

LOOP ROAD PROBLEM TO COME UP TODAY

Commission May Pick One of Five Proposed Routes.

EACH HAS ITS ADVOCATES

Course Through Kelso and Bull Run Urged by Commissioner Mann Is Favored by Many.

Letters, personal visits and telephone calls received by Chairman S. Benson of the state highway commission indicate that the most important matter to come before the commission at its meeting today will be the Mount Hood loop road. Delegations from Clackamas county will attend and city commissioner also will be present.

There are five tentative routes for a section of the loop between Graham and Zig Zag and each has its own advocates. One route is via Estacada, another by way of Damascus, a third by the bluff road, a fourth by way of Kelso and the fifth is the Bull Run route, which City Commissioner Mann is advocating.

Mr. Benson says he favors the shortest and cheapest route and intimates that this may be the Kelso route, which goes through the woods. The Clackamas people generally appear to favor a south route. Letters of protest have been received by the commission vigorously opposing the Bull Run location, but Mr. Mann said yesterday that he would have figures to submit to the highway commission today demonstrating that his proposed route is the shortest and cheapest.

County Money Available.

Clackamas county has $25,000 to spend on the road, providing that it goes through Sandy. Multnomah county has $35,000 to spend on such a route as the commission may designate, and the state will have to pay whatever additional is required. Considerable work now is being done on the Zig Zag section, which carries the loop beyond the government camp, and the highway commission's problem is to select a route to connect Graham with Zig Zag. The government expects to let a contract this year for another section of the loop on the Hood River county side of the mountain, and Hood River county may let a contract to connect with this proposed government contract.

Citizens of Sandy and vicinity are making a vigorous fight against selection of the route. A meeting and protest meeting was held recently at Sandy and a statement, signed by Mrs. J. M. C. Miller, E. Coakman and E. E. Reason, forwarded to the Oregonian, is in part as follows:

"An article in one of the Portland daily papers in which the meeting stated that the city council had endorsed the proposed route on the north side of the Sandy river via Bull Run and Marmot to Mount Hood. Much surprise was caused by this bit of information, as the commercial, industrial and social relations of the district lying between the Sandy and Clackamas rivers and those of the city of Portland are much in common. Hundreds of thousands of dollars of business is carried on between the interests of the city of Portland and individuals and business men living in the northeast portion of Clackamas county.

Trade Now Handicapped.

"This volume of trade could be doubled, or tripled by a system of development the chief factor of which is transportation. At present we find our operations curtailed and our efforts handicapped by a lack of transportation. We had builded great faith upon early relief from these handicaps by construction of the Mount Hood loop road through our territory as outlined by the highway engineers in a recent survey.

"Feeling that the business men of Portland who have been our associates and supporters in the past could hardly sanction such an action. We, as a body of citizens, petition the business men of the city of Portland immediately to investigate this matter and use their influence more closely to cement our social and business relations and help us to contribute to the mutual advantage which will result as a consequence of our future development and prosperity."

Bids have been called for today for grading 14 miles of the Eugene-Florence highway on the "low" pass route. It is possible, if the contract is awarded today, that the commission may stipulate that only Lane county money will be used in the work for this year and that no state money will be appropriated for the project before 1921. It is also possible that the question of the "low" pass route, which has been a matter of controversy in the commission for two years, may be submitted to the attorney-general for an opinion as to certain legal phases.

Governor Back at Salem.

SALEM, Or., July 19.—(Special.)—Governor and Mrs. O'Connell returned here today from Camp Lewis, where they were the guests of military officers in charge of the annual encampment of the Oregon national guard.

MAKING PICTURE NEWS

Moment from "The Garter Girl," a photoplay showing this week at the Rivoli theater. Adapted from a short story of the same name by the famous O'Henry.

TODAY'S FILM FEATURES. Majestic—Miriam Cooper, "The Deep Purple." Columbia—William S. Hart, "Sandy." Peoples—Emma Dunn, "Old Lady 21." Liberty—Katherine Macdonald, "Playthings of Passion." Star—Tom Mix, "Desert Love." Rivoli—O'Henry's "The Garter Girl." Circle—Julian Eltinge, "An Adventure."

There's wee bit of true and straight-from-the-shoulder philosophy wrapped up in the chorus girl scenes and the love affairs of "The Garter Girl," the photoplay this week at the Rivoli theater. Its quiet and whimsical presentation of the underlying thought is not surprising when one remembers that the production is from one of O'Henry's stories. The fire and dramatic intensity of the "Robbers" feature is wonderfully presented by the Rivoli orchestra under the direction of Mischa Guterston. It is one of the concert selections which is being played during the afternoon and evening programmes. Hubert Graff, harpist of the Rivoli orchestra, is playing a solo this week, which is being well received. Pierrine's "Serenade," introduced by the orchestra at the initial opening of the Rivoli, was again repeated as a special request number yesterday.

The "Garter Girl" is a back-stage story. Its heroine is the headline number in a vaudeville house who sings, far out over the heads of the audience and throws down a jeweled silk garter. Each night she watches the men in the theater scramble for the trophy, and each night her soul becomes more weary with the sight. But the garter seems to have entered her very life, and O'Henry's story tells how it overtakes her. Corinne Griffith has the leading role. A Christie comedy, "Topic of the Day," a scenic, and a news reel complete the programme.

Screen Gossip.

California policemen are still unwise to the ways of the movies—and they spoiled a perfectly good scene in the making for "Tip in Mary's Attic," the comedy-drama sensation. Harry Gribbon, who plays the leading male role, was being "induced" by means of inducement was a blue steel automatic pressed gently against the spine, but still the hero failed to make any great haste. The argument for the trophy, and each night where a few passersby could interfere with the process of taking the picture. And then around the corner came a policeman—not a comedy cop—but a regular policeman. He started for the camera "blushed becomingly" and backed off around the corner. However, one of the bad men was supposed to hit Harry over the head

NEW NEWS

PORTLAND'S choicest roses adorned the home of Mrs. Cyrus A. Dolph yesterday, and Portland's smart set assembled to pay tribute to Mrs. Dolph's daughter, Mrs. Edward W. Clark III, who is visiting here with her husband at the Dolph residence in West Park street. Tea was served and the concert menu was chosen from 4 to 6 o'clock with Mrs. Dolph, Mrs. Frederick Pratt of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Clark receiving. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett, Mrs. William D. Wheelwright, Mrs. J. B. Montgomery, Mrs. J. N. East and Miss Henriette E. Felling. The stately, handsome rooms, with their dignified simplicity brightened here and there with clusters of flowers formed an ideal setting for the gathering which brought together many representatives of the old established families of the city, who are among Mrs. Dolph's friends. A number of social gatherings have been given during the past few days for the Clarks, who are here from Philadelphia after an absence of nearly two years.

Mrs. Clifford Dabney of Alberta, Canada, was complimented by Miss Doris Dabney, who was hostess on Friday at a tea at which several young matrons and maids were entertained.

Miss Joann Hogshire returned at 11 a.m. Sunday in honor of Lucille Heston, who has just returned from the Chi Omega convention at Whittle Springs, Tenn., where she was delegate for the Portland chapter of the Oregon Agricultural college. Miss Heston formally presented the convention cheer which was awarded to the Oregon Agricultural college girls. This cup is given every other year to the chapter making the highest scholarship during the most social service work and living up to the fraternity ideals in the best manner. The Portland members of Eta Alpha are Mrs. William D. Wheelwright, Mrs. Thomas Van Orsdal, Mrs. Edwin Wright, Misses Kate and Jean Kelly, Bees Walsh, Mary Appleby, Edna Hol-of Boise Idaho; Gertrude Littlejohn and Charlotte Nelson of Corvallis.

Miss Helen Platt and Harrison Grey Platt Jr. have returned from two years at Honolulu. Harrison Platt was graduated this June from Punahou, the famous old school founded by the missionaries in 1841, and will enter Stanford this fall.

An attractive party for the younger set will be a tea which Miss Virginia Mears will preside today in honor of Miss Elizabeth Shepard of Orange, N. J. Miss Jean Skeene and Miss Jeanette Sewell will assist the hostess. About 40 young girls will attend.

Mrs. F. C. Knapp and Miss Florence Knapp will be hostesses Thursday at a tea honoring Mrs. Addison Knapp (Margaret Marvin), who was a recent bride. Mrs. E. L. Marvin will assist in the social work. Their sister, Mrs. of Michigan, who is visiting Miss Florence Knapp, also will be a member of the receiving party.

Miss Gertrude Greathouse left Saturday for southern California. She will visit in Los Angeles and Pasadena. Miss Nina Greathouse has been this summer in Berkeley doing special dramatic work. Dorothy Bingham, was at Seaside for a fortnight or more and is now at home at the family residence on Wilmette Heights.

An automobile party composed of the Misses Beale I. Davis, Myrtle Joyner, Marie Welch and Guy O. Davis and Miss Irene Dale, returned last Friday evening from two weeks' tour of the northwest. They visited relatives and friends in Seattle and Vancouver, B. C. and returned home along the way.

Dr. T. Sydney Smith of San Francisco spent Saturday in the city as the guest of Dr. M. M. Bettman. Dr. Smith is on his way to Boston.

Dr. and Mrs. James W. Rosenfeld (Gladys Lang) are being felicitated upon the arrival of son, born Wednesday, July 14. The baby will be named John Lang Rosenfeld.

The Illinois society will hold its annual basket picnic at the Oaks this evening. Those who attend will take baskets of sandwiches and cakes and cups for coffee, which the society will serve.

Mrs. Donald Jessup was hostess on Friday at a card party in honor of her sister, Mrs. E. D. Grotty of Seattle, who is in Portland as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Jessup. Miss Gladys Gardner assisted Mrs. Jessup in receiving. The rooms were decorated with Cecil Brunner roses. Mrs. Gentry has many honors that have been planned for her. This week she was guest at a luncheon for which Mrs. James Riley entertained.

Anita Stewart has returned from a brief vacation since finishing her "Harriet and the Piper," and under the direction of John Stahl is beginning a strenuous season on Sidney Grunda's celebrated success, "Sowing the Wind," which has probably made more stage stars than any play yet produced.

Carter de Haven begins his first National career with the filming this week of the first scenes of Margaret May's great comedy success, "Twin Beds." Assisting Mr. De Haven in the film will be Flora De Haven and Will Desmond. Lloyd Ingraham will direct.

Mildred Harris Chaplin has returned from her jaunt to San Francisco and this week started work on "Habit of the pen" by Tom Barry. Edwin Carew is directing, and the supporting cast includes William Lawrence, Walter Macdonald, Ethel Grey Perry and Emmett King.

Having finished "The Jack-Knife Man," from the pen of Ellis Parker Butler, King Vidor has been busily engaged in moving into his recently completed, Victor studio, and expects to be able to start work on a new production within a fortnight. It is a gripping newspaper news story in Los Angeles, being an exact replica of a New England village.

Marshall Neilan has completed his third production for First National, which has been entitled "Go and Get It." It is a gripping newspaper news story and the cast is an excellent one, including such well-known names as Agnes Ayres, Pat O'Malley, Walter Long, Bud Montana, J. Barney Sherry and Noah Berry. The fourth story featuring Little Westley Barry, who made such a tremendous hit in "Don't Ever Marry," will be known as "Dinty." It is being directed by Jack McDermott, under the supervision of Mr. Neilan, and the cast includes Colleen Moore, Marjorie Day and Pat O'Malley.

Charlie Chaplin is putting the finishing touches to his multiple-reel comedy, "The Kid," which has been several months in the making. The exact nature of the production is being kept a secret by the Chaplin executives.

DR. ROBERG 'INSISTS' CITY NAME DOCTOR

Letter to Mayor Asks Action on The Cedars Physician.

MR. MANN MAKES REPLY

Commissioner Points Out That Effort Is Being Made to Get Successor to Dr. Murphy.

In a letter addressed to Mayor Baker yesterday, Dr. David N. Roberg, state health officer, insists that a competent medical supervisor be installed in charge of the city's detention home. At a late hour last night Mayor Baker had not received the letter and so did not undertake to answer it.

However, City Commissioner Mann, who is in charge of the Cedars, stated a few things said to be well known to Dr. Roberg, but which were not recognized by the state health officer in his letter.

Physician Stays on Job. According to Commissioner Mann, notification of the withdrawal of a medical supervisor from the Cedars by the state was made because of the exhaustion of a fund turned over to the state board by the government for the fighting of social diseases in Portland. Simultaneously with this withdrawal of state and governmental aid, Dr. J. M. Murphy, who had been detailed to the Cedars by the state board of health, resigned.

However, after resigning all affiliation with the state board of health, according to Commissioner Mann, Dr. Murphy volunteered to remain at the Cedars until Commissioner Mann could obtain an appropriation from the city council. City health officer Parrish was notified of the change of medical administration and instructed by Commissioner Mann to assume authority for the medical supervision. Commissioner Mann explained that it was impossible for the city to assume such supervision as long as the state board of health furnished the medical attendant.

Action Declared Under Way. The letter reported to have been written by Dr. Roberg to Mayor Baker seems to indicate that it is necessary for him to insist that we should remain with the city until we could arrange for the appointment of a permanent physician.

It might be added that Dr. Murphy was offered the position by Dr. Parrish, but the offer was declined because of plans already made by Dr. Murphy. Demand Made For Doctor. The letter which Dr. Roberg gave out as a copy of one which he had forwarded to the mayor is as follows: We agree with you that the Cedars maintains a very high standard of efficiency, and we call your attention to the fact that the treatment of persons isolated and quarantined there has been carried out by a physician of the highest ability, who has been treating these patients, and resigned and the government has instructed us to discontinue the practice of furnishing a treatment officer at this hospital. Dr. Louis S. Wolf, who is the present venereal disease control officer, cannot

HOOD RIVER, Or., July 19.—(Special.)—No complaint is heard from Hood River county citizens over census returns on Hood River city and county. While the city is shown to have increased more than 1000 in ten years, the county increase has been but little more than 100. This is explained by the fact that scores of orientals' families in the past five years have removed from the valley to the city. Many fruitgrowers, too, have purchased city homes for winter occupation and were city residents at the time the census was taken.
