

SUPPORTERS' NAMES WITHHELD BY EDDY

Douglas County Man Inaugurates Advertising Campaign.

NO STAR SESSIONS HELD

Legislators From Various Oregon Counties Gather and Hold Many Conferences.

E. L. Eddy, state senator from Douglas county, has been in Portland for two days giving attention to his candidacy for president of the senate.

For reasons best known and sufficient to themselves, explained Senator Eddy yesterday, "some of my supporters prefer that I do not make their names public at this time."

A drive for Eddy has been going on aggressively for several weeks. Louis Lachmund, senator from Marion county, who declared himself a candidate, has since proclaimed his undying allegiance to the Douglas senator.

Before coming to Portland, Senator Eddy resorted to the mails and launched an advertising campaign. He wrote various members of the senate that he would like to discuss with them his candidacy.

Whether any of these senators, who mingled with some of the Multnomah senatorial contingent, went into executive session with Eddy and Lachmund is not known.

Anyway, Upton and Nickelsen are from eastern Oregon and are supposed to stand with the rest of the eastern Oregon crowd whichever way it may swing.

W. W. Banks of Multnomah, who is also a tentative candidate for president, met some of the visitors. Roy W. Ritter, another active aspirant for president, is busy with his wheat crop in Umatilla county, and harvesting the crop is more important than playing politics just at this stage of the game, he thinks.

Charles Thomas, a friend of Senator Lachmund, has been keenly interested in himself in the matter. He has written letters to senators asking that they enter the Eddy camp. The policy adopted by Thomas and Lachmund in the 1915 and 1920 sessions was such that a number of the hold-over senators do not want to "play ball" with them.

Legislators in City. Nor were all the politicians in town members of the senate. There was a sprinkling of members of the House of Representatives.

Representative Burdick, Representative Ballagh of Columbia and A. Smith of Baker and E. W. Haines of Washington were all here, although Ballagh, Smith and Haines will not have seats in the 1921 session.

Mr. Looney, discussing the speakership, says that the Marion county delegation does not want this position, notwithstanding that the name of Thomas Kay has been mentioned. Mr. Looney declares that Marion county had the speakership in the last regular and special sessions and is not entitled to it again so soon.

He argues that the Marion delegation, with men like Kay and Frank Davey, will have a couple of capable leaders and will be in a better position to make a showing in 1921 than for several years past.

The house appears to be nearer organized than the senate. Eddy, E. B. Bean of Lane county has a large number of pledges and also has at least two-thirds of the Multnomah county delegation rallying around his banner.

This frontage was formerly the property of Mr. O'Connell, but through the oversight he allowed the taxes to become delinquent. It was repurchased by him for $15,000, which is the amount the county had invested in it, including interest to the date of sale.
