DALLES CITY, U. S. DEGREE

UNCLE SAM ASSERTS THE DALLES NOT ON MAP.

Warfare With Dallas Over Change of Names Because of Mail Mixups May Now Cease.

THE DALLES, Or., Aug. 22 .- (Special.)-Although this city has been known by its present name for nearly 75 years, Uncle Sam boldly announces that The Dalles is not even on his maps, but that its official title is 'Dalles City."

Dallas and The Dalles editors and residents may now cease the verbal and printed war they have waged to get this city named "Fort Dalles" or Dallas called something else in order to avoid mail and express mix-ups, because of the similarity of names Uncle Sam says this city is "Dalles City" and not what some, or most, all persons think it. It came about in this way. Mayor Stadleman and other captains of industry here organized the Citizens National bank of The Dalles and ap-plied to the controller of the currency for a national bank charter in that

The treasury officials said it could not be done, after they searched through Uncle Sam's old records, be-cause the papers said that "The Dalles" did not exist, that it was not even on the map. "Dailes City" was the official name of this city, they decreed, and they were agreeable to issuing a charter for a national bank of "Dalles City," but not one for some place named The Dalles. Naturally, residents of The Dalles lost the argument and supporters of "Dalles City" won, so the new financial institution will be the "Citizens" National Bank of Dalles City."
