

DAN McALLEN DEAD; BUT FEW DAYS

Father of Lewis and Clark Exposition Succumbs.

FUNERAL NOT ARRANGED

Widow and Four Sons, Two of Whom Are in Alaska and Two in Portland, Survive.

Dan McAllen, for years a prominent merchant of Portland, known as the father of the Lewis & Clark exposition, died yesterday in the St. Vincent's hospital.

Although few of the thousands of persons who attended the 1905 exposition in Portland knew or heard of Dan McAllen, it was through his efforts, launched in the early 90s that finally concluded with the staining of this successful venture in commemoration of the visit of the two explorers.

When Mr. McAllen first began talking of the affair, Portland was in the throes of financial depression and few people would give the suggestion serious thought.

Mr. McAllen was an active member of the firm of McAllen & McDonnell for 25 years. About ten years ago both Mr. McAllen and Mr. McDonnell retired from business after disposing of their interests.

It was about 10 years ago that Mr. McAllen landed in New York, an immigrant from Ireland. For several years he worked in New York, serving as a clerk in several of the large goods houses.

Widow and Four Sons Survive. Although always an active man in civic enterprises in Portland, Mr. McAllen was affiliated with no clubs or organizations.

Mr. McAllen was born in Bella, Ireland, August 1, 1850, being almost 70 years old at the time of his death. He is survived by his widow and four sons, Lavelle, Kennicott, Alaska, Mark, Cordova, Alaska; William and Eddie, both of Portland.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed, although the services probably will be held tomorrow.

The only thing that can avert an attempt by a large group of delegates to stampede the convention for Bryan and name him by acclamation is for the Nebraska delegates to insist that he positively will not accept the nomination, according to many state leaders here and confidentially informed that the Nebraska did not want the nomination.

Secret Conferences Held. The decision to attempt to force the nomination on Mr. Bryan was made late today after several secret conferences of national committeemen, delegates and friends of Mr. Bryan here.

Why heels wear down like this

This condition is not due to slovenliness. It is caused by a distortion of the outer longitudinal arch and a misalignment of the heel bone.

The frame thus becomes unbalanced, causing strain which may affect the foot, calf, knee, hip and spine.

This condition can be completely overcome by counterbalancing the foot and supporting the dislocated bones in normal position by means of the Wizard Lightfoot Adjustable Arch Builders and Heel Levelers.

Beneath these all-leather Arch Builders and Heel Levelers are overlapping pockets, so located that inserts of any desired thickness can be placed in exactly the right spot to support the dislocated bones in normal position.

Being all leather, Wizard Lightfoot Adjustable Arch Builders and Heel Levelers are light, flexible and are worn without one being conscious of them.

Wizard Lightfoot Arch Builders and Heel Levelers are sold by leading dealers everywhere. Usually where they are sold there is an expert who has made a study of fitting them.

If there is no such dealer near you, write the Wizard Lightfoot Appliance Company, 1627 Locust Street, St. Louis, Mo., or 925 Marbridge Bldg., New York City. Ask for "Orthopraxy of the Foot"—a simple treatise on foot troubles. No charge.
