

OREGON DELEGATES STILL UNRELEASED

McAdoo's Silence on Point Causes Comment.

TAMMANY TALKING LITTLE

Edwards Shouter Feels Encouraged at Stand Taken by Postmaster-General Burleson.

ABOARD THE OVERLAND LIMITED, OGDEN, Utah, June 23.—(Special.)—McAdoo or Marshall, so the signs read as viewed from the train, which might be called the William Gibbs McAdoo special because it is carrying to San Francisco Stuart G. Gibboney, who is authorized to derail the McAdoo candidacy.

Mr. Gibboney, however, is the only McAdoo man on this train who talks about stopping the McAdoo boom, and sometimes I wonder if he is in earnest about it. Failure of news dispatches in today's papers to record any action of Mr. McAdoo releasing the ten Oregon delegates, the only delegation under definite instructions to support him, caused his friends themselves to doubt if he meant what he said when he sent a telegram of withdrawal a few days ago to Joseph Shouser of Kansas City. Last Saturday, when several of his New York friends left for the convention, Mr. McAdoo assured them, they say, that he intended setting free the Oregon delegation but up to this hour they have received no indication of any such move.

Marshall, the McAdoo men all say, but all of them name their own choice first.

Only One Copy Carried.

One significant fact is that, while the McAdoo representative is carrying to San Francisco the original copy of the McAdoo withdrawal telegram sent to Shouser, he has scores of extra copies of the letter written by McAdoo last Saturday at Millersville, a Georgia man, saying that "I would regard it as the imperative duty of any man to accept a nomination if it should come to him unolicited."

The prospects, therefore, are that many a delegate will have his memory refreshed as to the Millersville letter who will never hear again of the Shouser telegram. There are two men whom it is very apparent the McAdoo boosters are against. One is Governor Cox of Ohio for the presidential nomination. They are also opposed to giving any more authority to the hands of Homer S. Cummings, the national chairman.

I am told by a McAdoo leader that Cummings is "reactionary" and "a designing politician."

This feeling toward the national chairman is intensified further by "Chairman Cummings having taken himself the honor of calling the convention to order and delivering the keynote address."

It is clear that if McAdoo falls his supporters intend doing everything in their power to head Cox. In turning to Marshall they see a chance to take some New York support away from the Ohioan because Marshall has considerable following in that section of the country and is not objectionable to Tammany.

Joseph P. "Boss" Murphy, assistant manager of the campaign of Governor Edwards of New Jersey, who with two or three other Edwards boosters has been on the train since this trip, could not contain himself today when the morning newspapers told of "Postmaster-General Burleson's declaration for hamstringing the Volstead prohibition enforcement act."

Edwards Man Feels Easier.

"That is what our wheel," said Mr. Fitzpatrick. "Burleson is simply endorsing the Edwards position in this campaign. This makes it easier." Bourke Cochran, Morgan J. O'Brien and other noted Tammany men on this train decline to be drawn into any discussion of candidates. All they know in that they are against McAdoo and that they are going to San Francisco to resist the threatened efforts of Franklin Roosevelt and other McAdoo men to upset the unit rule, by which several McAdoo men on the New York delegation are about to be forced to vote with the majority for Cox or some one else.

The Tammany group were pleased with the Burleson wet statement. Bourke Cochran is to be the New York member of the resolution committee which will place him where he can make a fight for an Irish plank in the platform.

Former Senator James Hamilton Lewis is keeping on good terms with the friends of all the presidential candidates. Jim Ham took keen pleasure in telling everybody in his car this morning how a Chicago minister, bitterly opposed to him, had named his vice-presidential candidacy. Lewis is an ideal candidate for vice-president," the minister was quoted as saying, "because he represents vice of all the presidents."

Another he named—Jim Ham does not do his hair up on kid curlers at night, as reported. A committee composed of Stuart G. Gibboney, Bourke Cochran and two disinterested persons was named to visit Jim Ham at his berth last night and investigate. They tried to be fair, they said in their report exonerating the former senator and Beau Brummel. He said he let them take his hair out under the light and examine it to make sure of the facts.

Throats Parched in Desert.

The Edwards party grows bolder as the train gets further into the desert and, taking advantage of the parched condition of several throats, it is not inconceivable that some delegates may be inveigled into pledging their votes to the "wet" candidate from New Jersey under the stress of terrible circumstances created by the combination of sand, coal dust and the Volstead act.

Mr. Gibboney, the McAdoo representative, got in long-distance communication with the leader of the Alabama delegation from a point along the line for the purpose of requesting the Alabamians not to press the McAdoo nomination. "What an swer did you get?" I inquired of Mr. Gibboney. "He told me to go to hell," was the reply.

BRYAN MAKING PREDICTIONS

Peace Treaty, Profiteers and Liquor Likely to Cause Trouble.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 23.—Prediction that the democratic national convention at San Francisco will witness fights over the peace treaty, the profiteer and the liquor issue is made in an article by W. J. Bryan in his newspaper, the Commoner.

After declaring that the convention fights are likely to be over these questions, Mr. Bryan says the chances are in favor of ratification of the treaty, with reservations, and against the profiteer and the saloon.

"The overwhelming opposition to the policy of ratification without reservations as shown by the vote at the primaries," he asserts, "will probably defeat any effort to make the treaty an issue in the campaign."

The article also says the democratic platform is certain to declare against universal compulsory military training; that the convention will have to deal with the subject of "private monopoly"; that the democratic party will "insist upon the toilers' right to equal treatment" and that woman suffrage will be indorsed.

Discussing possible democratic candidates for the presidency, the article declares that former Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo is handicapped as a candidate "by his close relationship with the president," while President Wilson himself, he says, "need not be considered."

Asserting that Mr. McAdoo is also handicapped by "the silence of the peace treaty," Mr. Bryan declares Mr. McAdoo is unable to call to his support those to whom the president's candidacy appealed with special force and that he would "furnish an easy mark for all of the president's enemies."

The article says, however, that Mr. McAdoo has considerable strength among wage earners.

Referring to President Wilson, Mr. Bryan says that, "while vague hints and suggestions have been thrown out occasionally, no one claiming to speak for the president or near enough to him to be assumed to express his wishes has announced his candidacy."

Herbert Hoover is eliminated from the list of candidates whom Mr. Bryan considers "available" while Senator Owen of Oklahoma and Secretary of Agriculture Meredith are described as being "undesirable." To be available this year, Mr. Bryan asserts, a candidate must be known to be for woman suffrage, for prohibition and "against Wall street."

Senator Johnson's general Palmer, Mr. Bryan says, he entered the campaign in a position "to deal sternly with the profiteer and an expectant public stood ready to applaud, but the profiteer seems to have things all his own way and the attorney-general is suffering from the reaction." He adds that the attorney-general is "unfortunate," too, in having to espouse the ratification of the treaty without reservations.

Former Speaker Clark of the house of representatives is mentioned as having his own state behind him, while opposition to Governor Edwards of New Jersey and Governor Cox of Ohio is interlarded with the Edwards type and the "bone dries."

Governor Cox's friends, the article declares, will urge him as a compromise between the Edwards type and the "bone dries."

Vice-President Marshall is accused of making "a feeble bid for the wet vote."

Judge Gerard's candidacy has South Dakota's support and he has many personal friends among other delegates," Mr. Bryan says.

DELEGATES WANT WET PLANK

Tammany Pleased at Defeat of Representative Volstead.

PARTY LEADERS SANGUINE

Every Group in Great Organization Represented in Executive Committee Just Appointed.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Senator Harding, republican presidential nominee, continued his conference with republican leaders today, discussing with them plans for his campaign and subjects with which he will deal in his speech of acceptance.

William Cooper Proctor of Cincinnati, manager for Major-General Leonard Wood in his campaign for the presidential nomination, wrote the senator promising his loyal support.

Senator Harding today received a letter from Theodore Roosevelt Jr., congratulating him on his nomination.

Republican leaders generally expressed approval today of the personnel of the executive committee which will conduct the party's presidential campaign. Twenty-one members, including seven women, will constitute the committee and the names of 20 of these were announced last night by Chairman Hays of the national committee.

The one name, said to be that of a national committeeman, was omitted because Mr. Hays had not had time to communicate with the appointee.

Leaders claimed that every group of the party is represented in the committee membership and that this amalgamation insures harmony within, and a solid front against the democratic There was no statement as to what the committee's immediate plans are, or when or where activities will be initiated.

JOHNSON TO CONTINUE WAR

Traitors to Be Held Up to Public Obloquy and Scorn.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 23.—Frank A. Harrison of Lincoln, manager for Senator Hiram Johnson's Nebraska presidential preference campaign, who recently charged that "the treachery and desertion of the delegates from instructed states broke the heart of the Johnson movement," today made public a personal note from the senator in which the latter says he wishes to take steps to "hold up to deserved public obloquy and scorn" those who he said "broke faith" at Chicago.

Senator Johnson said he was going to do this in every state where the chief of police and only a few days ago on the charge of unlawful possession of liquor. He was found guilty of both charges.

EUGENE HAS LABEL SUIT

Chief of Police Signs Charge Against L. R. Edmundson.

EUGENE, Or., June 23.—(Special.)—A complaint against L. R. Edmundson, Tammany delegate to the democratic national convention at San Francisco, breaking the monopoly of a transportation trip by a day in Los Angeles, today declared themselves in favor of the manufacture of light wines and beers and pleased at the defeat of Representative A. J. Volstead for renomination as the republican candidate from the seventh congressional district of Minnesota.

"Young man," said James J. Hagin, New York City fire commissioner and a Tammany delegate, addressing a newspaper interviewer, "the democratic platform will be concise, precise and explicit."

"There will be a wet plank in that platform—the people of the country favor a wet plank—a plank providing for the manufacture of light wines and beer."

"Yes, indeed," agreed Charles W. Cuklin, also a New York City fire commissioner and also a delegate, "the people of the United States have had enough of positive prohibition."

Mr. Cuklin and Assemblyman Louis A. Cavillier predicted the democratic convention would pledge itself to a soldiers' bonus.

Mr. Hagin predicted a plank favoring equal suffrage would be adopted in "unmistakable terms."

He declared "too much talk of a third term would result in a plank for one term of six years."

"Poor losers always discuss new parties," he said.

Members of the delegation laughed when they heard of the indictment of Charles E. Murphy, Tammany leader, by an extraordinary grand jury in New York.

"That's fine," they exclaimed. "We're used to indictments. We have them for breakfast, dinner and supper."

at the time the complaint was signed and it could not be filed.

The charge against Edmundson is the result of a dossier alleged to have been circulated on the streets by him a few days ago in which he accuses the chief of police and the two newspapers here of attacking his character. Edmundson has been arrested twice lately, once for alleged failure to move on when told to do so by the chief of police and only a few days ago on the charge of unlawful possession of liquor. He was found guilty of both charges.
