(Special.)—Salt Lake won both games of the final round-up with the Beavers this afternoon, 7 to 4 and 6 to 3. The Bees again outclassed the visitors, although they did not show such marked superiority as they did Saturday. It has become increasingly apparent this week that McCredie apparent this week that McCredie most of all needs a catcher. He also needs some hitting strength toward the bottom of the batting order. The Portland pitchers can with truth be said to have rendered a good account of themselves here last week, but, except in rare instances, they were not well supported at the bat, or rather, the batsmen did not fashion their hits so as to turn them into runs, Another striking example of this was offered in the second game might have come together.

The Bees practically won the first game in the first and second innings when, aided by some breaks in their favor, they scored twice in each case.

The Beavers rallied on Levereuz in the sixth shouting over three carried. The Beavers rallied on Levereuz in their sixth, shootling over three earned runs, two of them due to Schaller's home run. The Bees scored once in the sixth, seventh and eighth while the Benvers made their fourth in the seventh.
