between Gold Hill and Jacksonville.

The railway has been recently extended from Jacksonville to the timber on Applegate. The new owners propose to extend it to other tracts and divert the entire output of the mills and factories to their use as Los Angeles. It is reported that the deal runs into six figures. The vendor, J. T. Gagnon, who first took up the manufacture of lumber in Medford will retire from business.

FLYING PATROL ARRANGED

Seven Airplanes to Have Quarters at Medford Base.

MEDFORD, Or., June 23.—(Special).—Before flying for Eugene today Captain Lowell H. Smith, who will have charge of the forest airplane patrol service in Oregon and northern California, completed arrangements for the service.

The new county fairgrounds are being transformed into a first-class landing place. At this base will be constructed seven hangars and a wireless station will also be constructed. The base will be furnished with an automobile truck and automobile. A crew of 20 army men will be stationed here. While seven planes will have quarters here, only two will be in daily use. One will make a round trip to Medford south to Alturas, Cal., daily and the other will make a round trip daily patrol to Klamath Falls and vicinity.

SCHWARTZ WILL BE HELD

Oregon Officers Ready as Soon as Degenerate Crosses Line.

SALEM, Or., June 23.—(Special).—Governor Olcott today received a half dozen letters, accompanied by many newspaper clippings, from officials and private citizens, all earnestly advising him that Milton Schwartz, degenerate, who was recently released by the New York City courts upon the promise of his relatives to take him to Oregon, was on his way to this state.

The executive today reiterated his previous statement to the effect that Schwartz would be arrested immediately upon his arrival in Oregon and would be examined as to his sanity. In the event he is insane, he will be ordered returned to New York for treatment in the state hospital there. Schwartz was arrested on a charge of attacking little girls, and all plans had been made to commit him to a New York asylum when relatives agreed to take him to Oregon. The court then ordered his release.

He is said to be a dangerous man, and clippings from newspapers in the east led the court to task for allowing him his freedom. Walter Evans, district attorney of Multnomah county, says in a letter to the governor that he will cause Schwartz' arrest in case he arrives in Portland.

FARMERS HELD SWINDLED

Agents Make Money Selling Lice Preventative and Bacteria.

THE DALLES, Or., June 23.—(Special).—Agents with lice preventative and alfalfa and clover bacteria are reaping a harvest of money among Wasco county farmers, according to E. R. Jackman, county agricultural agent.

An agent who says he represents the State Poultry association looks over a farmer's flock of chickens, asserts that they are not doing what they should in the way of egg production, and then sells a few gallons of lice preventative to bring the flock up to standard. One farmer in the Dufur section recently paid $12 for a gallon of the preventative. It is said to be merely sheep dip. The regular price for it is $1 a gallon.

An agent posing as an expert in fertilization of alfalfa and clover fields is also active. He sells bacteria for inoculating soil for alfalfa and clover. He claims that his preparation will make alfalfa and clover grow almost magically.

For his remarkable collection of bugs he charges at a rate which brings the price per acre to $3. The agricultural college sells the same bacteria at 25 cents an acre.

FIVE TEACHERS HIKING

Oregon Women Reach Marshfield on Jaunt to California.

MARSHFIELD, Or., June 23.—(Special).—Margaret Power, San De Fuca, Wash.; Etta White, Salem; Irene Ringheim, Los Angeles; Helen Phillips, Portland, and Conifred Hurck, Salem, compose a party of five school teachers arriving here today from the north who are hiking to southern California. The women already have covered western Oregon from the Sitka southward to Coos Bay, and tomorrow will start on toward Curry county through the Seven Devils district.

They are garbed in outing khaki uniform and carry sufficient blankets and supplies to camp along the way if necessary, with no tent. They are all automatic pistol in the party, and Miss Power is the official gunner.

NEWPORT RAISES QUOTA

State Commerce Chamber Fund Is Subscribed.

NEWPORT, Or., June 23.—(Special).—Representative citizens of Newport met at the Abbey hotel to take part in the state-wide drive for the organization of a state chamber of commerce.

Dr. Hawin in a 20-minute talk made a most eloquent appeal for organization throughout the state for a publicity campaign. He was followed by Mr. Allen, who outlined the plan upon which it was proposed to raise the necessary funds to carry out the work. He also announced that the amount that had been allotted to Newport was $500.

At the close of the banquet which followed cards were passed around and in a few minutes Chairman Dickenson announced that Newport was over the top.

KELSO GASOLINE SCARCE

None for Pleasure Cars, and Even Industrial Needs Not Supplied.

KELSO, Wash., June 23.—(Special).—Kelso and vicinity continues to suffer from the acute gas shortage. Local distributing stations haven't enough gasoline to supply the farmers, fishermen and other industrial needs and have none for pleasure cars. Hundreds of tourists in the past two days were unable to secure gas at the local garages and had to conserve their supply of gas until they could reach some place where there has been recorded more favorable treatment by the distributors.

Local garage proprietors as well as auto owners are irate over the treatment given this community. Kelso drivers have found no difficulty in securing sufficient gasoline at Portland, Vancouver and elsewhere.

GEO. F. SYKES SECRETARY

Professor of Zoology Officer of Pacific Fisheries Society.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, June 23.—(Special).—Professor George F. Sykes of the department of zoology, who has been conducting experimental work in connection with a fish hatchery which he maintains at the college, has been selected secretary of the Pacific Fisheries society, which held its annual meeting in Seattle.

Professor Sykes read a paper on "Some Effects of Some Plagues on the Development of Salmon Fry." The next meeting of the organization, which has for its purpose the encouragement of fish culture and the fisheries, will be held in San Francisco.

BRICKLAYERS BEGIN WAR

Washington to Be Combed for Dry Law Violators After July 1.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 23.—Announcement of a drive against violators of the Volstead act, to begin July 1, with a doubled force of federal prohibition agents, was made today by Donald A. McDonald, federal prohibition director.

Ten new agents will be added to the present force of seven prohibition operatives in the state, and two additional inspectors will be stationed in Seattle. Five agents will be detailed to the Tacoma division, five to the Spokane division and seven will work from Seattle.

Frank Davey Named Orator.

SALEM, Or., June 23.—(Special).—Frank Davey, candidate for state representative from Marion county, will deliver the oration at a picnic to be held by the people of Marion county on July 1. Mr. Davey has resided in Marion county for many years and his address will deal with the early history of this section of the state.

Salem Man Reports Theft.
