Maggert and Borton Are Put Out of Game.

GAMBLING RING EXPOSED

Frameup to Throw Games Shown in South.

"SURE THING" BETS AIM

Baum, Stroud, Salt Lake Pitchers, Refuse Bribe and Cash Deal Is Alleged.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 3.—Hal Chase, former Pacific Coast and major-league baseball player, today was barred by W. H. McCarthy, San Francisco, president of the Pacific Coast league, from all the parks of the league. Hal Maggert, outfielder of the Salt Lake club, at the same time was relegated to non-league status by W. H. Lane, president of the Salt Lake club. The action of the executives, it was announced, followed investigation of charges of gambling on the games. "Babe" Borton, pitcher of the Vernon club of the Coast league, was indefinitely suspended by President McCarthy as a result of the investigation which preceded the release of Maggert.

See Pitcher Refuses Bribe.

President McCarthy, in a statement, said Chase last week at Los Angeles approached Charles A. Baum, Salt Lake pitcher, with a "proposition to make some easy money." Chase told Baum, the president said, that he had some friends who were willing to bet large sums of money on the games "provided that they had the edge," McCarthy declared Baum, "to his credit, indignantly refused."

Maggert was released in a statement by President Lane said, "because suspicious have been aroused and I cannot, in justice to myself or the Salt Lake club, permit him to continue with the club." This statement added that last week at Los Angeles "Babe" Borton, Vernon pitcher, offered Ralph Stroud, Salt Lake pitcher, $300 to "throw a game." Stroud refused the offer.

$300 Paid to Throw Game.

"Immediately after the offer was made," Lane said, "Borton left the hotel at Los Angeles with Maggert and paid him at some Los Angeles bank the sum of $300, which Maggert admitted he received, but which he claimed was a gambling debt incurred a year here."

President McCarthy's statement follows:

"I have this day notified all clubs of the Pacific coast league that admission to our parks shall hereafter be refused Hal Chase. If reports are true, Chase has done more to discredit baseball than any single individual. It was hoped that his activities would be ended with his elimination from the major leagues and would not extend further."

Betting Ring Exposed.

"Last week, at Los Angeles, however, Chase, so it has been reported to me, approached Pitcher Charles A. Baum of the Salt Lake club with a proposition to make some easy money. I have this in a signed statement from Baum. Chase went on to explain that he had some friends who were willing to bet large sums of money on ball games, provided they had 'the edge.' Baum, to his credit, indignantly refused."

Clean Baseball Wanted.

"The task of keeping baseball clean is not the easy one I had hoped. Today's developments prove it. But I am determined and my directors are determined that, no matter what the sacrifice, baseball on the Pacific coast is going to be clean and above suspicion."

President Lane's statement follows:

"Player Hal Maggert has been unconditionally released by me because suspicious have been aroused where I cannot in justice to myself or to the Salt Lake baseball club permit him to continue with the club."

Gamblers Proffer Cash.

"During last week, at Los Angeles, it was reported to me that Player Borton of the Vernon club offered Pitcher Stroud of our club $300 to throw a game. The offer was refused even after it had been repeated. Immediately after this offer was made Borton left the Lanserhin hotel with Maggert and paid him at some Los Angeles bank the sum of $300, which Maggert admitted receiving but which he claimed was for a gambling debt incurred a year before."

I tried to secure the names of those who participated in this game but Maggert refused to give them and persistently refused to do so. On Thursday of last week, two days after this money had been paid, Maggert, the first man up to bat, deliberately provoked a quarrel with Umpire McGrew and so conducted himself despite the protests and pleas of his

OH, BY THE WAY—

Wilson Center of Attack.

While the democratic convention was in session and when it looked as if McAdoo would get the nomination, some of the most important republican papers in the country handled the news from day to day in a way that could only be explained on the theory that they were trying to make a flying start and gather as much momentum as possible for an anti-"dynasty," anti-"crown prince" campaign. It is no figure of speech, but literal fact, that these republican papers, like the San Francisco Chronicle and others equally important, used such words and phrases as "the dynastic succession," "hereditary crown prince" and "royal family" in a way that expressed a glowing intention to capitalize the relationship between Wilson and McAdoo.

Wilson Center of Attack.

Just before the democratic convention an important republican paper, which speaks more or less authoritatively, said:

"The republicans have at their disposal an infallible receipt for victory this year. All they need to do is to make Wilson, Wilsonism and the Wilson dynasty the issue."

"It is even easier than that. All they need to do is to permit Wilsonism to remain the issue. It is the issue now."

"The central subject of serious debate is President Wilson, his policies, his personality, his blunders, his egotism, his magnificent self-sufficiency, his theory of 'government by intuition.'"

"If the question can be put squarely to the American people: 'Do you or do you not endorse the Wilson administration, and do you or do you not favor a perpetuation of the Wilson dynasty?' there can be no doubt as to the answer."

"They (democrats) cannot escape responsibility for Wilsonism, even if they reveal an eleventh-hour intelligence, if not independence, and seek to flee the sinking ship. They have permitted Wilsonism. The republicans should register at the coming election a smashing and unforgettable condemnation of Wilsonism and should not permit themselves to be
