

Morning Oregonian

ESTABLISHED BY HENRY L. PITCOCK. Published by The Morning Oregonian Publishing Co., 1111 Commercial Street, Portland, Oregon.

The Oregonian is a member of the Associated Press. It is published daily, except on Sundays and public holidays. It is published for the owner by the Morning Oregonian Publishing Co.

Subscription Rates—Invariably in Advance. Daily, Sunday included, one year, $10.00. Daily, Sunday included, six months, $6.00. Daily, Sunday included, three months, $3.50. Daily, Sunday included, one month, $1.25.

How to Receive our News. If you wish to receive our news by mail, please send your name and address to the Morning Oregonian, 1111 Commercial Street, Portland, Oregon.

GOVERNOR COX PLEDGES. Governor Cox pays the price for the support of the Wilson forces in the democratic party.

He attacks Senator Harding's plan for peace with Germany and for association of the United States with other nations in the world.

He would not bear the thought of Senator Harding's declaration of a budget system. Mr. Cox only invited attention to the bill which the republican congress passed.

HE COULDN'T BEAR THE THOUGHT. To command confidence in his lofty and altruistic sincerity the congressman who has been elected most firmly to follow the flag into carnage, should not relax his pose when peril is past.

THE BRAZEN IMAGE OF JAZZ. Frivolous thundering in the senate against the riotous on the floor stage. Berlin and other major cities of Germany are reported to be steeped in saturnian revel.

A FEEDER TO PORTLAND COMMERCE. Establishment of a steamer line between Portland and all Oregon coast ports should add materially to the foreign commerce of this port.

OF AVERAGE MIND. Of average mind is the man who is not a democrat nor a republican, but a man who is a man.

places "in contrast with the exercise by the president of his own best final judgment," and he makes this positive statement:

In other words, if Mr. Cox should be elected, we should be condemned to four years more of autocracy like that of Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Cox shows himself adept at the art of saying the opposite of one element while apparently pledging himself to the principles held by an opposing element.

There is a suggestion of readiness to go beyond his platform in his recent campaign. He is ready to deal with the wounded and disabled only in his reference to rehabilitation and compensation.

Most unfortunate were the strictures on the republican congress for diverting the attention of the country to the front the fact that that tax was imposed by a democratic congress.

He attacks Senator Harding's plan for peace with Germany and for association of the United States with other nations in the world.

HE COULDN'T BEAR THE THOUGHT. To command confidence in his lofty and altruistic sincerity the congressman who has been elected most firmly to follow the flag into carnage, should not relax his pose when peril is past.

THE BRAZEN IMAGE OF JAZZ. Frivolous thundering in the senate against the riotous on the floor stage. Berlin and other major cities of Germany are reported to be steeped in saturnian revel.

A FEEDER TO PORTLAND COMMERCE. Establishment of a steamer line between Portland and all Oregon coast ports should add materially to the foreign commerce of this port.

OF AVERAGE MIND. Of average mind is the man who is not a democrat nor a republican, but a man who is a man.

OF AVERAGE MIND. Of average mind is the man who is not a democrat nor a republican, but a man who is a man.

OF AVERAGE MIND. Of average mind is the man who is not a democrat nor a republican, but a man who is a man.

California. It ships its products to San Francisco and, because its only transportation lines lead that way, it buys supplies there.

WHAT? NOT ONE? It is Governor Cox's estimate of the procedure of the present republican congress that "not a constructive bill can be cited."

The democratic candidate for president scraps out a measure of legislation, in a very few words. Possibly when he has more time he will elucidate at length the wrongs of the railway law, the shipping law, the water power law and others.

Mr. Cox shows himself adept at the art of saying the opposite of one element while apparently pledging himself to the principles held by an opposing element.

There is a suggestion of readiness to go beyond his platform in his recent campaign. He is ready to deal with the wounded and disabled only in his reference to rehabilitation and compensation.

HE COULDN'T BEAR THE THOUGHT. To command confidence in his lofty and altruistic sincerity the congressman who has been elected most firmly to follow the flag into carnage, should not relax his pose when peril is past.

THE BRAZEN IMAGE OF JAZZ. Frivolous thundering in the senate against the riotous on the floor stage. Berlin and other major cities of Germany are reported to be steeped in saturnian revel.

A FEEDER TO PORTLAND COMMERCE. Establishment of a steamer line between Portland and all Oregon coast ports should add materially to the foreign commerce of this port.

OF AVERAGE MIND. Of average mind is the man who is not a democrat nor a republican, but a man who is a man.

OF AVERAGE MIND. Of average mind is the man who is not a democrat nor a republican, but a man who is a man.

OF AVERAGE MIND. Of average mind is the man who is not a democrat nor a republican, but a man who is a man.

OF AVERAGE MIND. Of average mind is the man who is not a democrat nor a republican, but a man who is a man.

for the fast pace. It wrought startling effects in the garb of foolish women, it gave to youth the brassy insouciance of flippant ignorance.

BY-PRODUCTS OF THE TIMES. Philadelphia 100 Years Ago. An event of five years ago has elapsed since William Wurts, a Philadelphia merchant, drove his team of mules with the first ton of anthracite through the spring freshets and bog land.

But he experienced no little difficulty in getting the first ton of anthracite to Philadelphia on a pine log raft. It took him a week to get the coal to Philadelphia.

Reading, Wilkes. The names are spoken one thousand times hourly in the industrial world today, simply because there lay up in the hills of Pennsylvania a hard, black substance.

We have no quarrel with the fellow who writes headlines. We have to write them ourselves, and we know the difficulties of sense and space that confront the man who would put the contents of an article in large type and small area.

It is a matter for congratulation that there is to be some salvage from the enormous preliminary work done by the Interchurch World Conference.

Friend and mentor of many struggling young authors, and a peer in the field of letters, the late William Marion Reedy, editor of the St. Louis Mirror, has written his last paragraph and joined the great majority.

Enthusiasts in eastern Washington are going after sheriffs and attorneys seeking re-election who they suspect of laxity in enforcing prohibition.

The bulk of the male sex is satisfied with shaves and haircuts. Men who whisk the whiskers and indulge in other hirsute adornment, must meet the wrath of the barber's scale, and all is well.

Mr. Yeon has discovered more days of sunshine at The Dalles than he does at any other town and in the abundant rays of the sun, the God-given things Oregonians know but neglect to tell the world.

Why waste time on the fellow who threw his wife out of the boat and drowned her? He is sorry, of course, but cannot be any sorer after he is hanged.

The suffragists will have the thirty-sixth state when they get it. As to Tennessee, a few days will tell, with the uncertainty against ratification.

Philadelphia 100 Years Ago. An event of five years ago has elapsed since William Wurts, a Philadelphia merchant, drove his team of mules with the first ton of anthracite through the spring freshets and bog land.

But he experienced no little difficulty in getting the first ton of anthracite to Philadelphia on a pine log raft. It took him a week to get the coal to Philadelphia.

Reading, Wilkes. The names are spoken one thousand times hourly in the industrial world today, simply because there lay up in the hills of Pennsylvania a hard, black substance.

We have no quarrel with the fellow who writes headlines. We have to write them ourselves, and we know the difficulties of sense and space that confront the man who would put the contents of an article in large type and small area.

It is a matter for congratulation that there is to be some salvage from the enormous preliminary work done by the Interchurch World Conference.

Friend and mentor of many struggling young authors, and a peer in the field of letters, the late William Marion Reedy, editor of the St. Louis Mirror, has written his last paragraph and joined the great majority.

Enthusiasts in eastern Washington are going after sheriffs and attorneys seeking re-election who they suspect of laxity in enforcing prohibition.

The bulk of the male sex is satisfied with shaves and haircuts. Men who whisk the whiskers and indulge in other hirsute adornment, must meet the wrath of the barber's scale, and all is well.

Mr. Yeon has discovered more days of sunshine at The Dalles than he does at any other town and in the abundant rays of the sun, the God-given things Oregonians know but neglect to tell the world.

Why waste time on the fellow who threw his wife out of the boat and drowned her? He is sorry, of course, but cannot be any sorer after he is hanged.

The suffragists will have the thirty-sixth state when they get it. As to Tennessee, a few days will tell, with the uncertainty against ratification.

The suffragists will have the thirty-sixth state when they get it. As to Tennessee, a few days will tell, with the uncertainty against ratification.

Those Who Come and Go.

He's one of those two-fisted, fighting upholders of the law of eastern Oregon. In J. W. (Bill) Lillis, sheriff of Gilliam county, the law is the law.

Portland is very favorably known in the middle west and always lives up to her reputation as a clean, substantial city of business and homes.

Reading, Wilkes. The names are spoken one thousand times hourly in the industrial world today, simply because there lay up in the hills of Pennsylvania a hard, black substance.

We have no quarrel with the fellow who writes headlines. We have to write them ourselves, and we know the difficulties of sense and space that confront the man who would put the contents of an article in large type and small area.

It is a matter for congratulation that there is to be some salvage from the enormous preliminary work done by the Interchurch World Conference.

Friend and mentor of many struggling young authors, and a peer in the field of letters, the late William Marion Reedy, editor of the St. Louis Mirror, has written his last paragraph and joined the great majority.

Enthusiasts in eastern Washington are going after sheriffs and attorneys seeking re-election who they suspect of laxity in enforcing prohibition.

The bulk of the male sex is satisfied with shaves and haircuts. Men who whisk the whiskers and indulge in other hirsute adornment, must meet the wrath of the barber's scale, and all is well.

Mr. Yeon has discovered more days of sunshine at The Dalles than he does at any other town and in the abundant rays of the sun, the God-given things Oregonians know but neglect to tell the world.

Why waste time on the fellow who threw his wife out of the boat and drowned her? He is sorry, of course, but cannot be any sorer after he is hanged.

The suffragists will have the thirty-sixth state when they get it. As to Tennessee, a few days will tell, with the uncertainty against ratification.

The suffragists will have the thirty-sixth state when they get it. As to Tennessee, a few days will tell, with the uncertainty against ratification.

QUARRELS TAKEN OUT OF OREGON.

State Declared to Suffer from Chamberlain's Bows with Administration. PORTLAND, Aug. 7. (The Editor.)—It has been the cause of a good deal of comment in the press and on the street why Oregon has not been able to secure an even break from the federal government with the state of Washington, where senators and congressmen are republicans.

Portland is very favorably known in the middle west and always lives up to her reputation as a clean, substantial city of business and homes.

Reading, Wilkes. The names are spoken one thousand times hourly in the industrial world today, simply because there lay up in the hills of Pennsylvania a hard, black substance.

We have no quarrel with the fellow who writes headlines. We have to write them ourselves, and we know the difficulties of sense and space that confront the man who would put the contents of an article in large type and small area.

It is a matter for congratulation that there is to be some salvage from the enormous preliminary work done by the Interchurch World Conference.

Friend and mentor of many struggling young authors, and a peer in the field of letters, the late William Marion Reedy, editor of the St. Louis Mirror, has written his last paragraph and joined the great majority.

Enthusiasts in eastern Washington are going after sheriffs and attorneys seeking re-election who they suspect of laxity in enforcing prohibition.

The bulk of the male sex is satisfied with shaves and haircuts. Men who whisk the whiskers and indulge in other hirsute adornment, must meet the wrath of the barber's scale, and all is well.

Mr. Yeon has discovered more days of sunshine at The Dalles than he does at any other town and in the abundant rays of the sun, the God-given things Oregonians know but neglect to tell the world.

Why waste time on the fellow who threw his wife out of the boat and drowned her? He is sorry, of course, but cannot be any sorer after he is hanged.

The suffragists will have the thirty-sixth state when they get it. As to Tennessee, a few days will tell, with the uncertainty against ratification.

The suffragists will have the thirty-sixth state when they get it. As to Tennessee, a few days will tell, with the uncertainty against ratification.

In Other Days.

Twenty-Five Years Ago. From The Oregonian of August 6, 1895. Hong Kong—The American and British consuls, and a party of about 200 men, were attacked yesterday afternoon by a large mob. The consuls were demolished.

Portland is very favorably known in the middle west and always lives up to her reputation as a clean, substantial city of business and homes.

Reading, Wilkes. The names are spoken one thousand times hourly in the industrial world today, simply because there lay up in the hills of Pennsylvania a hard, black substance.

We have no quarrel with the fellow who writes headlines. We have to write them ourselves, and we know the difficulties of sense and space that confront the man who would put the contents of an article in large type and small area.

It is a matter for congratulation that there is to be some salvage from the enormous preliminary work done by the Interchurch World Conference.

Friend and mentor of many struggling young authors, and a peer in the field of letters, the late William Marion Reedy, editor of the St. Louis Mirror, has written his last paragraph and joined the great majority.

Enthusiasts in eastern Washington are going after sheriffs and attorneys seeking re-election who they suspect of laxity in enforcing prohibition.

The bulk of the male sex is satisfied with shaves and haircuts. Men who whisk the whiskers and indulge in other hirsute adornment, must meet the wrath of the barber's scale, and all is well.

Mr. Yeon has discovered more days of sunshine at The Dalles than he does at any other town and in the abundant rays of the sun, the God-given things Oregonians know but neglect to tell the world.

Why waste time on the fellow who threw his wife out of the boat and drowned her? He is sorry, of course, but cannot be any sorer after he is hanged.

The suffragists will have the thirty-sixth state when they get it. As to Tennessee, a few days will tell, with the uncertainty against ratification.

The suffragists will have the thirty-sixth state when they get it. As to Tennessee, a few days will tell, with the uncertainty against ratification.

Vertical text on the right edge of the page, likely a scanning artifact or bleed-through from the reverse side.