A FEW DISCREPANCES.

It is difficult to write in moderate terms of the scheme of democratic propaganda on suffrage. Twenty-nine republican states have ratified and six democratic, leaving the total one short of the necessary thirty-six. Presedom of speech has become a brushing to say that the republican states purposely withholding the audacity to say that the republican party is purposely withholding the representations. There are two or three republican states which have rejected suffrage, or have not acted, and half a dozen or more democratic and half a dozen or more democratic states. Yet if all the remaining thirten were republican, how is it possible to dispute the record, so redit. it was the young men, in the very prime of physical life, who suffered most. Merely to say that a change must have taken place in the infecting organism, which students regard as obvious, is to throw no new light on causation. The theory that an entirely new organism was to blame, and that the later stages of the epidemic were in reality a separate plague, however, is rejected by scien-cific men on the basis of the evi-
