Two Lads Hold Highest Rank Possible in Organization.

HELD UP IN YOSEMITE

Youngsters Agog With Excitement Over Long Trip—Ride to Be Taken on Highway.

After a trip across the continent which included some of the wonders of the west which they had read and dreamed about, including a real "wild west" hold-up in Yosemite park, five Boy Scouts representing scout organizations from five boroughs of greater New York arrived in Portland yesterday morning to see for themselves the City of Roses and the far-famed Columbia river highway.

The trip is being made under the auspices of the Western Travelers association. F. E. Matthes of the United States geological survey and scoutmaster of the Washington organization is in charge of the party.

The boys were selected by competitive examination from approximately 12,000 candidates. They are: Earl McDermott and John Priest, are eagle scouts, which is the highest rank possible for a Boy Scout to attain. McDermott, who represents the borough of Manhattan, wears 26 special merit badges on his uniform, which represents a record for the department of scoutdom, and Priest from Brooklyn displays 24.

The boys are all with excitement of the trip. They had seen mountains and rivers and lakes and forests, all the things they had read about in their school books and scout stories. And down in the Yosemite a real bandit held them up.

Hold-Up Story Related. Young McDermott, who is 16 years of age, told about the encounter with the highwayman. He had told the story a dozen times already, he said, and probably will tell it with equal interest for the rest of his life.

"We were stopped by an automobile between Miami and Cedarbrook," said young McDermott, "when we saw a log blocking the road right ahead of us. As soon as we stopped, a man got up from behind the log with a sawed-off shotgun, and told us to throw up our hands. He was dressed in everything, and looked awfully tough. He had a sack over his head with holes cut in it through which and when he told us to throw up our hands we did so.

"But when Mr. Matthes told him we were Boy Scouts he said, 'All right, go on then, and I'll get the next bunch.' He did, too. There were two stages of the automobile between Miami and Cedarbrook, and a contingent of Portland scouts. After a breakfast given in their honor at Meier & Frank's, they were taken for an automobile ride over the city, and then to the Chamber of Commerce for luncheon, where they were entertained by Frank Branch Riley.

"We have here five representatives of young America," said Mr. Riley, "who are being taught that the magnificent mountains and valleys and resources of the west belong to them even as in the west we have a part in Greater New York. They are being taught that America belongs to them from the east to the west and from the north to the south, and that their country is not a mere strip of land, but a narrow limit of their own immediate environment."

The afternoon was spent on the Willamette river under the guidance of Captain Jacob Speier, Portland harbor master, ending at the Oaks with a picnic dinner. They will have breakfast as guests of Lipman, Wolfe & Co., today will be spent on the Columbia river and the evening on Council Crest.

Members of the visiting scout were Cyril McDermott, borough of Manhattan; Walter A. Perry, borough of Richmond; John Priest, borough of Brooklyn; John L. Breitweiser, borough of the Bronx; and Herbert Jacob, borough of Queens.

MOONSHINER FLEED, NOW LAW IS VOID

Ed Dusterhoff Must Serve His Six Months.

REVENUE ACT REPEALED

Judge Bean Rules Dry Law Kills Federal Statute; Prisoner Could Have Escaped Sentence.

Dusterhoff's vaunted luck failed him just at the moment when he had a golden opportunity of beating the law.

Hippodrome. A torn-up playing card that comes out of an unbroken eggshell all nicely patched together again is one of Hugh Johnston's playthings at the Hippodrome in his act on the new bill opening yesterday. While he fooled the audience with sleight-of-hand, Johnston keeps up a running fire of patter that gets him many laughs. He takes from the orchestra his pair of funny youngsters, Raymond and Edward, who assist him and incidentally attempt to walk off with a few of the stage fixtures.

The Maxine dancers have a classic number that has throughout a distinctly foreign air. There are two men who twirl like tops and do high jumping to the music, and a pair of four girls who do Spanish dances and other imported ones. In the troupe is also a graceful tumbler who can do a handstand when a green reporter goes out after his big scoop airplane lands a nice, pretty girl plump down on the stage, and there is the young man's story, as told in the delightful comedy episode put on by Blair and Bryant. The girl is vivacious and witty and works the reporter into a frenzy by her apparent ignorance of the comedy.

Backstage patter and songs make the appearance of Cooper and Lane a comedy and a feature play. The "Woman Who Understood," complete the program.

Something unusual in the line of aerobics is introduced by the Perinias, a team wherein the woman does practically all of the heavy supporting work. Her partner stands on her back and jumps all over her, finally winding up by letting the fair performer carry him about while he is perched on her shoulders.

A comedy and a feature play, "The Woman Who Understood," complete the program.

The case has been pending since then, but now that the law has been declared repealed the government will lose the $500 fine which he offered to pay.

The case of Ed Dusterhoff is considered the most striking of all those which have come to notice since the law was declared null and void. I was a Hopeless Invalid. Now Look at Me! ARE WE SOON TO BECOME A RACE OF BALD-HEADED MEN?

Prof. John H. Austin. Bacteriologist, Hair and Scalp Specialist of Chicago, Who Now Has Offices at The Owl Drug Co., Talking to You About the Hair.

He says baldness is increasing rapidly among men and points out some of the reasons. Prof. Austin is probably right in saying that only about one man in every hundred ever thinks about his hair at all, except to comb it once or three times a day. If it falls out he looks anxiously at the falling hair and then promptly forgets it until the next time he uses a comb.

A man will give the utmost attention to his teeth, because he knows that when trouble arises he will have more trouble and probably lose his teeth if he doesn't go to a dentist promptly. But his hair doesn't ache, it just gradually dies, and when it is nearly gone and the roots are dead he anxiously tries a dozen different remedies at once and then resigns himself to baldness.

Broken arteries—neurasthenia and hay fever are just a few of the ailments that were making his life miserable. "I've varieties of ill health" is the way he describes his condition. He was an addict to all kinds of medicine. Each new doctor gave him different treatments—but he grew steadily worse.

How he found the road back to health. Today he is one of the healthiest individuals you will find in a day's walk.

Mr. William R. Mayberry of Mechanics Falls, Me., believes he holds the world's record for the number and variety of disease harbored in a single body at one time. He also believes he holds another world's record for covering the distance between total sickness and complete health.

Prof. Austin examines the roots of your hair with a powerful microscope. He finds out just what is the trouble with YOUR HAIR, and then he tells you what to do for the trouble. FREE MICROSCOPIC EXAMINATION of the hair and scalp—both men and women invited. Private Offices at The Owl Drug Co., Broadway and Washington. Hours, 10 to 12 and 2 to 4—Adv.
