

ATHLETES OF COAST STANDING UP WELL

Tuck Alone of Sextet Suffering Injury.

BARTLETT MAKING GAINS

Discus Thrower Loses 12 Pounds Because of Heat at Boston but is Recovering.

BY BILL HAYWARD.

(University of Oregon trainer and coach of the American Olympic team.)

NEW YORK, July 29.—Special correspondence.—The Oregonian aboard stamer Princess Matoka.

Tuck's knee, which was injured early in the season, does not mend as rapidly as might be expected.

Bartlett Seems Well.

Kenneth Bartlett, University of Oregon discus thrower, is getting along nicely and has completely recovered from the effects of the heat in Boston.

Gun Pope, University of Washington rival of Bartlett, is doing better than ever and there is little doubt but what he and Bartlett will lead the American discus flickers at Antwerp.

I feel confident that Eldon Jenne, of the Washington State college pole vaulter, will win as he is in the best of condition and has fully recovered from the effects of the weather in the east.

Leon L. Perrine of the University of Idaho, who is entered in the Pentathlon, is in for some hard competition all through, but should be able to land at least a third place.

Murphy is Confident.

Johnny Murphy, Multnomah Amateur Athletic club high jumper, whose performance at final tryouts at Boston marks him as the best in the United States, states that he is now on his way to the world's championship title.

Norman Ross, Portland swimmer, and Thelma Payne and Louis Kuehn, Multnomah Amateur Athletic club divers, are also with us.

Jack Moackley, Cornell university coach, who is head trainer of the American team, thinks wonderfully well of the northwest athletes, and states he was surprised at the way they performed in the final tryouts.

One noticeable thing about the American athletes is their youth. Man for man, they are much younger than the athletes who represented the United States in the Olympiad at Stockholm in 1912, but youth will be served, and we should win by a handsome margin.

Portland annexed the third game of the Beaver-Seals series on the Vaughn-street grounds yesterday when the Mackmen came up from behind with a sensational rally in the ninth with San Francisco holding a 2-to-1 lead.

There were four Beavers that emerged as heroes from the battle. Biff Schaller began the ninth inning with a home run high and dry over the right-field fence.

"Suds" Sutherland was Walter McCredie's choice for mound duty yesterday and allowed eight hits, but kept them well scattered and was not in any particular danger throughout the game.

Johnny Couch, who twirled for the Seals, pitched superb ball up to the eighth inning, when he began to weaken, and finally cracked in the ninth frame.

A hit, a walk, a partially successful double steal and an error contributed to the Seals' victory in the fourth inning.

ASTORIA IS FIGHT CAPITAL OF STATE

Double Main Event Carded for Tonight's Bill.

LEGION WILL SEE BOUTS

Bronson to Meet Shannon While Willis Battles Murphy as Ten-Round Headliners.

BY DICK SHARP.

Portland boxing fans who feel that they ought to attend fistic encounters all the year round and are unable to satisfy their desire as the result of the fight in Portland and Milwaukie, are still able to keep alive if they care to journey afar.

The recent bout in Salem during the Elks' convention was productive of plenty of action and tonight another banner card will hold the attention of the boxing fans in Astoria, which is one of the features of the state convention of the American Legion, now on there.

A double main event has been arranged for the occasion, each a battle of ten rounds' duration.

Both of these bouts seem evenly matched affairs, although Shannon is the classiest lightweight that has fought around here in some time.

Earl Baird, Seattle featherweight, who fought a 16-round draw with Joe Gorman in Salem recently, will make the get-away on the 8:30 rattler this morning.

Ridley Earns Laurels.

Fred Winsor's "Little Dempsey" has been bringing along at a sensational pace in the past two weeks.

"Babe" Herman, a young Sacramento bantamweight, who is very well spoken of in the south, is a Portland visitor and is working out at the Olympic gymnasium.

The proposed fight between Harry Schuman and Johnny Sheppard in Denver tonight may and may not be on. The bout was announced as on several weeks ago but nothing has cropped up since then.

It seems that Floyd Fitzsimmons, the Benton Harbor, Mich., promoter, look time by the forelock when he announced that he has signed Jack Dempsey to meet Billy Miske in his arena labor day. He is now reported on his way east to sign Jack.

ANGLER'S SCORE IS HIGH

Surprise Is Sprung by Fred Todd, Novice Caster, Who Places Second in Dry Fly Accuracy.

Walter F. Backus, president of the Multnomah Angler's club, made two exceptionally good scores in the weekly tournament of the club held Wednesday night at the Sellwood pool.

Honors in the dry fly accuracy contest also went to Backus, who scored 99-12-15 per cent.

Walter Coley, who scored 99-12-15 per cent, was second in the one-quarter ounce distance bait.

COLUMBUS, O., July 29.—The first defeat of the year for Peter Coley, Valentine's stake trotter, was accomplished in today's grand circuit meet.
