

WOOLGROWERS FIND POSITION RELIEVED

Agreement Made for Banks to Cash Drafts.

LOWER PRICES OPPOSED

Maintenance of Present Level Declared Only Method of Preventing Disaster.

The federal reserve board has provided means for financing the wool-growers of the country during the present emergency in which there is virtually no market for wool.

Warehouse receipts and bills of lading may be used as collateral for drafts drawn by the grower against his bank, for such sums as the banker and grower may agree upon. These drafts will then be discounted by the branch federal reserve banks. The paper must have a maturity of not over 90 days, and the grower is thought likely the board will ultimately extend this period to six months.

At that time the wool market will be restored, bankers and growers believe.

Announcement to this effect was made yesterday by S. W. McClure, secretary of the national woolgrowers' association, and who is recognized as the leading wool authority in America. Dr. McClure is now manager of the Cunningham Sheep and Land company of Pendleton.

Board House Delegation.

Dr. McClure was in Portland on his way back to Pendleton after attending a session in Washington last Tuesday of the S. W. McClure delegation from the national woolgrowers' association. Dr. McClure represented Oregon.

"No extraordinary difficulty will be encountered now in financing the present season's wool clip until the normal buying market shall assert itself," said Dr. McClure. "It was the firm belief of the conference that would be within a very short time. Wool buyers quit buying wool because of the future against the high cost of clothing, wool is being sold on the wool market, said he.

"Wool is now made an essential commodity. It was the unanimous opinion that the supply of clothing was below normal and the wool supply not large. It is my personal opinion that in 90 days the market will reopen again," he asserted.

"The whole disastrous condition is the result of the politicians who have been making the high cost of living their battle cry.

"Everybody who buys, wants to buy at a lower price; and everyone who sells wants to sell at the same old price.

"The chief item in the high cost of living is the high labor cost. Labor must understand that the cost of commodities should be reduced, the price paid to labor for production must likewise be reduced.

"Any effort to reduce the high cost of living will bring disaster, not only to producers, but to consumers as well. Commodities such as wool, which were produced at extraordinary cost, and if sold at lower prices it means financial disaster to the whole nation.

Price Reduction Depreciated.

"There should be no effort made to reduce prices, but the effort of the government should be to maintain the present price level.

"Unless we recognize this and the reason for the maintenance of the present price level, we shall bring complete financial disaster.

"You can't reduce the price level without bringing disaster to a number of industries and that means a panic. The only way is to recognize that the prices of the future.

"Woolgrowers are now paying bidders $100 a month and board. They are willing to pay, but are not willing to sell wool at around 60 cents a pound, but it must be clear that if we are to have wool at all prices, we must likewise go back to the days when we paid bidders $40 a month and $6 a ton for hay instead of $25.

"The price of wool has no effect on the cost of clothing. There are eight pounds of Oregon wool in an all-wool suit. That means the grower gets $4.80 for the wool in a suit of fine clothing.

"While there may be some profiteering, we must not lose sight of the fact that in the north Atlantic in the production of clothing have risen from 100 to 200 per cent. Mill hands who worked for $4 a week for an 8-hour day $52.50 a week.
