"The special value of these lectures in advertising the northwest in general and Oregon in particular." declared Mr. Riley, "lies in the fact that such a wide variety of interests were represented in the audiences, limited and lies are popular among her many lankers, women's clubs, automobile clubs, camera clubs—all were greatly pallas. The bridgeroom is a busihorthwest. Some of them didn't even know that such a country existed. Following a lecture before a camera club in New Jersey, a tour was gotten up under the auspices of the club to come out to Oregon to photograph the wonders of the Columbia high-way."
