

JOHNSON FIGHT AT BARRED

Governor Cantu Puts Halt to Fight Plans. 20-ROUND GO BLOCKED

Ex-World Champion Undecided Just Now as to Crossing Border Into United States.

TIA JUANA, Mexico, July 4.—(Special.)—Mexico has turned against Jack Johnson, ex-world's champion. His efforts to engage in a 20-round brawl with Al Norton, California heavyweight, at Tia Juana were balked yesterday when Governor Cantu, who is in Mexico, refused to sanction Johnson's appearance.

Plans Get Setback. Norton and Johnson and all of the preliminary boys were ready, but when Promoter Montgomery began to make plans for a series of short bouts to please the large crowd of fight fans that had gathered, he discovered that Mayor Romero would not give any kind of fistic engagements without orders from Governor Cantu.

Naturally the fight programme fell through, but Montgomery has hopes of staging a couple of 16-round title tomorrow.

Fugitive Jack Johnson told me today that he would have crossed the line tomorrow had Cantu allowed him to fight.

"I'm undecided now," he explained. "Some ugly reports have gone the rounds to the effect that I am due to be run out of Tia Juana. They are all wrong and I may remain here for a time just to prove that the Mexicans are harder for me."

Johnson's council by saying that he contemplated crossing the border and surrendering to government authorities within the next few days, has caused a loss of popularity at Tia Juana as the wane and the big ink spot is sick and tired of it all. He declares he is eager to take the year's fight out of the white slavery charge and have it all over.

A bull fight was the main feature at Tia Juana this afternoon. Everything moved along smoothly until one bold matador killed a bull. Defenseless and submissive bull. The crowd then gave the whole show the merry razz.

GUARDS STAGE COMEBACK

HILLSBORO NINE DEFEATED BY 4-TO-2 SCORE.

Ted Anderson Holds Losing Team to Two Scratch Hits; Hood River to Be Played Today.

The Multnomah Guard team staged a comeback yesterday against the Hillsboro Amateur Athletic club, defeating the latter on its own grounds by a score of 4 to 2. Ted Anderson, who twirled for the Guardians, was in great form, held the opposing batsmen to two scratch hits.

Captain Al Noyer pulled off some great catches in the outfield for the Guards and also came through with a double.

This afternoon the Guard team plays Hood River at Hood River. The score: R.H.E. Hillsboro, 10 3 1. Batteries—Anderson and Mattson; Gray and Baker.

The Cendora went down to defeat yesterday at the hands of the Sherwood nine by a score of 5 to 1. Manager Thomas of the Cendora had planned on using Ring on the mound but the latter ran out at the last minute, forcing the use of Huesing. Huesing pitched good ball, striking out nine men, but four errors behind him were too costly. Chick and Tom Baker of the Sherwood team have been released and were signed yesterday to play with the Cendora.

The score: R.H.E. Cendora, 1 0 3. Batteries—Ariss and Parrott; Huesing and Watts.

Kendall Station trimmed the Columbia Park team in a poorly played game at Kendall Station 18 to 2. Fred LaMear, Kendall Station twirler, pitched good ball, striking out 12 men. Several costly errors on the part of the Columbia Park team contributed to its defeat. The score: R.H.E. Kendall, 18 2 6. Batteries—LaMear and LaMear; Roberts, Padden and Padden.

Kendall Station will tangle with the league-leading Arleta team on the latter's field this afternoon at 2:30 P. M.

In a game featured by heavy hitting, the Oswego nine won from the Canemah Park field yesterday, 9 to 7. Anderson, who relieved Conway for Oswego in the second inning, pitched good ball, striking out nine men. Several costly errors on the part of the Canemah Park team contributed to its defeat. The score: R.H.E. Oswego, 9 7 3. Batteries—Conway, Anderson and Hedrick; Harper and Brown.

Home runs featured the clash between the Capitol Hill sluggers and the Sellwood nine, which was won by the former, 9 to 0. The Capitol Hill obtained one circuit club with the bases loaded while Sellwood was credited with three homers, two being made on errors.

DR. HOUSE OCCUPIES OLD PULPIT AGAIN

2 Addresses Given in First Congregational Church. "DRAMA OF FACE" IS TOPIC

Speaker Declares That the Young Person Is a Prophecy and the Old Is a History.

Dr. F. L. House, former pastor of the First Congregational church, but now a lecturer and author on "Psychology of Religion," spoke twice yesterday from his old pulpit. In the morning he gave an address on "An Available God," in which he declared that while the whole world believes in the immutability of the past, it has not come when he must be realized and must be made available today, and not in some far off age.

In the evening Dr. House gave an address on "The Drama of the Face." He said: "There is a story in every face. The face we have at 15 is the one that nature has given to us and the one we have at 50 we have made for ourselves. Every young person's face is a prophecy, every old person's face is a history. Just as we can build a mind, we can build a face. There are exceptions to the rule like Angelo, Gladstone, All Pacha, and others, but our face in general is an index of the life within."

What is sadder than the face that has lived for itself, the face that has sensuality in it? What more inspiring than the face of strength, goodness, cheerfulness in it? These things enter into face building, diet, sleep and good thinking. To eat carefully, sleep well and have noble thoughts is to build strongly.

The face will show what is within. After awhile the part acted will give way to reality, and to live uncleanly is to reveal in the face. Rembrandt, Titian and others in art and biography show the truthfulness of these things. To go into the presence of noble ideals, to see God, is to have the face illumined. Moses, Stephen, Paul, Peter, in our day illustrate our point. To live with masterpieces is to be a masterpiece in the end yourself. To have the Christ in us is to have the Master making us worthy to be with him forever."

Rev. Edward Constant Sees Prophecy Fulfilled in America. "Our National Birthday" afforded a theme for Rev. Edward Constant at Highland Congregational church. Words found in Isaiah "A little one shall become a thousand and a small one a strong nation"—supplied the text, which led Rev. Constant to say that "the historical fulfillment of the prophet found a rare fulfillment in the history of the American nation."

"The growth of the United States was absolutely without a parallel. That growth has surpassed the most sanguine dreams of the fathers of the revolution. Today we are blessed among the mighty of the earth and yet we are a nation of a few years. We are not much beyond the period of adolescence, but we have the stride and prowess of a gigantic youth. We are still in the day of promise. Men of different tongues and varying faiths have made their contributions to the growth of this nation. Providence, however, has greater things in store. This is still the land of opportunity, where men of quality can make good. "While none can predict the republic's future, we know that future will be largely determined by the people. The ideal must be lofty. Our citizenship must be sacred, never bartered nor debased. No patriotism is worth much which does not include the element of religion. He who shrinks responsibility is undeserving of his trust."

"How can we expect the government to do better than the people? They are the source of its power. Hence, the responsibility of America must be true to the fundamentals of a genuine republic, one with broad conceptions of human rights, whose laws are instinct with brotherliness—an educated, progressive democracy, amenable to the law of Almighty God."

"There are certain tendencies against which we need to be on guard. The first is the tendency to allow ourselves to be intoxicated with the thought of power and greatness. No democracy can be safe where there is anarchy, arrogance or tyranny. No legislation inimical to the people's good can be tolerated. As with the individual, so it is with a nation—real worth is found in character. A Godless nation cannot endure."

Idle Dreaming Condemned. "Vanity of Vanities" Taken as Text by Dr. Stansfield.

"Vanity of vanities," saith the preacher, "all is vanity." This was the text taken from Ecclesiastes by Dr. Joshua Stansfield, pastor of the First Methodist church, used yesterday morning for his sermon entitled "Bubbles and Dreams."

He based the address on the popular song, "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles." Because these words are a part of the Bible they have been and are thought by many people to be the very word and truth of God and they have often been cited by most orthodox and religious people as a proper estimate and appraisal of the world and the present life."

"If we only were careful to remember who first gave these words, and what a truth and lesson they might teach. Because it reads, 'The words of the preacher, I verily thought—as a boy—they were surely the words of strictest truth and right. But as the years passed, I verily thought—as a man—they were the words of a sordid, cynical misanthrope.'"

Williams Elects Adams. WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 4.—Elbridge Adams II, of this town has been elected captain of the Williams golf team for next year. He is a member of the Junior class and during the varsity team when a freshman, he has played throughout his course. Adams' work this last season was of an exceptionally high order and it helped to turn victories against Amherst and Cornell.

DR. HOUSE OCCUPIES OLD PULPIT AGAIN

2 Addresses Given in First Congregational Church. "DRAMA OF FACE" IS TOPIC

Speaker Declares That the Young Person Is a Prophecy and the Old Is a History.

Dr. F. L. House, former pastor of the First Congregational church, but now a lecturer and author on "Psychology of Religion," spoke twice yesterday from his old pulpit. In the morning he gave an address on "An Available God," in which he declared that while the whole world believes in the immutability of the past, it has not come when he must be realized and must be made available today, and not in some far off age.

In the evening Dr. House gave an address on "The Drama of the Face." He said: "There is a story in every face. The face we have at 15 is the one that nature has given to us and the one we have at 50 we have made for ourselves. Every young person's face is a prophecy, every old person's face is a history. Just as we can build a mind, we can build a face. There are exceptions to the rule like Angelo, Gladstone, All Pacha, and others, but our face in general is an index of the life within."

What is sadder than the face that has lived for itself, the face that has sensuality in it? What more inspiring than the face of strength, goodness, cheerfulness in it? These things enter into face building, diet, sleep and good thinking. To eat carefully, sleep well and have noble thoughts is to build strongly.

The face will show what is within. After awhile the part acted will give way to reality, and to live uncleanly is to reveal in the face. Rembrandt, Titian and others in art and biography show the truthfulness of these things. To go into the presence of noble ideals, to see God, is to have the face illumined. Moses, Stephen, Paul, Peter, in our day illustrate our point. To live with masterpieces is to be a masterpiece in the end yourself. To have the Christ in us is to have the Master making us worthy to be with him forever."

Rev. Edward Constant Sees Prophecy Fulfilled in America. "Our National Birthday" afforded a theme for Rev. Edward Constant at Highland Congregational church. Words found in Isaiah "A little one shall become a thousand and a small one a strong nation"—supplied the text, which led Rev. Constant to say that "the historical fulfillment of the prophet found a rare fulfillment in the history of the American nation."

"The growth of the United States was absolutely without a parallel. That growth has surpassed the most sanguine dreams of the fathers of the revolution. Today we are blessed among the mighty of the earth and yet we are a nation of a few years. We are not much beyond the period of adolescence, but we have the stride and prowess of a gigantic youth. We are still in the day of promise. Men of different tongues and varying faiths have made their contributions to the growth of this nation. Providence, however, has greater things in store. This is still the land of opportunity, where men of quality can make good. "While none can predict the republic's future, we know that future will be largely determined by the people. The ideal must be lofty. Our citizenship must be sacred, never bartered nor debased. No patriotism is worth much which does not include the element of religion. He who shrinks responsibility is undeserving of his trust."

"How can we expect the government to do better than the people? They are the source of its power. Hence, the responsibility of America must be true to the fundamentals of a genuine republic, one with broad conceptions of human rights, whose laws are instinct with brotherliness—an educated, progressive democracy, amenable to the law of Almighty God."

"There are certain tendencies against which we need to be on guard. The first is the tendency to allow ourselves to be intoxicated with the thought of power and greatness. No democracy can be safe where there is anarchy, arrogance or tyranny. No legislation inimical to the people's good can be tolerated. As with the individual, so it is with a nation—real worth is found in character. A Godless nation cannot endure."

Idle Dreaming Condemned. "Vanity of Vanities" Taken as Text by Dr. Stansfield.

"Vanity of vanities," saith the preacher, "all is vanity." This was the text taken from Ecclesiastes by Dr. Joshua Stansfield, pastor of the First Methodist church, used yesterday morning for his sermon entitled "Bubbles and Dreams."

He based the address on the popular song, "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles." Because these words are a part of the Bible they have been and are thought by many people to be the very word and truth of God and they have often been cited by most orthodox and religious people as a proper estimate and appraisal of the world and the present life."

"If we only were careful to remember who first gave these words, and what a truth and lesson they might teach. Because it reads, 'The words of the preacher, I verily thought—as a boy—they were surely the words of strictest truth and right. But as the years passed, I verily thought—as a man—they were the words of a sordid, cynical misanthrope.'"

Williams Elects Adams. WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 4.—Elbridge Adams II, of this town has been elected captain of the Williams golf team for next year. He is a member of the Junior class and during the varsity team when a freshman, he has played throughout his course. Adams' work this last season was of an exceptionally high order and it helped to turn victories against Amherst and Cornell.

DR. HOUSE OCCUPIES OLD PULPIT AGAIN

2 Addresses Given in First Congregational Church. "DRAMA OF FACE" IS TOPIC

Speaker Declares That the Young Person Is a Prophecy and the Old Is a History.

Dr. F. L. House, former pastor of the First Congregational church, but now a lecturer and author on "Psychology of Religion," spoke twice yesterday from his old pulpit. In the morning he gave an address on "An Available God," in which he declared that while the whole world believes in the immutability of the past, it has not come when he must be realized and must be made available today, and not in some far off age.

In the evening Dr. House gave an address on "The Drama of the Face." He said: "There is a story in every face. The face we have at 15 is the one that nature has given to us and the one we have at 50 we have made for ourselves. Every young person's face is a prophecy, every old person's face is a history. Just as we can build a mind, we can build a face. There are exceptions to the rule like Angelo, Gladstone, All Pacha, and others, but our face in general is an index of the life within."

What is sadder than the face that has lived for itself, the face that has sensuality in it? What more inspiring than the face of strength, goodness, cheerfulness in it? These things enter into face building, diet, sleep and good thinking. To eat carefully, sleep well and have noble thoughts is to build strongly.

The face will show what is within. After awhile the part acted will give way to reality, and to live uncleanly is to reveal in the face. Rembrandt, Titian and others in art and biography show the truthfulness of these things. To go into the presence of noble ideals, to see God, is to have the face illumined. Moses, Stephen, Paul, Peter, in our day illustrate our point. To live with masterpieces is to be a masterpiece in the end yourself. To have the Christ in us is to have the Master making us worthy to be with him forever."

Rev. Edward Constant Sees Prophecy Fulfilled in America. "Our National Birthday" afforded a theme for Rev. Edward Constant at Highland Congregational church. Words found in Isaiah "A little one shall become a thousand and a small one a strong nation"—supplied the text, which led Rev. Constant to say that "the historical fulfillment of the prophet found a rare fulfillment in the history of the American nation."

"The growth of the United States was absolutely without a parallel. That growth has surpassed the most sanguine dreams of the fathers of the revolution. Today we are blessed among the mighty of the earth and yet we are a nation of a few years. We are not much beyond the period of adolescence, but we have the stride and prowess of a gigantic youth. We are still in the day of promise. Men of different tongues and varying faiths have made their contributions to the growth of this nation. Providence, however, has greater things in store. This is still the land of opportunity, where men of quality can make good. "While none can predict the republic's future, we know that future will be largely determined by the people. The ideal must be lofty. Our citizenship must be sacred, never bartered nor debased. No patriotism is worth much which does not include the element of religion. He who shrinks responsibility is undeserving of his trust."

"How can we expect the government to do better than the people? They are the source of its power. Hence, the responsibility of America must be true to the fundamentals of a genuine republic, one with broad conceptions of human rights, whose laws are instinct with brotherliness—an educated, progressive democracy, amenable to the law of Almighty God."

"There are certain tendencies against which we need to be on guard. The first is the tendency to allow ourselves to be intoxicated with the thought of power and greatness. No democracy can be safe where there is anarchy, arrogance or tyranny. No legislation inimical to the people's good can be tolerated. As with the individual, so it is with a nation—real worth is found in character. A Godless nation cannot endure."

Idle Dreaming Condemned. "Vanity of Vanities" Taken as Text by Dr. Stansfield.

"Vanity of vanities," saith the preacher, "all is vanity." This was the text taken from Ecclesiastes by Dr. Joshua Stansfield, pastor of the First Methodist church, used yesterday morning for his sermon entitled "Bubbles and Dreams."

He based the address on the popular song, "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles." Because these words are a part of the Bible they have been and are thought by many people to be the very word and truth of God and they have often been cited by most orthodox and religious people as a proper estimate and appraisal of the world and the present life."

"If we only were careful to remember who first gave these words, and what a truth and lesson they might teach. Because it reads, 'The words of the preacher, I verily thought—as a boy—they were surely the words of strictest truth and right. But as the years passed, I verily thought—as a man—they were the words of a sordid, cynical misanthrope.'"

Williams Elects Adams. WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 4.—Elbridge Adams II, of this town has been elected captain of the Williams golf team for next year. He is a member of the Junior class and during the varsity team when a freshman, he has played throughout his course. Adams' work this last season was of an exceptionally high order and it helped to turn victories against Amherst and Cornell.

DR. HOUSE OCCUPIES OLD PULPIT AGAIN

2 Addresses Given in First Congregational Church. "DRAMA OF FACE" IS TOPIC

Speaker Declares That the Young Person Is a Prophecy and the Old Is a History.

Dr. F. L. House, former pastor of the First Congregational church, but now a lecturer and author on "Psychology of Religion," spoke twice yesterday from his old pulpit. In the morning he gave an address on "An Available God," in which he declared that while the whole world believes in the immutability of the past, it has not come when he must be realized and must be made available today, and not in some far off age.

In the evening Dr. House gave an address on "The Drama of the Face." He said: "There is a story in every face. The face we have at 15 is the one that nature has given to us and the one we have at 50 we have made for ourselves. Every young person's face is a prophecy, every old person's face is a history. Just as we can build a mind, we can build a face. There are exceptions to the rule like Angelo, Gladstone, All Pacha, and others, but our face in general is an index of the life within."

What is sadder than the face that has lived for itself, the face that has sensuality in it? What more inspiring than the face of strength, goodness, cheerfulness in it? These things enter into face building, diet, sleep and good thinking. To eat carefully, sleep well and have noble thoughts is to build strongly.

The face will show what is within. After awhile the part acted will give way to reality, and to live uncleanly is to reveal in the face. Rembrandt, Titian and others in art and biography show the truthfulness of these things. To go into the presence of noble ideals, to see God, is to have the face illumined. Moses, Stephen, Paul, Peter, in our day illustrate our point. To live with masterpieces is to be a masterpiece in the end yourself. To have the Christ in us is to have the Master making us worthy to be with him forever."

Rev. Edward Constant Sees Prophecy Fulfilled in America. "Our National Birthday" afforded a theme for Rev. Edward Constant at Highland Congregational church. Words found in Isaiah "A little one shall become a thousand and a small one a strong nation"—supplied the text, which led Rev. Constant to say that "the historical fulfillment of the prophet found a rare fulfillment in the history of the American nation."

"The growth of the United States was absolutely without a parallel. That growth has surpassed the most sanguine dreams of the fathers of the revolution. Today we are blessed among the mighty of the earth and yet we are a nation of a few years. We are not much beyond the period of adolescence, but we have the stride and prowess of a gigantic youth. We are still in the day of promise. Men of different tongues and varying faiths have made their contributions to the growth of this nation. Providence, however, has greater things in store. This is still the land of opportunity, where men of quality can make good. "While none can predict the republic's future, we know that future will be largely determined by the people. The ideal must be lofty. Our citizenship must be sacred, never bartered nor debased. No patriotism is worth much which does not include the element of religion. He who shrinks responsibility is undeserving of his trust."

"How can we expect the government to do better than the people? They are the source of its power. Hence, the responsibility of America must be true to the fundamentals of a genuine republic, one with broad conceptions of human rights, whose laws are instinct with brotherliness—an educated, progressive democracy, amenable to the law of Almighty God."

"There are certain tendencies against which we need to be on guard. The first is the tendency to allow ourselves to be intoxicated with the thought of power and greatness. No democracy can be safe where there is anarchy, arrogance or tyranny. No legislation inimical to the people's good can be tolerated. As with the individual, so it is with a nation—real worth is found in character. A Godless nation cannot endure."

Idle Dreaming Condemned. "Vanity of Vanities" Taken as Text by Dr. Stansfield.

"Vanity of vanities," saith the preacher, "all is vanity." This was the text taken from Ecclesiastes by Dr. Joshua Stansfield, pastor of the First Methodist church, used yesterday morning for his sermon entitled "Bubbles and Dreams."

He based the address on the popular song, "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles." Because these words are a part of the Bible they have been and are thought by many people to be the very word and truth of God and they have often been cited by most orthodox and religious people as a proper estimate and appraisal of the world and the present life."

"If we only were careful to remember who first gave these words, and what a truth and lesson they might teach. Because it reads, 'The words of the preacher, I verily thought—as a boy—they were surely the words of strictest truth and right. But as the years passed, I verily thought—as a man—they were the words of a sordid, cynical misanthrope.'"

Williams Elects Adams. WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 4.—Elbridge Adams II, of this town has been elected captain of the Williams golf team for next year. He is a member of the Junior class and during the varsity team when a freshman, he has played throughout his course. Adams' work this last season was of an exceptionally high order and it helped to turn victories against Amherst and Cornell.

DR. HOUSE OCCUPIES OLD PULPIT AGAIN

2 Addresses Given in First Congregational Church. "DRAMA OF FACE" IS TOPIC

Speaker Declares That the Young Person Is a Prophecy and the Old Is a History.

Dr. F. L. House, former pastor of the First Congregational church, but now a lecturer and author on "Psychology of Religion," spoke twice yesterday from his old pulpit. In the morning he gave an address on "An Available God," in which he declared that while the whole world believes in the immutability of the past, it has not come when he must be realized and must be made available today, and not in some far off age.

In the evening Dr. House gave an address on "The Drama of the Face." He said: "There is a story in every face. The face we have at 15 is the one that nature has given to us and the one we have at 50 we have made for ourselves. Every young person's face is a prophecy, every old person's face is a history. Just as we can build a mind, we can build a face. There are exceptions to the rule like Angelo, Gladstone, All Pacha, and others, but our face in general is an index of the life within."

What is sadder than the face that has lived for itself, the face that has sensuality in it? What more inspiring than the face of strength, goodness, cheerfulness in it? These things enter into face building, diet, sleep and good thinking. To eat carefully, sleep well and have noble thoughts is to build strongly.

The face will show what is within. After awhile the part acted will give way to reality, and to live uncleanly is to reveal in the face. Rembrandt, Titian and others in art and biography show the truthfulness of these things. To go into the presence of noble ideals, to see God, is to have the face illumined. Moses, Stephen, Paul, Peter, in our day illustrate our point. To live with masterpieces is to be a masterpiece in the end yourself. To have the Christ in us is to have the Master making us worthy to be with him forever."

Rev. Edward Constant Sees Prophecy Fulfilled in America. "Our National Birthday" afforded a theme for Rev. Edward Constant at Highland Congregational church. Words found in Isaiah "A little one shall become a thousand and a small one a strong nation"—supplied the text, which led Rev. Constant to say that "the historical fulfillment of the prophet found a rare fulfillment in the history of the American nation."

"The growth of the United States was absolutely without a parallel. That growth has surpassed the most sanguine dreams of the fathers of the revolution. Today we are blessed among the mighty of the earth and yet we are a nation of a few years. We are not much beyond the period of adolescence, but we have the stride and prowess of a gigantic youth. We are still in the day of promise. Men of different tongues and varying faiths have made their contributions to the growth of this nation. Providence, however, has greater things in store. This is still the land of opportunity, where men of quality can make good. "While none can predict the republic's future, we know that future will be largely determined by the people. The ideal must be lofty. Our citizenship must be sacred, never bartered nor debased. No patriotism is worth much which does not include the element of religion. He who shrinks responsibility is undeserving of his trust."

"How can we expect the government to do better than the people? They are the source of its power. Hence, the responsibility of America must be true to the fundamentals of a genuine republic, one with broad conceptions of human rights, whose laws are instinct with brotherliness—an educated, progressive democracy, amenable to the law of Almighty God."

"There are certain tendencies against which we need to be on guard. The first is the tendency to allow ourselves to be intoxicated with the thought of power and greatness. No democracy can be safe where there is anarchy, arrogance or tyranny. No legislation inimical to the people's good can be tolerated. As with the individual, so it is with a nation—real worth is found in character. A Godless nation cannot endure."

Idle Dreaming Condemned. "Vanity of Vanities" Taken as Text by Dr. Stansfield.

"Vanity of vanities," saith the preacher, "all is vanity." This was the text taken from Ecclesiastes by Dr. Joshua Stansfield, pastor of the First Methodist church, used yesterday morning for his sermon entitled "Bubbles and Dreams."

He based the address on the popular song, "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles." Because these words are a part of the Bible they have been and are thought by many people to be the very word and truth of God and they have often been cited by most orthodox and religious people as a proper estimate and appraisal of the world and the present life."

"If we only were careful to remember who first gave these words, and what a truth and lesson they might teach. Because it reads, 'The words of the preacher, I verily thought—as a boy—they were surely the words of strictest truth and right. But as the years passed, I verily thought—as a man—they were the words of a sordid, cynical misanthrope.'"

Williams Elects Adams. WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 4.—Elbridge Adams II, of this town has been elected captain of the Williams golf team for next year. He is a member of the Junior class and during the varsity team when a freshman, he has played throughout his course. Adams' work this last season was of an exceptionally high order and it helped to turn victories against Amherst and Cornell.

DR. HOUSE OCCUPIES OLD PULPIT AGAIN

2 Addresses Given in First Congregational Church. "DRAMA OF FACE" IS TOPIC

Speaker Declares That the Young Person Is a Prophecy and the Old Is a History.

Dr. F. L. House, former pastor of the First Congregational church, but now a lecturer and author on "Psychology of Religion," spoke twice yesterday from his old pulpit. In the morning he gave an address on "An Available God," in which he declared that while the whole world believes in the immutability of the past, it has not come when he must be realized and must be made available today, and not in some far off age.

In the evening Dr. House gave an address on "The Drama of the Face." He said: "There is a story in every face. The face we have at 15 is the one that nature has given to us and the one we have at 50 we have made for ourselves. Every young person's face is a prophecy, every old person's face is a history. Just as we can build a mind, we can build a face. There are exceptions to the rule like Angelo, Gladstone, All Pacha, and others, but our face in general is an index of the life within."

What is sadder than the face that has lived for itself, the face that has sensuality in it? What more inspiring than the face of strength, goodness, cheerfulness in it? These things enter into face building, diet, sleep and good thinking. To eat carefully, sleep well and have noble thoughts is to build strongly.

The face will show what is within. After awhile the part acted will give way to reality, and to live uncleanly is to reveal in the face. Rembrandt, Titian and others in art and biography show the truthfulness of these things. To go into the presence of noble ideals, to see God, is to have the face illumined. Moses, Stephen, Paul, Peter, in our day illustrate our point. To live with masterpieces is to be a masterpiece in the end yourself. To have the Christ in us is to have the Master making us worthy to be with him forever."

Rev. Edward Constant Sees Prophecy Fulfilled in America. "Our National Birthday" afforded a theme for Rev. Edward Constant at Highland Congregational church. Words found in Isaiah "A little one shall become a thousand and a small one a strong nation"—supplied the text, which led Rev. Constant to say that "the historical fulfillment of the prophet found a rare fulfillment in the history of the American nation."

"The growth of the United States was absolutely without a parallel. That growth has surpassed the most sanguine dreams of the fathers of the revolution. Today we are blessed among the mighty of the earth and yet we are a nation of a few years. We are not much beyond the period of adolescence, but we have the stride and prowess of a gigantic youth. We are still in the day of promise. Men of different tongues and varying faiths have made their contributions to the growth of this nation. Providence, however, has greater things in store. This is still the land of opportunity, where men of quality can make good. "While none can predict the republic's future, we know that future will be largely determined by the people. The ideal must be lofty. Our citizenship must be sacred, never bartered nor debased. No patriotism is worth much which does not include the element of religion. He who shrinks responsibility is undeserving of his trust."

"How can we expect the government to do better than the people? They are the source of its power. Hence, the responsibility of America must be true to the fundamentals of a genuine republic, one with broad conceptions of human rights, whose laws are instinct with brotherliness—an educated, progressive democracy, amenable to the law of Almighty God."

"There are certain tendencies against which we need to be on guard. The first is the tendency to allow ourselves to be intoxicated with the thought of power and greatness. No democracy can be safe where there is anarchy, arrogance or tyranny. No legislation inimical to the people's good can be tolerated. As with the individual, so it is with a nation—real worth is found in character. A Godless nation cannot endure."

Idle Dreaming Condemned. "Vanity of Vanities" Taken as Text by Dr. Stansfield.

"Vanity of vanities," saith the preacher, "all is vanity." This was the text taken from Ecclesiastes by Dr. Joshua Stansfield, pastor of the First Methodist church, used yesterday morning for his sermon entitled "Bubbles and Dreams."

He based the address on the popular song, "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles." Because these words are a part of the Bible they have been and are thought by many people to be the very word and truth of God and they have often been cited by most orthodox and religious people as a proper estimate and appraisal of the world and the present life."

"If we only were careful to remember who first gave these words, and what a truth and lesson they might teach. Because it reads, 'The words of the preacher, I verily thought—as a boy—they were surely the words of strictest truth and right. But as the years passed, I verily thought—as a man—they were the words of a sordid, cynical misanthrope.'"

Williams Elects Adams. WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 4.—Elbridge Adams II, of this town has been elected captain of the Williams golf team for next year. He is a member of the Junior class and during the varsity team when a freshman, he has played throughout his course. Adams' work this last season was of an exceptionally high order and it helped to turn victories against Amherst and Cornell.

DR. HOUSE OCCUPIES OLD PULPIT AGAIN

2 Addresses Given in First Congregational Church. "DRAMA OF FACE" IS TOPIC

Speaker Declares That the Young Person Is a Prophecy and the Old Is a History.