AUDITORIUM, San Francisco, July 5.—James M. Cox, governor of Ohio, was nominated for president of the United States in the democratic national convention at 1:40 o'clock this morning. The convention then adjourned until noon today.

The nomination came at the conclusion of a 44-ballot struggle in which he had steadily beaten down the forces of William G. McAdoo, ex-secretary of the treasury, and President Wilson's son-in-law.

When the balloting on the 44th vote had reached a point where Cox had 702 votes and was rapidly approaching the necessary two-thirds of 729, Sam E. Amidon of Kansas, manager of the McAdoo forces and vice-chairman of the democratic national committee, took the platform and moved that the nomination of Governor Cox be made unanimous.

Choice Made Unanimous. Immediately there was a roar from the tired and worn delegates which lasted for a full four minutes before Chairman Robinson could put the question on Amidon's motion to suspend the rules and nominate Cox by acclamation.

At 1:43 o'clock this morning the motion was formally voted over with a rolling chorus of ayes and a crashing of the brass bands.

State standards which had surged back and forth in the desperate battles of the deadlock raced to the front of the hall and to a place before the platform.

In the confusion and excitement of a nomination after the strenuous and hard sessions of the convention almost everybody forgot about a nomination for vice-president, but the leaders were figuring on a list which prominently included Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, assistant secretary of the navy. While the crowd was demonstrating its release from the deadlock the leaders arranged an adjournment until noon tomorrow to canvass the question of second place in the meantime and meet again prepared to complete the ticket.

Opposition Taken by Surprise. The Cox band wagon movement really started late yesterday afternoon before the recess for dinner. During the interval both sides of the fight made desperate appeals to Tammany. Throughout the night New York's vote stood the same, 20 for McAdoo and 70 for Cox. On the third ballot of the evening session the slide to Cox started and before the leaders of the opposition could realize it the votes were flopping over in twos and threes and fours in a fashion which sent him over the majority mark and put him at a new level.

After that the going was easy.

REED SAYS DELEGATES TRIED TO MUZZLE HIM

REFUSAL TO KEEP SILENT ON FLOOR LOST HIM HIS SEAT.

League of Nations Denounced as "League of Treason and Covenant of National Death."

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 5.—The league of nations was denounced as a "league of treason and covenant of national death," by Senator James A. Reed, who returned here today from San Francisco, where he was refused a seat as delegate to the democratic national convention.

Senator Reed, addressing a mass meeting declared that he was privately assured "by grapevine messages" while his case was being heard, that the credentials committee of the convention would seat him if he would agree to keep silent in regard to the league of nations on the convention floor. His refusal to make such an agreement was responsible for his being denied a seat, he said.

"If there is one lesson that this country is to learn," Senator Reed said, "it is that this is not a one-man country. It is a 110,000,000 men country. If you would keep this republic safe you must do your own thinking. You, the people, are the source of all power. The sooner you exercise it, the better it will be for you and for the country."

Senator Reed denounced the democratic convention at San Francisco as a convention afflicted with international blind staggers. Without direct personal reference to anyone, the senator declared there was little difference between the doctrine of the divine right of kings and the modern doctrine that a man elected to office becomes thereby a leader, and that all who differ from him are excommunicated and outcast.

Robert Lansing, ex-secretary of state, he described as the only man whom the president took to France with him who knew anything about international law "and about the only one who had ordinary common sense," and he asserted that Lansing's removal from office was the result of "his insistence upon warning the people of the true meaning of this league with treason, this covenant of national death."

EXTORTION PLOT CHARGED

Decoy Package Leads to Arrest of Illinois Farmer and Employee.

CHICAGO, July 5.—Newcomb Palmer, a young farmer of Momence, Ill., is being held at Chicago and Byron Caudwell, a former employee of Palmer, is in jail at Kankakee, Ill., charged with an attempt to extort $40,000 from Len Small, candidate for the republican nomination for governor of Illinois. Threats to kill Mr. Small and members of his family were contained in a letter now in the hands of the police, authorities declare.

The letter, the police said, instructed Mr. Small to leave the $40,000 at a designated spot on the Kankakee-Momence road last Friday night. Officers were notified, it was said, and a detail of Chicago police carrying a decoy package, followed instructions.

International Secretary Says Country Tired of Drives.

CHICAGO, July 5.—No campaigns to obtain funds for carrying on the Knights of Columbus educational program have been planned. William J. McInnes of New York, supreme secretary, said today at the closing session of the first national educational convention.

"The country is tired of drives," he said, "and the Knights of Columbus have no intention of adding to their number."

VOTE CAST FOR WOMAN

Ballot for Presidential Nomination Made by Democrat.

AUDITORIUM, San Francisco, July 5.—The first vote to be cast for a woman for the democratic presidential nomination came today from the Kentucky delegation.

Chairman Stanley cast it for Miss Laura Clay, one of the women of the delegation.

So far as convention observers could remember, it was the first vote cast for a woman in the conventions of either of the two great parties.

If Amateur Managers Had Flirted With Drys, ex-Secretary Would Have Won, Says Observer.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—(Special.)—This is what happened to McAdoo. At least this is what has happened up to date, for the exigencies of the difference in time cause this article to be written while the balloting is still on.

The McAdoo managers here were a queer come-together lot, with very little in common except devotion to McAdoo, and all of them of the second rank so far as politics are concerned. There were, first of all, several of the women who have come to the front in politics.

Women as politicians turn out to have less give and take than men, and to that extent they are handicapped. Moreover, women tend to be implacable and uncompromising. It is a question whether these women McAdoo leaders would not at all times have got as much pleasure out of the martyrdom of failure as out of the elation of success.

Supporters Lack Experience. In addition to these there were several McAdoo leaders who are politicians, but whose experience puts them distinctly in the second rank. There was Joseph Shouse, a subordinate official of the treasury; Mr. Love of Texas; Mr. Huston Thompson of Colorado, a member of the federal trade commission; Mr. Robert Woolley, a member of the interstate commerce commission.

There was George Creel, although George had to go home two days ago. All these there were, and one other—Postmaster-General Burleson. If Mr. Burleson had had charge McAdoo would have got the nomination. But

BOSSSES TO ELECT IF JOB HOLDERS TIRE

BALANCE OF POWER TO LET WILSONITES FIGHT IT OUT.

Big Three Will Get Complimentary Votes to Create Good Will; Candidate Then to Be Chosen.

By CHARLES C. HART.

Washington, D. C., Correspondent for The Oregonian. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 5.—(Special.)—Viewing the convention in the retrospect this evening during the recess it has not been a convention at all. Today's battle has been a struggle between two distinct groups of federal job holders each fighting desperately as it believes for self-preservation.

And the bosses who hold the balance of power appear to feel that it is well to let these government employees wear each other out before trying to proceed with the serious work of nominating a standard-bearer for the democratic party.

Governor Cox, the real candidate of the bosses and the wets, was given a run for his money Saturday. Those who are anxious to free the democratic party of the White House blight decided overnight to let the son-in-law have one more chance.

Vote Breaking Is Rare.

In giving him the chance today they even delivered him a few extra votes which could not have been brought to his support except under orders. Indiana's sensational break to the White House heir on the 29th ballot was only a part of the programme whereby the good feeling of the federal group behind McAdoo was to be cultivated and made to feel in the end that all had been fair.

When Boss Taggart suddenly threw 22 of his 30 votes to McAdoo on the 29th ballot the word was passed around that it was only a flirtation. "The deal was made last night," explained a democrat from Indianapolis. He said that Taggart would give McAdoo 29 votes for several ballots and if this failed to bring other substantial support to the son-in-law standard, the votes would be returned to Cox who had been receiving the entire Hoosier vote for several ballots.

Job Promised Ralston Report. The Indianapolis man volunteered another piece of interesting information which was to the effect that McAdoo's nomination by the aid of Indiana and his election meant a place in the cabinet for former Governor Samuel Ralston. He said this was the chief consideration in the deal closed between Taggart and the McAdoo managers last night.

This story sounds fishy, however, because it is doubted that Taggart, experienced politician that he is, would accept the assurance of anyone representing McAdoo in San Francisco at this time.

Son-in-law McAdoo reaching his peak of 421 votes on the 32d and 33d ballots began to decline just at the rate he had made his last gains, and Palmer was taken up, according to the schedule to permit the other

CROWD SEES M'ADOO AND DEMANDS SPEECH

PATRIOTIC TALK GIVEN, BUT POLITICS IS AVOIDED.

Spirit of Liberty Should Be Fanned in Every American Heart, Says Speaker.

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., July 5.—William G. McAdoo, around whose standard several hundred delegates to the Democratic national convention have rallied, today delivered his first public utterance since the convention began at San Francisco, yielding to the demand of 800 Huntington villagers assembled for the Independence day exercises.

Speaking extemporaneously, he took as his theme patriotism and devotion to the vision of liberty held by the revolutionary fathers. Mr. McAdoo attended the exercises as a spectator, but was discovered and called upon for a speech, and at last he yielded. He made no reference to contemporary politics.

"We are here today because a small group of patriots met together and had the vision to conceive a great idea and the courage to carry it out," he said.

"No progress has ever been achieved without vision, courage and performance. What we achieved for liberty has always been a flaming torch for the world."

He turned toward a group of civil war veterans seated on the platform and continued:

"These men responded to the call to vindicate liberty and as a result organized a great union strong enough to vindicate democracy and destroy autocracy when the call came."

"The men who died in Flanders gave their lives for a similar purpose, for their vision of preserving liberty, and we must not fail to dedicate ourselves to their vision."

"When I look about and see the suffering abroad, not only among our allies, but among our late enemies, it is enough to wring the heart of humanity."

"We must draw from this a lesson on the necessity of having vision and courage. There is no progress standing still."

Referring to the place where the revolutionary hero, Nathan Hale, was captured by the British, he said:

"Huntington is a place particularly fit for dedicating ourselves to this vision. We drink again here the spirit of Nathan Hale, immortalized in the greatest utterance I know of: 'I only regret that I have but one life to give for my country.' This is a spirit every American citizen should cultivate."

NEIGHBORS GREET HARDING AT HOME

Marion, Ohio, Welcome Touches Nominee.

LOYALTY IS APPRECIATED

Ideals of Government Are Pointed Out in Address.

TRIBUTES ARE RECALLED

Government Declared to Consist Only of Normal Men, Not of Supermen as Some Think.

MARION, O., July 5.—It was as "dear friends and neighbors" that Senator Warren G. Harding, the republican presidential candidate, spoke to the thousands of Marion and other Ohio citizens who today gathered about his home to welcome his return.

In response to a welcome address by D. R. Crisinger, president of the Marion Civic association, he told them frankly that he liked their rejoicing "over a more than usual tribute to a fellow townsman."

"If it is becoming to us to understand that any preference shown me was wholly and invariably due to that consideration which I have willingly shown to others and to an inherited conviction that it is a waste of God's rich endowments to assail and destroy when all the flowers of life bloom best in the soil of sympathy and encouragement," he said.

Democracy's Spirit Predicted.

If the admonition of Mr. Crisinger, himself a democrat, comes true, Senator Harding will ride the democratic mule into the White House next November.

"I admonish you, my fellow citizens," he said, "that he will ride the democratic mule into the White House in November as president of the United States."

LONDON SENDS SWORD TO GENERAL PERSHING

BRITAIN REMEMBERS FRIENDS SAYS SIR AUCKLAND.

American Commander Accepts Belated Gift in Name of Men of America.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Great Britain does not forget those who prove themselves its friends in the hour of need, Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States, told General Pershing today in presenting him a belated sword as a gift of the city of London. The presentation was made at the British embassy before a distinguished company.

Commenting on the celebration today of America's independence, "Wring from an autocratic government by the spirit of individual freedom again in many lands," Sir Auckland recalled in those days "there were many on both sides of the Atlantic who thought the action of the framers of your constitution right."

"There is none now, I believe, on either side of the Atlantic," he said, "who does not think they were right. Though neither you nor we are all of English stock, the memories of Runnymede are a possession of all your people as they are a living memory and possession of all the British people."
